Village directs officials to apply for housing

The Arlington Heights Village Board voted Monday night to direct the village administration to prepare an application for $134,000 in community development funds.

The board will review the application and the housing assistance plan that must accompany it at a special meeting Jan. 12. The final decision on whether to apply for the funds will be made Jan. 19.

It took three votes before the motion was finally approved. Casting the deciding vote was Trustee August Bett man who first voted no, then passed and then, after a five-minute recess, reopened the question and voted in favor of applying for the funds made available under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

BETTMAN, who is chairman of the board's downtown revitalization committee, said he passed because the board could not agree on how the funds should be used.

"These funds should only be applied for if we have a specific need. All of this tells me we don't have a specific need," Bettman said.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan said it would be "a great disservice to the community" not to apply for the funds. "This is an awful lot of money for them not to have returned to them from the federal government. Here is an opportunity to take some tax pressure off Arlington Heights homeowners."

THE VILLAGE did not apply for the funds last year, passing up more than $400,000.

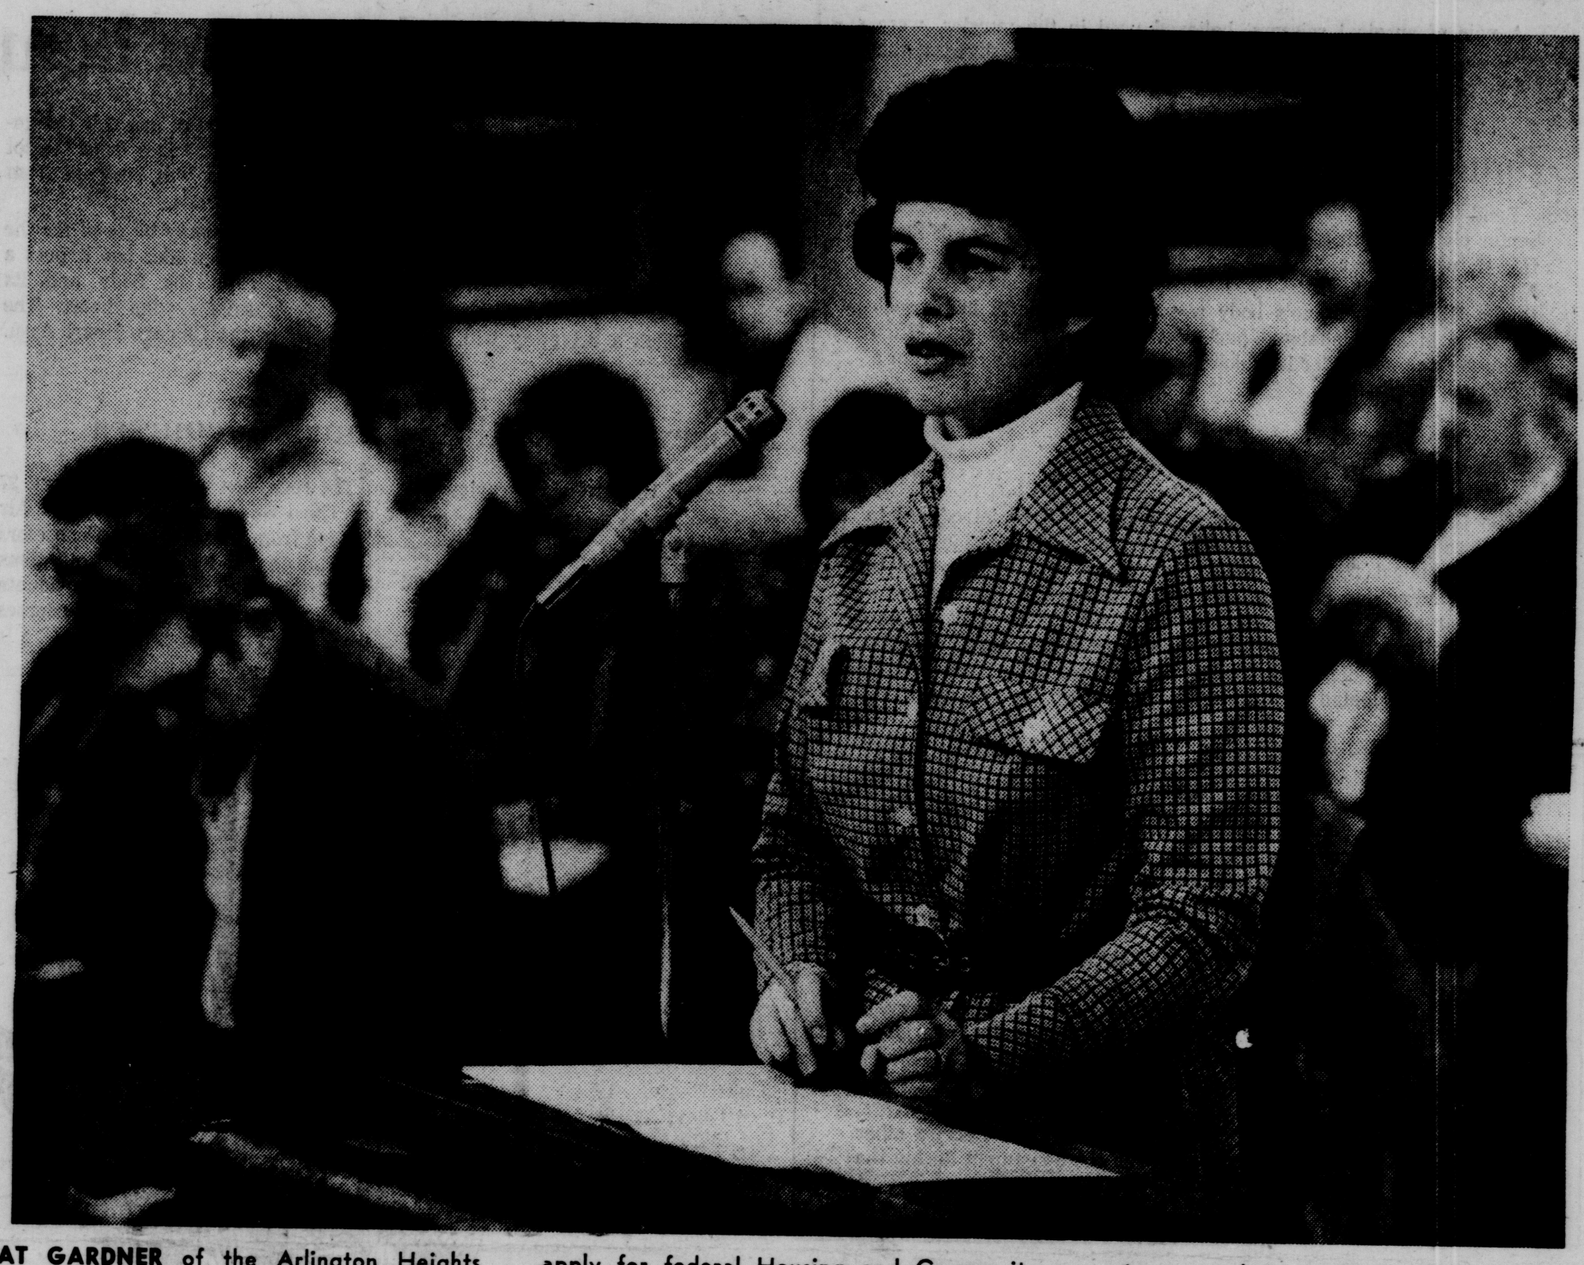

By not applying for the funds two years in a row, Arlington Heights would be passing up more than $900,000 available if the program is extended for several years, Ryan and Trustee David Griffin pointed out. Joining them and Bettman in favor of applying for the funds were Trustees Frank Palmatier and Madeline Schroeder.

Voting against the application were O. V. Anderson, Richard Durava, Robert Miller and Alice Harms.

"I think it's precipitous to apply for funds when there is no pressing need for them," Durava said. "We don't know what we would do with them if we did receive them."

Application for the funds was also opposed because of the requirement that a housing assistance plan also be submitted and because there were no assurances that rules regarding the use of the funds would not change.

"ANYONE WHO reads the newspapers knows what type of a mess HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) has made of past housing programs," said Mrs. Harms.

PAT GARDNER of the Arlington Heights Housing Commission told village board members requirements needed for the village to apply for federal Housing and Community Development funds. The board, after three votes agreed to apply for federal housing assistance.

Village landfill plan is topic of flood panel meet

A proposal from Stanley Consultants to develop a master plan for the Arlington Heights landfill will be reviewed tonight by the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

The committee will also ask the consulting firm to determine if dirt-dumping at the landfill at Nichols and Schaefer roads in the north edge of the village will be compatible with the recreational plans for the site, said Village Trustee Frank Palmatier, committee chairman.

The cost of dumping dirt excavated from flood-control projects in the village will be reduced if the landfill site is used because of shorter haul-in distances, Palmatier said.

The committee also will consider design outlines for the former Pioneer Park flood control project that now calls for the expansion of the Wilke-Kirchoff flood basin and the proposed retention reservoir for the Ridge Park-Sherwood neighborhoods.

The committee will meet at 8 p.m. in the municipal buildng, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Kids undo school vandals' legacy

by PAM BIGFORD

School was back in session Monday in the Northwest suburbs following winter break, but the lessons being learned in two schools were very different from usual daily lessons.

Students in Gregory School in Mount Prospect and Dunton School in Arlington Heights passed up the three Rs Monday in favor of helping their teachers straighten out their vandalized classrooms.

Both schools were ravaged Dec. 26 by vandals who caused at least $125,000 damage at Gregory and at least $15,000 damage at Dunton. Police have charged three youths, ages 12, 13 and 14, with the crimes.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS had been unsure if the schools would open on time, but said maintenance crews did such an excellent job of cleaning up the destruction that little of the damage remained.

At Dunton, where all but five classrooms were torn up and almost all the glass was broken, "everything is in operation," said Principal Chester Raasch.

Raasch said workmen are still in the school replacing glass and that teachers and children spent the day putting materials back in order and listing what items were destroyed.

"The kids are kind of surprised that so much of the glass has been replaced already, and our attitude has been that we're glad we're back," he said.

The staff at Gregory expects to be working under "a bit of a handicap" because all of their office machines were broken, said principal Michael Smith. Almost all of Gregory's plumbing had been smashed, and these have been repaired, he said.

SMITH SAID MINOR repairs still need to be made, including wall cleanings, tile replacement and door repairs. Renovations that were scheduled to be completed during the vacation also remain to be finished, he said.

"There was a definite degree of excitement in the air when the kids first came in," Smith said. "They had seen pictures of the damage on TV and in the papers, but they were still a little overwhelmed by it all."

Smith said many teachers had come in during their vacation to straighten out their classrooms, but students were still helping them Monday. The vandals had entered every classroom at Gregory.

Officials in Arlington Heights Dist. 25, where Dunton is located, and in the Northwest Suburban Education Organization, which operates Gregory as a school for the emotionally disturbed, have been meeting to determine what legal action may be taken against the persons responsible for the vandalism.

Both groups said their actions will depend on action taken Jan. 12 when the youths charged with the crimes are scheduled to appear in the Niles branch of the Cook County Juvenile Court.

County boosts sales tax 50% for cars, trucks

Car buyers in Cook County will pay a $15 county sales tax on their new cars beginning Feb. 1, an increase of 50 per cent over the present $10 tax.

The Cook County Board approved the increased sales tax on new cars, motorcycles, trucks and construction equipment Monday. The tax on motorcycles will go from $5 to $7.50 and on trucks from $15 to $22.50.

County Board Pres. George W. Dunne said the tax increase will mean $1.2 million in additional revenue for the county this year. The tax increase is one of a series of moves Dunne has proposed this year as a way to eliminate a projected budget deficit.

IN OTHER ACTION Monday, the county board granted Cook County Clerk Stanley Kusper permission to contract with printers for printing the ballots for the March 16 primary election without competitive bidding, and dropped an ordinance requiring county employes to reitre at age 75.

Kusper said it was impossible to bid the ballot printing project because time limits on filing and withdrawal of names from the primary election are so close to the actual primary.

"We don't even know what the ballots are going to look like," Kusper said. "If I went to the purchasing agent and said we want to bid a ballot and we think it will be so wide and so long and there will be about this many names on it, the bidders would look at me and say, 'you're crazy.' "

Kusper said much of the work on planning the ballots must begin immediately, even though the final date for candidates to withdraw their names will not come until near the end of the month.

Dunne said the action repealing the required age for retirement of county employes was needed because the county has received complaints that the mandatory age is unfair discrimination. He said, "Rather than have a mandatory age, we're going to impose the responsibility on supervisors to evaluate employes and recommend termination of unproductive employes."

Man, 18, arrested for attempted rape

An Arlington Heights man was arrested Monday for allegedly attempting to rape two teenaged females two weeks ago in the 1300 block of W. Northwest Hwy., police said.

Eric A. Bloom, 18, of 1345 N. Chicago Ave., was charged with attempted rape, battery and public indecency.

Police said Bloom allegedly exposed himself to the girls and then assaulted them. Bloom was released after posting $5,000 in bonds pending an appearance Friday in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Environment unit asks building law

The Environmental Control Commission could emerge as a stronger voice on future development in Arlington Heights under a proposed ordinance.

The commission has proposed an ordinance that would deny building and occupancy permits "on the basis of adverse or incomplete environmental assessment."

The assessment would be made by the environmental unit based upon impact reports filed with the commission by developers of residential projects of more than one acre and "all commercial and industrial development."

The proposed ordinance is part of changes in the functions of the commission being studied by the Special Committee on Environmental Impact Assessment.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL unit is seeking authority to review new developments and submit reviews to the village plan commission. If approved, the environmental unit would become part of village procedures in granting or denying approval of new construction.

The special environmental committee, headed by Trustee Madeline Schroeder, will meet today at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The meeting will focus on a proposed environmental impact questionnaire and the role it should take in the approval procedure.

The recommended questionnaire covers the proposed use and hours of operation of commercial developments, numbers of residents or employes and the percentages of the site to be covered by buildings and paving. The questionnaire would also ask for projected water and electrical uses and the amount and disposition of excavated material.

ANOTHER PORTION of the questionnaire calls for the developer to say if the project will affect recreational or aesthetic areas; the functioning of established communities; natural wildlife habitats, or historical and archeological sites.

The additional authority is being sought because of problems that surrounded the proposed professional football stadium at Arlington Park Race Track.

Meetings between developers and the commission often became heated, and at one point an attorney was threatened with ejection by commission Chairman Jean Hanlon.

Murder suspect gives up to police

A man wanted by police in connection with the Jan. 1 stabbing death of a Des Plaines man, gave himself up to Texas authorities Monday, saying he wanted protection from the victim's friends. Luis Lara, 48, who apparently was fleeing to his Mexico home, was being held in Wylie, Tex., awaiting extradition to Illinois on the murder charge. Lara is charged with stabbing to death Gustavo Macias, 27, during a fight at the Rio Rand Motel, 173 N. River Rd., police said.

A pair of surgical scissors, believed used in the murder, were recovered at the scene, police said. Macias reportedly lived at the hotel.

Bond set in Libertyville murder

Bond was set at $500,000 Monday for a Libertyville High School senior charged with the murder of a 16-year-old girl. Frank Slago III, 17, of 322 Lake St., was arrested Sunday for the murder of Kimberly Muno, 16, of 926 Fairlawn, Libertyville, a junior at Libertyville High. Miss Muno's body was found face down in a creek Saturday in an uninhabited part of Waukegan. Police said Slago confessed to the murder in which Miss Muno reportedly died from a blow to the throat.

Zero-budget forms debut

Elk Grove Village department supervisors will be introduced to new zero-budget request forms tonight in a training session. Under the new budget request system, supervisors will be required to justify funding for all programs and determine if funding for a particular activity can be obtained elsewhere. "You don't assume you have it next year just because you had it this year," Trustee Theodore J. Staddler said. The new forms are being used to help offset an anticipated $1 million budget deficit for the upcoming fiscal year.

Faux pas for Panther suit judge

A federal court judge said Monday, in a statement before a panel of 200 prospective jurors, that there was "a gun battle in the apartment" where two Black Panther leaders were slain in 1969. Attorneys for survivors of the raid and the two slain Panther leaders, who have filed a $47.7 million suit to collect damages for the raid, said they will "strongly object" to the statement by U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry. He said he will ask Perry to correct the statement today. The judge told the prospective jurors on the opening day of the trial that both sides agreed there was a gun battle in the apartment where Fred Hampton and Mark Clark were killed. G. Flint Taylor, one of the attorneys for the survivors, said his clients denied there was a gun battle and Perry's other contention that there were no lights on in the apartment during the raid.

Cut to save $18,000 a year

County board loses allowance

Cook County commissioners lost their $100 a month expense allowance Monday as part of a budget cutting move by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

The board approved elimination of the expense account with four of the five suburban Republican commissioners abstaining. Before the vote, suburban commissioners said they were concerned because a decision about reimbursing commissioners for expenses now will be left to the discretion of Dunne.

The expense allowance amounts to $18,000 a year in the county's budget, which totals more than $150 million.

Dunne said without the expense allowance, commissioners can come to him with expenses they incur as part of their office and "I'll approve them if they are warranted."

Comr. John Stroger, a Chicago Democrat, asked Dunne, "What are we commissioners supposed to do when we have lunch with somebody who thinks we should pay the check?"

DUNNE SAID the elimination of the allowance is needed because "we have a very serious financial problem." He told Stroger, "If somebody wants to have lunch with you to discuss county business, set yourself up as a freeloader."

Comr. Carl Hansen of Elk Grove Township said he did not like the expense account elimination because it contained the $100 a month limit. "Now we'll have no limit at all," he said.

In addition, Hansen said, "Since the president is a member of one party and there is a minority party, there is no guarantee that the approvals of expenditures will be allocated dispassionately."

Hansen said he agrees with the need for commissioners to cut expenses, but said, "It should be expected that they would exercise prudence."

Dunne said the county board, with its $24,000 a year salary "is the highest paid legislature in the state. We're not trying to hurt anybody, but we're going to accomplish two things. We'll set at example and we'll put our own house in order."

Following the meeting, Dunne said the county's 1976 budget hearings will be scheduled soon. He said he does not believe there will be any money for raises for county employes in the budget. "I'm not going to raise property taxes," he said.

Snow shovelers run heart risk

United Press International

Doctors warn that those who dig their cars out of snow drifts could end up digging their own graves.

A three-inch cover of snow on a 16-by-10 foot driveway will weigh from 100 to 500 pounds. The average person shoveling such a driveway will burn up from 550 to 800 calories. If the garage is set back 30 feet from the lot line, the shoveler will burn up from 1,000 to 1,500 calories.

Such an effort may be good for the overweight householder but it puts a great strain on the body and its primary muscle — the heart. The president of the Chicago Heart Assn. said that strain could lead quickly to a heart attack.

"You could get into trouble after five minutes of snow shoveling and not have gotten into much shoveling in that five minutes of time . . . " said Dr. James Schoenberger.

When a person undertakes strenuous activity, the heart pumps more blood through the body. In turn, the heart needs more blood to nourish itself. If something prevents enough blood from feeding an area of the heart, the cells in that area will die. This, basically, is a heart attack.

People in the 35-to-45 age range and above, diabetics and those with a family history of coronary artery disease should be wary of snow shoveling, even if heart problems have not appeared earlier.

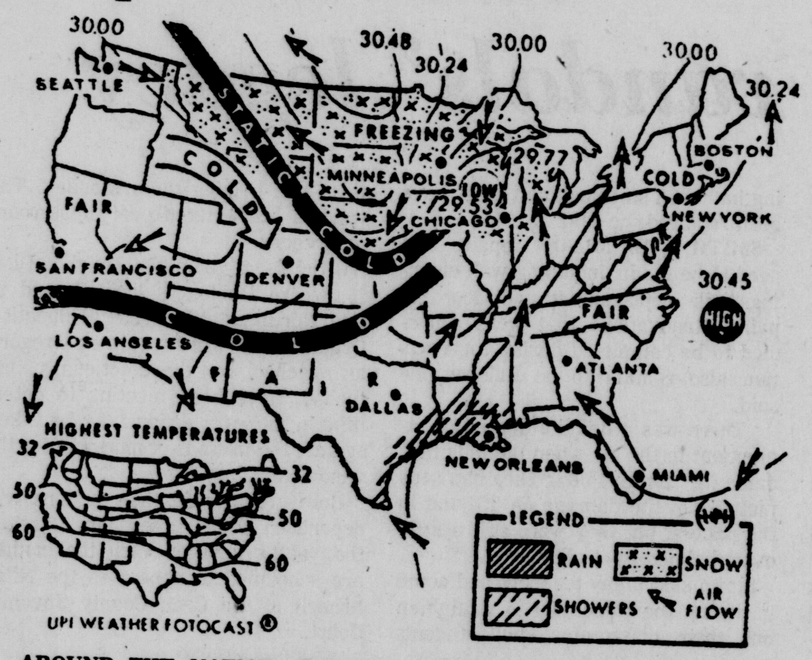

Roosevelt to outline suburban courses

Roosevelt University's Glenview extension division will hold an open house Wednesday and Thursday for Northwest suburban residents seeking information on the university's suburban-based degree programs.

The reception will be in Building 27 on Third St., at Glenview Naval Air Station from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Counselors will be on hand to answer questions about the approximately 40 graduate and undergraduate degree courses now offered at Glenview.

Murder suspect gives up to police

A man wanted by police in connection with the Jan. 1 stabbing death of a Des Plaines man, gave himself up to Texas authorities Monday, saying he wanted protection from the victim's friends. Luis Lara, 48, who apparently was fleeing to his Mexico home, was being held in Wylie, Tex., awaiting extradition to Illinois on the murder charge. Lara is charged with stabbing to death Gustavo Macias, 27, during a fight at the Rio Rand Motel, 173 N. River Rd., police said.

A pair of surgical scissors, believed used in the murder, were recovered at the scene, police said. Macias reportedly lived at the hotel.

Bond set in Libertyville murder

Bond was set at $500,000 Monday for a Libertyville High School senior charged with the murder of a 16-year-old girl. Frank Slago III, 17, of 322 Lake St., was arrested Sunday for the murder of Kimberly Muno, 16, of 926 Fairlawn, Libertyville, a junior at Libertyville High. Miss Muno's body was found face down in a creek Saturday in an uninhabited part of Waukegan. Police said Slago confessed to the murder in which Miss Muno reportedly died from a blow to the throat.

Zero-budget forms debut

Elk Grove Village department supervisors will be introduced to new zero-budget request forms tonight in a training session. Under the new budget request system, supervisors will be required to justify funding for all programs and determine if funding for a particular activity can be obtained elsewhere. "You don't assume you have it next year just because you had it this year," Trustee Theodore J. Staddler said. The new forms are being used to help offset an anticipated $1 million budget deficit for the upcoming fiscal year.

Faux pas for Panther suit judge

A federal court judge said Monday, in a statement before a panel of 200 prospective jurors, that there was "a gun battle in the apartment" where two Black Panther leaders were slain in 1969. Attorneys for survivors of the raid and the two slain Panther leaders, who have filed a $47.7 million suit to collect damages for the raid, said they will "strongly object" to the statement by U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry. He said he will ask Perry to correct the statement today. The judge told the prospective jurors on the opening day of the trial that both sides agreed there was a gun battle in the apartment where Fred Hampton and Mark Clark were killed. G. Flint Taylor, one of the attorneys for the survivors, said his clients denied there was a gun battle and Perry's other contention that there were no lights on in the apartment during the raid.

Cut to save $18,000 a year

County board loses allowance

Cook County commissioners lost their $100 a month expense allowance Monday as part of a budget cutting move by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

The board approved elimination of the expense account with four of the five suburban Republican commissioners abstaining. Before the vote, suburban commissioners said they were concerned because a decision about reimbursing commissioners for expenses now will be left to the discretion of Dunne.

The expense allowance amounts to $18,000 a year in the county's budget, which totals more than $150 million.

Dunne said without the expense allowance, commissioners can come to him with expenses they incur as part of their office and "I'll approve them if they are warranted."

Comr. John Stroger, a Chicago Democrat, asked Dunne, "What are we commissioners supposed to do when we have lunch with somebody who thinks we should pay the check?"

DUNNE SAID the elimination of the allowance is needed because "we have a very serious financial problem." He told Stroger, "If somebody wants to have lunch with you to discuss county business, set yourself up as a freeloader."

Comr. Carl Hansen of Elk Grove Township said he did not like the expense account elimination because it contained the $100 a month limit. "Now we'll have no limit at all," he said.

In addition, Hansen said, "Since the president is a member of one party and there is a minority party, there is no guarantee that the approvals of expenditures will be allocated dispassionately."

Hansen said he agrees with the need for commissioners to cut expenses, but said, "It should be expected that they would exercise prudence."

Dunne said the county board, with its $24,000 a year salary "is the highest paid legislature in the state. We're not trying to hurt anybody, but we're going to accomplish two things. We'll set at example and we'll put our own house in order."

Following the meeting, Dunne said the county's 1976 budget hearings will be scheduled soon. He said he does not believe there will be any money for raises for county employes in the budget. "I'm not going to raise property taxes," he said.

Snow shovelers run heart risk

United Press International

Doctors warn that those who dig their cars out of snow drifts could end up digging their own graves.

A three-inch cover of snow on a 16-by-10 foot driveway will weigh from 100 to 500 pounds. The average person shoveling such a driveway will burn up from 550 to 800 calories. If the garage is set back 30 feet from the lot line, the shoveler will burn up from 1,000 to 1,500 calories.

Such an effort may be good for the overweight householder but it puts a great strain on the body and its primary muscle — the heart. The president of the Chicago Heart Assn. said that strain could lead quickly to a heart attack.

"You could get into trouble after five minutes of snow shoveling and not have gotten into much shoveling in that five minutes of time . . . " said Dr. James Schoenberger.

When a person undertakes strenuous activity, the heart pumps more blood through the body. In turn, the heart needs more blood to nourish itself. If something prevents enough blood from feeding an area of the heart, the cells in that area will die. This, basically, is a heart attack.

People in the 35-to-45 age range and above, diabetics and those with a family history of coronary artery disease should be wary of snow shoveling, even if heart problems have not appeared earlier.

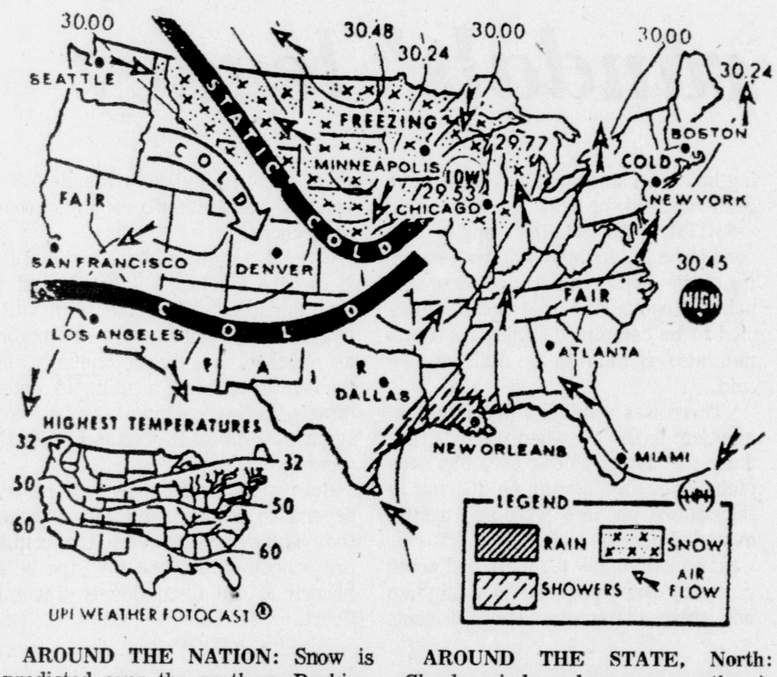

Roosevelt to outline suburban courses

Roosevelt University's Glenview extension division will hold an open house Wednesday and Thursday for Northwest suburban residents seeking information on the university's suburban-based degree programs.

The reception will be in Building 27 on Third St., at Glenview Naval Air Station from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Counselors will be on hand to answer questions about the approximately 40 graduate and undergraduate degree courses now offered at Glenview.

Action to halt Soviet power push hinted

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — President Ford said Monday the situation in Angola is improving but the United States will take "appropriate limited measures" to stop the push of Soviet power throughout the world.

Ford told a group of Midwest newspaper executives, "the situation there is better today than yesterday," according to John Carlson, deputy White House press secretary.

Asked by an editor what he would do if the Soviets poured more money and arms into Angola, the President replied, according to Carlson, "I do not presume that is going to happen. I don't think that will be the result."

Ford then said the Angolan situation was improving, Carlson said.

Earlier, the President told the convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation that U.S.-Soviet rivalry such as in Angola, "has, unfortunately, not ceased."

"The answer is to take appropriate limited measures necessary to block — and stop — Soviet actions that we find unacceptable. And we will."

Ford told the farm delegates he wants a cease-fire in Angola, but that shutting off grain sales to Russia because of Soviet Angolan operations would help nobody — not Angola, U.S-Soviet relations or the American farmer.

Carlson said Ford told the editors:

• "My intention is to enter all the presidential primaries" although White House duties may not allow this. And asked if he expected to win them: "I'm always an optimist. The prospects look good."

• Concerning possible new embargos on foreign grain sales, "there is always the possibility of agricultural disaster," but aside from that he saw little chance this might be done.

• He still wants $10 billion more in income tax relief for individuals and business than has been voted by Congress.

Ford sat in an easy chair next to a fireplace and spoke to about 18 editors.

In his speech, Ford called for a cease-fire and an end to foreign involvement in Angola in order that Angolans could decide their future for themselves.

The statement echoed the Communist newspaper Pravda's call during the weekend for an end to foreign involvement in Angola.

As Ford talked of limited measures to stop the Soviet push throughout the world, Radio Luanda reported Angola's pro-Marxist guerrillas, backed by Cuban troops and Soviet arms, fought their way into the northern military stronghold of its pro-western rivals.

A military communique heard in Johannesburg said the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola had captured Uige, the heavily defended military and political headquarters of the pro-Western National Front for the Liberation of Angola.

Two American aircraft at the airport were destroyed and "several hundred tons" of arms and equipment, including armored cars and trucks were captured, the broadcast said.

Radio Luanda also said the nearby airbase of Negage was taken by the Marxist-led troops. The town was a vital point on the route for men and military supplies from neighboring Zaire.

Western diplomatic sources said the fall of Uige and Negage would be a severe blow for the pro-Western forces.

U.S. told Concorde ban could lead to 'consequences'

GERALD KAUFMAN, of the British Dept. of Industry, left, and Claude Abraham, Civil Aviation Dept. of France, warned the U.S. Transportation Dept. that rejection of the Concorde might trigger retaliation against U.S. airlines and aircraft industry.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In a sharp reversal, the Environmental Protection Agency said Monday the Concorde supersonic transport should be banned from flying to New York and Washington and probably any other U.S. city.

The new EPA stand, presented by Assistant Administrator Roger Strelow, drew heated cross-examination from Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. It came after the French and British governments warned of "political consequences" if the Concorde is barred from the United States.

"Introduction of Concorde service runs directly counter to the noise abatement and other environmental policies and programs of the United States," Strelow said.

Strelow and other witnesses — pro and con — appeared at special hearings before Coleman on the question of letting the Concorde land in the United States. Coleman is to rule in 30 days on requests for four flights to and from Kennedy Airport in New York and two flights at Dulles Airport outside Washington.

Strelow said Concorde service "will subject people to significant environmental impacts and will undermine and negate essential abatement efforts now under way. The applications for Concorde SST flights. . .should be denied."

The EPA previously said the Concorde was four to eight times as noisy as subsonic jetliners, but suggested it should be judged on an airport-by-airport basis.

Coleman, interrupting frequently, noted the EPA switch and challenged the assumption there might be 25 SST flights a day to New York and five a day to Washington.

But Strelow said, "If the door is opened a crack, it is not likely to be closed later against further pressures."

Coleman challenged Strelow's statement the Concorde uses two to three times as much fuel per passenger as subsonic jetliners, saying Boeing 747 Jumbo jets fly the Atlantic with empty seats and "the 747 uses more fuel per passenger than the Concorde."

When Coleman asked if there were any U.S. airports the Concorde should be allowed to use, Strelow said the SST's environmental threats "certainly weigh against letting it in anywhere at the present time."

Earlier in the hearing, the British and French governments said a decision to ban the Concorde "undoubtedly would have political consequences in both France and the United Kingdom."

They noted the United States produces 95 per cent of the free world's aircraft and "any move by the United States which might be interpreted as protectionist or discriminatory would tend 'throughout the world' to threaten the relatively free and uninhibited environment in which aviation products are bought and sold."

AMC 'dirty cars' fined $4.2 million

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The state Air Resources Board, in a tough disciplinary move, Monday fined American Motors Corp. $4.2 million for producing cars it said pollute the air and for submitting false test reports to the state.

The board also stopped sales in California of all AMC Matadors, Hornets and Gremlins powered by the company's V-8 engine and launched an investigation to determine if American Motors intentionally falsified the test reports.

Officials said the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. attorney's office will assist the state in its probe, which board Chairman Thomas Quinn said could result in additional legal action.

Quinn said the $4.2 million fine was the strongest disciplinary action ever taken against an automobile manufacturer.

He said ARB engineers became suspicious of American Motors' testing several months ago after the company submitted reports indicating their cars were among the cleanest produced anywhere in the world.

The state then conducted a series of 39 tests which showed that 85 per cent of those cars failed either California emission standards for carbon monoxide or oxides of nitrogen.

"We have never seen so many dirty cars," Quinn said. "But even more serious is the fact that American Motors submitted false reports to the state which indicated that their cars were actually very clean."

Officials said the stop-sale order, which will become effective at midnight Tuesday, affects only models containing AMC's V-8 engine. Quinn said 1,239 such cars are scheduled for sale in California.

Board officials said additional tests will be conducted on American Motors' six cylinder engines to see if they meet the state's anti-smog laws.

In Detroit, meantime, the four U.S. auto companies Monday reported their eighth consecutive sales gain with mid-December new car sales up nearly 30 per cent over disastrous year-ago levels.

All four companies shared in the jump over 1974's Dec. 11-20 sales which were the lowest for any non-strike period in more than 14 years. American Motors reported a 43 per cent gain, Ford was up 42 per cent, Chrysler jumped 41 per cent and General Motors was up 21 per cent.

10 Protestants killed near Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gunmen waving a red lantern flagged down a bus Monday evening and shot 10 Protestant workers to death with a variety of weapons in the worst mass murder in six years of sectarian violence in Northern Ireland.

An 11th Protestant worker was critically wounded in what the government called "Al Capone gangsterism."

Police said a gray minibus carrying 11 men home from work in a shirt factory was ambushed on an isolated stretch of road in the border county of South Armagh by 10 to 12 gunmen, apparently in retaliation for the slaying of five Roman Catholics in two shooting incidents in the area Sunday.

The 11 passengers and the driver were ordered outside the vehicle near the lonely crossroads of Kings Mill, 35 miles south of Belfast. Police said that when the men were asked to give their names the driver identified himself as a Catholic and was led aside to safety. The others were shot down.

The small gray bus was on its regular run taking workers home from a shirt factory at the village of Glenaan, 35 miles southwest of Belfast when the ambush was sprung.

A security forces spokesman said the attack on the road between Newry and Whitecross, on the border, was the worst single mass assassination in the six years of Ulster violence involving Catholics, Protestants and British troops.

Thirteen persons were killed by the British army in the infamous "Bloody Sunday" of 1972 and as many as 10 persons have been killed in bomb attacks. But never so many in a cold blooded slaughter.

Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees, Britain's top official in the province, condemned the killings as "sectarian murders pure and simple — Al Capone gangsterism."

"It is not political," Rees said of the increased violence. "It is straight gangsterism and retaliation breeds retaliation." He expressed fears that the violence would continue to escalate and said he was considering drafting still more troop reinforcements into South Armagh.

The militant Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army threatened Saturday to end the cease-fire if Britain did not pull its troops out of Ulster.

7 die as new storm lashes Scandinavia

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — A new storm battered Scandinavia Monday with hurricane-force winds, snow, rain and thunder and lightning in the wake of a weekend tempest which wreaked death and destruction in Britain and western and central Europe.

Seven persons died in the new storm when their fishing boat capsized Monday off the island of Senja in northern Norway. A Coast Guard spokesman said the fishermen were lost "with no hope of finding anyone alive."

At least 53 persons were killed and up to 14 others reported missing in the weekend storm. Damages were estimated in the millions of dollars.

The new storm moved west from Scotland over the North Sea, slashing across Norway, Denmark and Sweden. At the Vinga lighthouse just outside the Swedish west coast port city of Goteborg, the storm's wind strength was measured up to 90 miles per hour — 17 miles per hour above hurricane force.

Hostages on Japan jet freed

MANILA (UPI) — Two "friendly" Filipino brothers who dreamed of becoming pilots seized a Japan Air Lines jetliner Monday and threatened to kill the more than 200 passengers aboard unless they got free passage to Japan. But they surrendered 10 hours later without anyone being hurt.

Police said the brothers, aged 24 and 18, freed their hostages hours before surrendering in return for assurance they would be allowed to fly to Tokyo as demanded. But when the Japanese government sent word it would not let the plane land, they gave up.

Japan Air Lines purser Senichiro Watanabe said the brothers posed as airport staff members and that both carried snub-nosed revolvers and the younger hijacker had strapped explosives to his body.

Watanabe said the young men told him they came from a poor family and their dream to undergo pilot training in Japan drove them to hijack the plane which carried 223 passengers and crew members.

402 die in holiday traffic

The New Year weekend traffic toll was 402, the lowest in 14 years for a four-day turn-of-the-year holiday. The National Safety Council said the count by United Press International Monday "seems to reflect a general decline in traffic fatalities that we have seen for about the last 18 months." The NSC had estimated that 350 to 400 persons would die in traffic in the holiday period which began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday.

Brooklyn oil tank explodes again

A 2½ million gallon oil tank exploded for the second time in two days on the Brooklyn waterfront Monday, injuring eight firefighters and forcing thousands to flee a half mile area around the fire. An eyewitness said the eight firefighters were "knocked down like tenpins" as they fought the 200-foot high flames and attempted to prevent a chain reaction of explosions in adjacent oil tanks. The injured were taken to Long Island College Hospital. None of their injuries was believed serious.

Doctors' 'slowdown' felt severely

A doctors' "slowdown" protesting malpractice insurance rates was felt severely Monday at a number of Southern California private hospitals where non-emergency and elective surgery was cancelled and admission of new patients cut to less than a fourth of normal. There were no reported cases of any severely ill or injured persons being denied treatment and an emergency operations center set up by the county was keeping a 24-hour check to handle any such cases.

A Moroccan warship seized a Soviet freighter carrying a cargo of weapons apparently destined for Algerian-backed guerrillas in newly annexed Spanish Sahara, maritime sources said Monday. They said a Moroccan gunboat flagged down the freighter inside the Sahara's territorial waters and escorted it to the southern Moroccan port of Agadir. A Moroccan naval party boarded the ship and found weapons not listed in the manifest.

Officials said the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. attorney's office will assist the state in its probe, which board Chairman Thomas Quinn said could result in additional legal action.

Quinn said the $4.2 million fine was the strongest disciplinary action ever taken against an automobile manufacturer.

He said ARB engineers became suspicious of American Motors' testing several months ago after the company submitted reports indicating their cars were among the cleanest produced anywhere in the world.

The state then conducted a series of 39 tests which showed that 85 per cent of those cars failed either California emission standards for carbon monoxide or oxides of nitrogen.

"We have never seen so many dirty cars," Quinn said. "But even more serious is the fact that American Motors submitted false reports to the state which indicated that their cars were actually very clean."

Officials said the stop-sale order, which will become effective at midnight Tuesday, affects only models containing AMC's V-8 engine. Quinn said 1,239 such cars are scheduled for sale in California.

Board officials said additional tests will be conducted on American Motors' six cylinder engines to see if they meet the state's anti-smog laws.

In Detroit, meantime, the four U.S. auto companies Monday reported their eighth consecutive sales gain with mid-December new car sales up nearly 30 per cent over disastrous year-ago levels.

All four companies shared in the jump over 1974's Dec. 11-20 sales which were the lowest for any non-strike period in more than 14 years. American Motors reported a 43 per cent gain, Ford was up 42 per cent, Chrysler jumped 41 per cent and General Motors was up 21 per cent.

10 Protestants killed near Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gunmen waving a red lantern flagged down a bus Monday evening and shot 10 Protestant workers to death with a variety of weapons in the worst mass murder in six years of sectarian violence in Northern Ireland.

An 11th Protestant worker was critically wounded in what the government called "Al Capone gangsterism."

Police said a gray minibus carrying 11 men home from work in a shirt factory was ambushed on an isolated stretch of road in the border county of South Armagh by 10 to 12 gunmen, apparently in retaliation for the slaying of five Roman Catholics in two shooting incidents in the area Sunday.

The 11 passengers and the driver were ordered outside the vehicle near the lonely crossroads of Kings Mill, 35 miles south of Belfast. Police said that when the men were asked to give their names the driver identified himself as a Catholic and was led aside to safety. The others were shot down.

The small gray bus was on its regular run taking workers home from a shirt factory at the village of Glenaan, 35 miles southwest of Belfast when the ambush was sprung.

A security forces spokesman said the attack on the road between Newry and Whitecross, on the border, was the worst single mass assassination in the six years of Ulster violence involving Catholics, Protestants and British troops.

Thirteen persons were killed by the British army in the infamous "Bloody Sunday" of 1972 and as many as 10 persons have been killed in bomb attacks. But never so many in a cold blooded slaughter.

Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees, Britain's top official in the province, condemned the killings as "sectarian murders pure and simple — Al Capone gangsterism."

"It is not political," Rees said of the increased violence. "It is straight gangsterism and retaliation breeds retaliation." He expressed fears that the violence would continue to escalate and said he was considering drafting still more troop reinforcements into South Armagh.

The militant Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army threatened Saturday to end the cease-fire if Britain did not pull its troops out of Ulster.

7 die as new storm lashes Scandinavia

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — A new storm battered Scandinavia Monday with hurricane-force winds, snow, rain and thunder and lightning in the wake of a weekend tempest which wreaked death and destruction in Britain and western and central Europe.

Seven persons died in the new storm when their fishing boat capsized Monday off the island of Senja in northern Norway. A Coast Guard spokesman said the fishermen were lost "with no hope of finding anyone alive."

At least 53 persons were killed and up to 14 others reported missing in the weekend storm. Damages were estimated in the millions of dollars.

The new storm moved west from Scotland over the North Sea, slashing across Norway, Denmark and Sweden. At the Vinga lighthouse just outside the Swedish west coast port city of Goteborg, the storm's wind strength was measured up to 90 miles per hour — 17 miles per hour above hurricane force.

Hostages on Japan jet freed

MANILA (UPI) — Two "friendly" Filipino brothers who dreamed of becoming pilots seized a Japan Air Lines jetliner Monday and threatened to kill the more than 200 passengers aboard unless they got free passage to Japan. But they surrendered 10 hours later without anyone being hurt.

Police said the brothers, aged 24 and 18, freed their hostages hours before surrendering in return for assurance they would be allowed to fly to Tokyo as demanded. But when the Japanese government sent word it would not let the plane land, they gave up.

Japan Air Lines purser Senichiro Watanabe said the brothers posed as airport staff members and that both carried snub-nosed revolvers and the younger hijacker had strapped explosives to his body.

Watanabe said the young men told him they came from a poor family and their dream to undergo pilot training in Japan drove them to hijack the plane which carried 223 passengers and crew members.

402 die in holiday traffic

The New Year weekend traffic toll was 402, the lowest in 14 years for a four-day turn-of-the-year holiday. The National Safety Council said the count by United Press International Monday "seems to reflect a general decline in traffic fatalities that we have seen for about the last 18 months." The NSC had estimated that 350 to 400 persons would die in traffic in the holiday period which began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday.

Brooklyn oil tank explodes again

A 2½ million gallon oil tank exploded for the second time in two days on the Brooklyn waterfront Monday, injuring eight firefighters and forcing thousands to flee a half mile area around the fire. An eyewitness said the eight firefighters were "knocked down like tenpins" as they fought the 200-foot high flames and attempted to prevent a chain reaction of explosions in adjacent oil tanks. The injured were taken to Long Island College Hospital. None of their injuries was believed serious.

Doctors' 'slowdown' felt severely

A doctors' "slowdown" protesting malpractice insurance rates was felt severely Monday at a number of Southern California private hospitals where non-emergency and elective surgery was cancelled and admission of new patients cut to less than a fourth of normal. There were no reported cases of any severely ill or injured persons being denied treatment and an emergency operations center set up by the county was keeping a 24-hour check to handle any such cases.

Christians blockade roads to refugee camp

Armed Christian bands Monday blockaded all roads into an encircled Palestinian refugee camp, cutting off food and other supplies to the 6,000 residents. Police discovered five bodies, including two under Beirut's "death bridge" — the Charles Helou overpass in the city center — to raise the toll from nine months of civil war between Moslem and Christian militias to 8,025 dead and 17,100 wounded.

Soviet ship carrying weapons seized

A Moroccan warship seized a Soviet freighter carrying a cargo of weapons apparently destined for Algerian-backed guerrillas in newly annexed Spanish Sahara, maritime sources said Monday. They said a Moroccan gunboat flagged down the freighter inside the Sahara's territorial waters and escorted it to the southern Moroccan port of Agadir. A Moroccan naval party boarded the ship and found weapons not listed in the manifest.

The Israeli cabinet Sunday called for reconvening the Geneva parley but insisted the PLO be barred.

Wall Street position eroding

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today the heart of the stock market is 31,237 square feet of floor space littered with discarded order notes and crammed with 2,997 people rushing from post to post to buy and sell.

The stock market of the future could well be a 24-inch screen linked to a computer and operated by a broker who buys and sells by pressing buttons from the quiet of his office.

The core of today's market is the New York Stock Exchange, the biggest and oldest U.S. auction market. It is the heart of Wall Street, but profound changes — some made, some pending and some proposed — give reason to question its future.

EVEN WALL Street's position as the citadel of free enterprise is being eroded by economic forces that are driving some brokerage firms across the Hudson River to cheaper but less exotic streets in Jersey City and Hoboken. The New Jersey cities are promising cheaper taxes and rent at a time when New York City is demanding more of both.

For most of the NYSE's 184 years the destiny of the stock market was formed slowly and deliberately in the elegant board room of the exchange's executive office at 25 Broad St.

Today, the destiny of the NYSE and all other exchanges is being directed in Washington by a relatively small but powerful regulatory agency, the Securities and Exchange Commission. Changes are coming swiftly.

The SEC already has dictated a number of changes in the actual process of trading stocks and more are on tap for the new year. As with anything else new, it takes time to judge the effectiveness of these changes.

AFTER NEARLY 187 years of fixed commission rates, negotiated rates went into effect May 1 on orders from the SEC.

The purpose was to make the business of buying and selling securities competitive. But thus far, only large institutions with powerful price-bargaining leverage have benefited.

insurance companies, pension funds, mutual funds and banks are demanding and receiving price discounts as high as 80 per cent. Smaller brokerage houses, finding it difficult to compete, are closing their doors or selling out to larger firms.

To make up for lost revenue on institutional business, brokers are charging individual investors more. The little guy either pays the price or gets out of the market.

THE NUMER of individual stockholders declined 18.3 per cent in the past five years to 25,206,000 this year from 30,850,000 in 1970, according to an NYSE five-year survey, the first drop since the NYSE began the census in 1952.

The decline in individual shareholders could not be blamed on negotiated rates, but NYSE officials fear the exodus from the market by individuals is accelerating because of higher commissions individuals must pay.

A consolidated transaction ticker tape, combining the trades on most of the exchanges, also went into effect this year at the direction of the SEC. Another tape will be initiated in the new year, and a national stock market appears to be just around the corner.

But the most significant happening this year was the SEC's Dec. 19 ruling which will allow exchange members to take orders to buy and sell stocks to exchanges other than those on which the stock is listed, including the over-the-counter market. This will permit brokers to "shop" for the best prices for their customers.

THE RULE will allow brokerage firms that are exchange members to take customer orders to buy and sell stocks to a broader range of markets. The new rule takes effect March 31.

As a general rule for making trades now, exchange members must bring their orders to the exchange floor where the stock is listed. The requirements vary slightly by exchanges, with NYSE having the most stringent limits.

Before the rule takes effect in March, for example, a Merrill Lynch customer with American Telephone & Telegraph stock would have his order to sell taken to the New York Stock Exchange. The stock is listed on the exchange and Merrill Lynch is a member.

Beginning in April, the same customer can have his stock traded on any exchange or over-the-counter. This gives the customer a wider range of markets for his transaction.

IN ANOTHER development, the SEC encouraged Merrill Lynch, by far the nation's largest brokerage house, to handle its own odd-lot trades of less than 100 shares. Starting Jan. 2, a Merrill Lynch customer wanting to buy 50 shares of AT&T could in effect make the purchase from Merrill Lynch itself, bypassing the NYSE and saving a 12-cent surcharge on each share.

Other major brokerage houses are expected to meet the competition and follow suit.

Merrill Lynch says it has no present plans to establish its own market on larger transactions but many on Wall Street believe — some with a great deal of apprehension — that will be next.

If this evolution should occur, there would be no need for a New York Stock Exchange. Securities would be bought and sold from pools of shares held by dealers.

James J. Needham, chairman of the NYSE, fears this would destroy the auction market system, limit access to the equity capital market to only the larger corporations and provide no assurance the customer is getting the best price.

Stock market soars 19.12 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market scored its best gain in more than four months Monday in the heaviest trading since November on the New York Stock Exchange as investors went on a buying spree and raised hopes for 1976.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 6.30-point winner Friday, soared 19.12 points to 877.83, the best gain since a 22.45-point advance Aug. 28. It closed at its best level since its 1975 high of 881.81 on July 15.

Analysts noted the Dow for the past four months has had trouble moving beyond the 860 mark and said Monday's rally could spark a considerable outburst during January.

THE TURNOVER of 21,960,000 shares was the heaviest since 25,070,000 were traded Nov. 13. It was up sharply from the 10,015,600 traded Friday, when many investors took an extended New Year's holiday.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.68 to 92.58, and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 57 cents. Advances routed declines, 1,466 to 193, among the 1,897 issues crossing the tape.

Buying was inspired in part by the Federal Reserve Board's report late Friday the nation's money supply dropped $100 million in the latest reporting week, following a $1 billion plunge the week before.

In addition, the market received some impetus from the bright news background relating to inflation, income taxes and car and retail store sales.

The nation's purchasing agents reported they found prices for materials lower last month than in the previous two months, which translates into a reduction of inflationary pressure.

Regner plans restrictive lottery law

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, Monday said he plans to introduce legislation next week which would outlaw further use of the instant lottery game.

The new game, fourth in a series of $1 lottery games, was started in October and a spokesman for Lottery Supt. Ralph Batch said the game will conclude later this month.

The instant game has come under attack from several groups around the state who charged that persons who can least afford to lose money are the game's chief participants.

Regner said he will introduce legislation Jan. 14 to outlaw the instant lottery game. The game allows persons to determine immediately if they have won a prize.

A LOTTERY spokesman said 80 million instant tickets were put on sale in October and about 15 million presently remain unsold.

State officials have indicated the instant game is the most successful $1 game in the lottery's history. Officials had estimated it would take 16 weeks to sell the 80 million tickets, but the estimate was later lowered to 10 weeks.

The state stands to receive about $55 million in revenue from the instant game. A spokesman was unable to predict if the instant lottery game would be repeated in the future.

Regner compared the instant game with the punchboard lottery system once commonly found in a number of establishments throughout the state.

"THIS IS just a bad situation," Regner said.

"Although the lottery has provided some measure of entertainment for Illinoisans and has generated needed state revenue, the instant lottery seems to be encouraging a gambling sickness throughout the state," Regner said.

Lottery officials will introduce a new $1 game Jan. 13. The game will be called "Super Shot" and award more cash prizes than any other $1 lottery game, according to Batch.

The Super Shot game will award cash prizes ranging from $5 to $500,000. Lottery officials said the new game will feature two $500,000 winners rather than a $1 million winner. The Super Shot tickets will be on sale for 12 weeks.

Food stamp values hiked for '76

Persons receiving federal food stamps will get bigger allocations this month in response to higher food prices, said James L. Trainor, director of the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid.

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture raised the value of food stamps from $162 to $166 for a family of four and made comparable adjustments for other family sizes.

Starting Jan. 1, monthly allotments by family size are $50 for one; $92 for two; $130 for three; $166 for four; $198 for five; $236 for six; $262 for seven, and $298 for eight and $38 for each additional person.

Maximum allowable monthly incomes for food stamps also were raised Jan. 1. The new income standards are $215 for one, $307 for two, $433 for three; $533 for four; $660 for five; $787 for six; $873 for seven; and $933 for eight.

For each additional person over eight persons, $127 can be added to the income eligibility figure.

Additional information on the food stamp program is available from state public aid offices.

EMIL MISIUDA, vice president of the American Playing Card Co., Wheeling, is not out to play games. The production of one 54-card deck takes time and money, since several color inks and special machinery are used for each. A single deck is printed on one sheet in the company's plant at 1702 S. Wolf Rd., and thousands of sheets are printed daily.

High stakes

Making playing cards is a complex process involving precision die-cutting, artful design, even top secret procedures

by DIANE MERMIGAS

It's no game trying to produce enough decks of playing cards to keep a pinochle and rummy-playing society satisfied.

A lot of hard work, colored ink, precision cutting and even some secret processes goes into every standard 54-card deck.

And the backside of the cards is the most interesting, imaginative and profitable part of the production for the American Playing Card Co., 1702 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

THAT'S WHERE MOST of the companies who order playing cards do most of their advertising in a colorful, creative way. After all, you can't play "cards" without looking at them. So the company's logo or name printed on the backside makes an impression on any Saturday night card game table.

That's been the logic behind the company's particular approach to playing cards during the past five years, said Emil Misiuda, vice president.

"We feel its a relatively inexpensive way to advertise, and a very effective way to do it. There's a future in cards," he said.

Supposedly every American household has at least one deck of playing cards, he said.

American Playing Card Co. runs up against some stiff competition from the major, more established firms in the country. none of "the big ones" can economically produce small orders of cards or give that local, personal attention, Misiuda said.

MISIUDA AND company president Frank Balisteri decided in 1970 that they wanted to break away from the corporae routine. So, Misiuda took his knowledge of tool and die machinery and applied it to designing print and cutting equipment for their new business.

The machinery is an important part of the work because "no one yet has perfected a machine that will cut each card perfectly, the same size, without getting some of the paper caught inside," Misiuda said.

The formula for his card cutting machinery is secret, even though it is not perfected, Misiuda said, because card producers are eager to see how their competitors might be "doing things better." Such equipment is not sold on an open market.

But, otherwise, there's no real trick to making cards.

The company plant produces an average 6,000 playing cards daily, although it has the capacity to produce a maximum 14,000.

A DECK OF 54 playing cards is printed in multicolor ink on a single sheet. The average order is 200 to 300 decks, although many orders are for only 100 decks. Some requests have exceeded 100,000 decks, Misiuda said.

The cost of a single deck of cards can range from 56 to 97 cents each, depending on the logo that is ordered for the backside of the cards. Customers may also choose to replace the standard king, queen and jack faces on the front side of the cards with photographs of friends or corporate officials.

Printing plates for special art work on the cards can cost as much as $2,500 and can take several months to design, he said.

It's a big business that is worth about $900,000 a year, and there's a growing number of companies using the plastic-coated wonders as a new way to advertise, he said.

So far, the company has 250 steady clients from throughout the country, in Canada and in Africa.

CORPORATIONS LIKE General Motors, chrysler, Curtis Candy and International Harvester make an annual bid for the cards, which their salesmen distribute as free holiday gifts, Misiuda said.

Other companies use the backside of the cards to advertise a new product line or emphasize its services. Some standard decks have had different products pictured on each card, he said.

There is a potential for the company, however, that goes beyond the standard production of playing cards and is beginning to reveal itself, he said.

McDonald's Corp. recently placed an order with the company for a three-card playing trick that can be given free to young customers with a purchase. It will represent a new promotion for McDonald's that will be tested regionally before it is tried nationally, Misiuda said.

The American Card Playing Co. has also been commissioned to print educational flash cards and other card games sold by large game corporations like Rand McNally, he said.

"Who knows what companies will think of next to do with cards? But, whatever it is, we're ready for them," Misiuda said.

"You know, we're not playing games."

Educator recalls formative years in area schools

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Reuben Conrad

A few people can comment on education in the Northwest suburbs during the past 30 years. Reuben Conrad is one of them.

Conrad, instructional coordinator of social studies and foreign language in High School Dist. 214, retires Wednesday after 30 years with the district. Conrad has a unique view of Dist. 214 and the Northwest suburban community as a whole.

With all the changes that occur in education and suburban life today, it is refreshing to listen to a man who can look back more than a quarter of a century and put the present into perspective.

CONRAD, NOW 64, came to Arlington Heights in 1944 for a job interview at the high school. The village then had a population of 8,000 and enrollment at Arlington High School was 600 students.

The race track was a landmark in the area, which was then nothing more than a few towns strung together along the tracks of the Chicago and North Western Ry. There were farms between Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect and Des Plaines; Buffalo Grove was just a crossroads; and of course places like Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates, and Elk Grove Village didn't even exist.

A teaching job near the Chicago area was a much sought-after item by men like Conrad who began their careers in small downstate schools, but he hesitated when offered the position. The area was going through the transition from a rural farm community to a metropolitan suburb, and the schools were feeling the pressure of the change.

"I told the wife I'd give them two years," Conrad said. He taught social studies, economics and history, and was paid $2,600 per year plus $200 for coaching football, basketball and track.

IN THOSE DAYS it was unusual for a student to attend college. Many saw no need to even finish high school. After World War II the trend toward higher education grew, Conrad said, and the biggest changes in education came during the 1950s.

There was "a lot of government funding," Conrad said. Students were grouped into classes according to their ability, and there was "a greater pressure" on advanced students. At the same time more opportunities were opened to students of lower ability. Remedial classes came into being, and the concept of special education was refined.

"The schools very early had a good reputation," Conrad said. "People moved out here because of the schools, and therefore they were supportive of schools."

Conrad can remember only one referendum defeat. A group of residents organized and successfully voted down Dist. 214's first attempt to raise funds for the construction of Prospect High School. Residents simply would not believe that a boom in population was on the way.

"THEY HAD figures to show that our projections were way too high and we would not need more than one school," he said. Today the district has eight high schools.

"We saw the growth coming," Conrad said. He takes pride in the district's quality of education. "Our goal was to make Arlington High a top-notch school so the other schools could start out that way."

Conrad said he never intended to become an administrator but gradually fell into the role over the years. For several years he continued to teach a class in sociology at Arlington High School while working as a curriculum director.

The teaching profession has undergone a good deal of change during Conrad's 38 years as a teacher. He remembers the days when a woman teacher was fired as soon as she married and a male teacher didn't dare step into a bar to have a beer with his students' parents. Before teachers acquired tenure rights they were sometimes fired for trivial reasons and didn't dare offend the school board, he said.

"TEACHERS were second class citizens. Now they're organized," Conrad said. The rise of teacher unions was a necessity, he said. In some cases, he said, teachers' unions have gone "too far" and have hurt education, but unions themselves aren't inherently bad. "They're something everyone can live with," he said.

Although Conrad has seen many changes in Dist. 214, one thing hasn't changed — the kids. Fads and dress styles come and go but the students themselves are the same as they were 30 years ago, he said.

7 injured in two 2-car accidents

Seven persons, including the daughter of a Palatine police lieutenant, were injured Monday night in 2 two-car accidents about the same time at Roselle Road and Hartford Drive in Schaumburg.

The first accident involved a rear-end collision at 6:30 p.m. Nancy Nehm zow, 18, of Palatine, daughter of Lt. The way we see it

GOP voters win a decision

The voters were the big winners Saturday when the Republican committeemen in the 12th Congressional District decided not to endorse a slate of delegates for the Republican National Convention.

The action means Republican voters in the March 16 primary will face a clear-cut choice between delegates pledged to President Ford and those pledged to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. The contest will be unfettered by efforts by party leaders to make a choice for the voters.

For awhile, particularly after an earlier meeting last week of the GOP committeemen, it looked as though there would be a concerted effort to deny the voters that kind of choice. The committeemen had agreed to endorse a delegate slate consisting of two Ford supporters and two Reagan supporters in an effort to preserve "party unity."

Even now that this effort to control the kind of choice the voters were to be offered has failed, it is worthwhile to look at the principle that had been operating when the initial decision was to slate half Ford and half Reagan delegates.

By attempting to name a slate, the GOP leaders were trying to deny the voters the chance to decide who would represent them at the Republican convention.

The leaders argued that an endorsement would not prevent an "open" primary because anyone who wanted to could still run. In this case, that probably would have been correct because of the determination by leaders of the Ford campaign to run a slate regardless of any "compromise" endorsement.

However, the truth is the purpose of a slatemaking process is to avoid major opposition and to make it difficult for those who oppose the slate.

The slatemaking would have been particularly inappropriate in the case of the delegates because it will be the local delegate race — not the contest between Reagan and Ford at the top of the primary ticket — that will be important in determining how the 12th District voters will be represented at the GOP convention.

John Woods, district coordinator for the Ford campaign, said, "A little contest never hurt anybody." And it is fortunate for the district's Republican voters that the GOP leaders decided Saturday that the primary will have just that.

Fiscal responsibility: is it too late?

Fence post
letters to the editor

I am responding to Robert J. Dix's letter to The Herald of Tuesday, Dec. 23, titled "Disputes tax editorial."

According to Mr. Dix: "The government is soaking up all available money in the economy by its borrowing to pay for deficit spending. If it stops this deficit spending, this free money can be used by private industry to build factories and employ more people."

I would like to ask Mr. Dix: where do the extra dollars come from when you receive an increase in pay? Also, where do they come from to create more jobs, or finance the fantastic expansion we are seeing? They come, of course, from funds that the Treasury borrows thru deficit financing. When the Treasury borrows this money it immediately injects it into the national economy to maintain some sort of status quo — to keep things going!

THE TREASURY during the present fiscal year is borrowing in excess of $90 billion more than it is taking in. This is what we are living on. Without this new money being constantly pumped into an economic system that is predicated upon expansionism, there would be funds for only the bare necessities.

The basic error that most persons are making with regard to inflation and related matters is that they are listening to politicians who offer unworkable solutions. Politicians have no solutions; they are part of the problem!

It is popular for demagogues to shout: "Balance the budget and cure inflation." Their crime is one of omission. They don't tell us that what they propose is pragmatically impossible. They should be telling us that we are on the horns of a fantastic dilemma: 1) Continue to inflate the money supply to keep the economy in some sort of viable state. 2) Arbitrarily balance the budget and face a crushing depression that would make the last one seem like fun.

It hasn't always been this way. Twenty-five years ago voices of integrity could be heard. The voice of Senator Robert A. Taft was foremost. As the Republican Party leader he served in the United States Senate from 1939 to 1953. His father, William Howard Taft, was 27th President of the United States. After serving as President, he was Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

SENATOR TAFT was a classic Republican. He steadfastly urged Congress to work for a sane fiscal policy and a balanced budget. It could have easily been accomplished when the deficit was only a few billion dollars.

They turned a deaf ear to him and his disciples, and like pied pipers led the people from one deficit to another — each one larger than the one preceding it. All the while telling a whole generation of Americans that debt was nothing to fear.

Now that debt has become a many tentacled monster, breathing fire, and feeding on itself and everything in its path, what appears but a group of political neophytes who have the incredible audacity to propose a solution that can never solve the problem?

I'm sorry, gentlemen, you're $400 billion and 30 years too late!

Aerial wolf hunt decried

Regarding Kathleen Orr's letter about the Alaskan wolf hunt, I'd like to emphasize one point: what makes this hunt especially nasty is that it is an aerial hunt.

Aerial hunting — the shooting of animals from aircraft — was found to be so repugnant to the American public that a law was recently passed against it (P.L. 92-159). However, there is a loophole, a provision which authorizes the federal government or any state to issue permits for aerial hunts. These are supposedly to be issued only for the purpose of protecting land, water, wildlife, livestock, domesticated animals, human life or crops. However, as Ms. Orr points out, the decline in the moose population, blamed on the wolves, is more likely due to overhunting.

Anyone who has seen films of aerial hunting can attest to the total lack of sport in it. The hunters sit warm and dry in their copters, descending only to pick up their carnage. It's really more like target shooting than hunting; but this particular target is alive, endangered, and living almost nowhere else on the face of the earth (except for Russia, where wolves are routinely slaughtered as livestock hazards). As Cleveland Amory puts it, "The hunter kills in sport, but the animal dies in earnest." And, we might add, the species dies forever.

Questions top pay for administrators

In reply to an article in your paper concerning Dist. 59 rehiring a firm to help with the unit's district problem, I ask:

In School Dist. 59, do we hire top administrators with doctorate degrees (and salaries in the $30,000 and up range) because they are better qualified to pick consulting firms (1. Reorganization of top administrators; 2. Unit district study), or were they hired to perform these functions?

We feel our board owes the taxpayers an answer to this question.

Asks end to transit agency

When editorials (Chicago Tribune Dec. 23, 1975) finally speak the truth about the Rotten Transit Authority, surely the time has come for all suburbanites to unite in demanding an end to the continuing rape of the suburbs. Please join me in writing to your representatives. A long, fancy letter is not necessary. Next year might well be our last chance to abort Daley's Baby.

Any thinking person must be aware that this ridiculous scheme was dreamed up to pour millions of dollars into the CTA. We owe the people in Chicago exactly what we ask from them — nothing. Let them pay for their transportation, just as we pay for ours. There is no ceiling on the amount we pay for our cars, insurance, gasoline, etc.

If we don't wake up, it won't be long until we are swallowed by a regional government, with Guess Who in charge. When Mayor Daley finally does retire, he will probably have arranged for his son to become Boss II. Miltie is already making Woody Allenish noises that, "Oh, yes, indeed. We are going to have to ask for a gasoline tax." We know how that works — they'll start out with two or three cents a gallon this year, five cents next year, etc. Is there anyone who really believes we will ever have any kind of a transportation system in the suburbs that will meet our needs. You've gotta be kidding!

Granted, Mayor Daley loves Chicago. So what? He already gets money from the county, the state, and the federal government. What a laugh! All of these places take the money from us in the first place.

DON'T THINK for one minute that we can't get rid of the RTA. Too many people complain about all the rottenness in government, business, etc.; but don't do anything to change it. Surely you've seen how a minority of assorted nuts can get anything they want by making a lot of noise. I'm tired of seeing my beliefs and way of life trampled on, and my money being taken away and given to people who think that they can spend it better than I.

Even The Herald admits that we are not getting a fair deal from the RTA! Yes, it's true — an awful lot of us are saying, "We told you so."

Please join me in sounding off to our "representatives."

Another vote for holiday Herald

I would like to comment on the letter written by Mrs. M. Buttera concerning the delivery of The Herald on Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

Bah! Humbug to you Mrs. Buterra. I don't know why you assume that everyone does not want The Herald delivered on Christmas Day and New Year's Day. There are many people in our area who look for their paper in the morning, regardless of it being Christmas or any other holiday.

Our Christmas days are no longer hectic like they were when our children were young. We had a leisurely breakfast and enjoyed our local Herald as much as we do during the week.

AS FOR PADDOCK making an extra buck, I don't think they had that in mind because unless one has home delivery it was almost impossible to buy a paper as all the stores were closed all day.

I'm sorry to disagree with you, but I for one was very happy to receive my paper on Christmas morning.

'Sickened' by school vandalism

Like most other citizens in Arlington Heights, I was sickened and angered by the report of such wanton destruction in the two schools. Vandalism of that kind, or of any kind or degree, involves the entire community in reactions.

Why should the taxpayers of our village be required to "foot the bill" for these malicious vandals and their parents, assuming, of course, that the guilty are arrested and found culpable by the courts? These children should be required to work to repay some of the repair costs. And their parents should assume some financial responsibility.

Where were the parents when these children were out of their homes for hours in the middle of the night? Aren't they responsible for the actions of their minor dependents? Surely children in the ghetto would not be treated very mildly. Why should middle class children be held less responsible?

THE WHOLE episode is really upsetting, to learn that such violence exists way out here, that children feel so little connection with their community and neighbors, that parents do not know about or monitor their children's behavior and whereabouts. What is happeneing to our moral standards? And to our sense of community?

The way we see it

GOP voters win a decision

The voters were the big winners Saturday when the Republican committeemen in the 12th Congressional District decided not to endorse a slate of delegates for the Republican National Convention.

The action means Republican voters in the March 16 primary will face a clear-cut choice between delegates pledged to President Ford and those pledged to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. The contest will be unfettered by efforts by party leaders to make a choice for the voters.

For awhile, particularly after an earlier meeting last week of the GOP committeemen, it looked as though there would be a concerted effort to deny the voters that kind of choice. The committeemen had agreed to endorse a delegate slate consisting of two Ford supporters and two Reagan supporters in an effort to preserve "party unity."

Even now that this effort to control the kind of choice the voters were to be offered has failed, it is worthwhile to look at the principle that had been operating when the initial decision was to slate half Ford and half Reagan delegates.

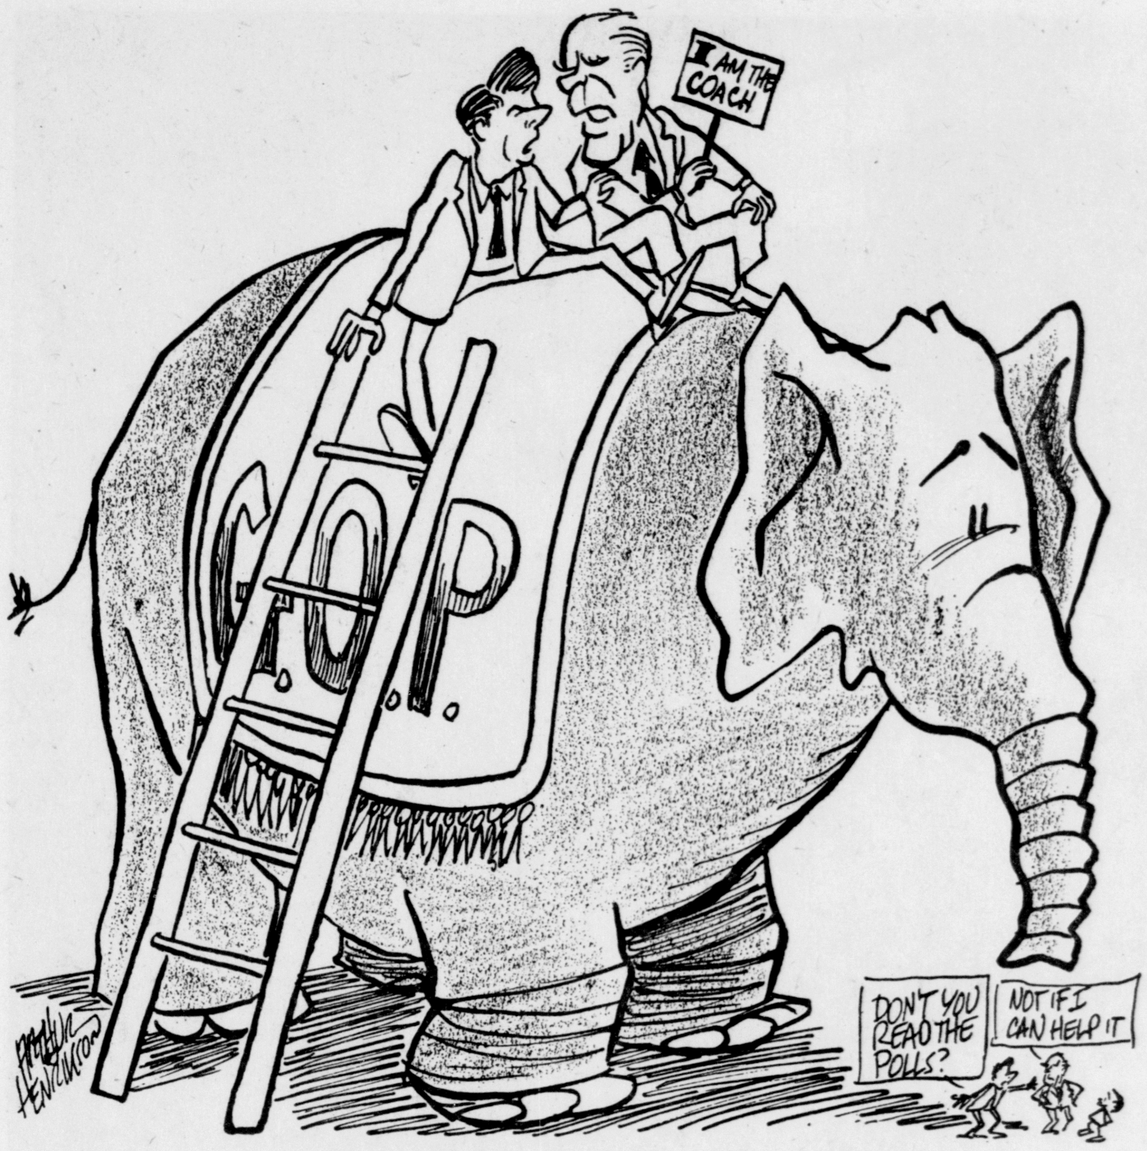

By attempting to name a slate, the GOP leaders were trying to deny the voters the chance to decide who would represent them at the Republican convention.

The leaders argued that an endorsement would not prevent an "open" primary because anyone who wanted to could still run. In this case, that probably would have been correct because of the determination by leaders of the Ford campaign to run a slate regardless of any "compromise" endorsement.

However, the truth is the purpose of a slatemaking process is to avoid major opposition and to make it difficult for those who oppose the slate.

The slatemaking would have been particularly inappropriate in the case of the delegates because it will be the local delegate race — not the contest between Reagan and Ford at the top of the primary ticket — that will be important in determining how the 12th District voters will be represented at the GOP convention.

John Woods, district coordinator for the Ford campaign, said, "A little contest never hurt anybody." And it is fortunate for the district's Republican voters that the GOP leaders decided Saturday that the primary will have just that.

What do you mean, move over?

Fence post
letters to the editor

I am responding to Robert J. Dix's letter to The Herald of Tuesday, Dec. 23, titled "Disputes tax editorial."

According to Mr. Dix: "The government is soaking up all available money in the economy by its borrowing to pay for deficit spending. If it stops this deficit spending, this free money can be used by private industry to build factories and employ more people."

I would like to ask Mr. Dix: where do the extra dollars come from when you receive an increase in pay? Also, where do they come from to create more jobs, or finance the fantastic expansion we are seeing? They come, of course, from funds that the Treasury borrows thru deficit financing. When the Treasury borrows this money it immediately injects it into the national economy to maintain some sort of status quo — to keep things going!

THE TREASURY during the present fiscal year is borrowing in excess of $90 billion more than it is taking in. This is what we are living on. Without this new money being constantly pumped into an economic system that is predicated upon expansionism, there would be funds for only the bare necessities.

The basic error that most persons are making with regard to inflation and related matters is that they are listening to politicians who offer unworkable solutions. Politicians have no solutions; they are part of the problem!

It is popular for demagogues to shout: "Balance the budget and cure inflation." Their crime is one of omission. They don't tell us that what they propose is pragmatically impossible. They should be telling us that we are on the horns of a fantastic dilemma: 1) Continue to inflate the money supply to keep the economy in some sort of viable state. 2) Arbitrarily balance the budget and face a crushing depression that would make the last one seem like fun.

General was Truman's military hero: former aide

MacArthur friend refutes incidents in TV special

by BERNARD W. CAUGHEY

WELLESLEY, Mass. (UPI) — The personal aide of Gen. Douglas MacArthur says there is "absolutely no truth" to the story that President Harry S. Truman had to order MacArthur to land at Wake Island for their historic meeting and then the general kept the President waiting.

"I was at Wake Island with the general. MacArthur arrived at Wake the night before. We had dinner there, we slept there and he was waiting for Truman at the airport," Col. Laurence Bunker said Monday in an interview with UPI.

Bunker, MacArthur's aide-de-camp for six years from April 1946 through November 1952, said "there's absolutely no truth," to the much-publicized story that MacArthur kept his plane circling Wake trying to make Truman's plane land first and that the President finally ordered the general's plane to land. He also denied that after Truman's plane landed, MacArthur kept the President waiting 45 minutes before joining the welcoming committee.

THE WAKE Island scenario was used by writer Merle Miller in his book "Plain Speaking" and in the ABC-TV show "Collision Course," aired Sunday.

Concerning the first formal meeting of Truman and MacArthur, Truman has been quoted as saying, "When he walked in, I took one look at him and I said, 'Now you look here. I've come halfway across the world to meet you, but don't worry about that. I just want you to know I don't give a good goddamn what you do or think about Harry Truman, but don't you ever again keep your commander-in-chief waiting."

Wearing a gray, pin-striped suit, white shirt with French cuffs and a bowtie, Bunker sat in the living room of his two-and-a-half story, green clapboard home in this Boston suburb. An autographed colored photo of MacArthur was on the bookcase. Bunker slowly shook his head.

"There was no such confrontation," he said. "In his memoirs, Truman said the meeting was cordial. And at the end, he pinned the Distinguished Service Medal on MacArthur and gave him a box of candy for Mrs. MacArthur.

"GEN. GEORGE Marshall once told a friend of mine that Truman was reluctant to relieve MacArthur of duty. Even after he had done it, Marshall said MacArthur was Truman's military hero. It dated back to the first World War. When recalling MacArthur first was suggested to him, Truman said he was not going to do it — not going to end the career of a distinguished military man in this fashion. When it was suggested the second time, he reclutantly agreed," Bunker said.

Asked why he thought MacArthur was relieved of duty during the Korean War, Bunker said, "The people immediately around Truman were afraid he — MacArthur — was going to win the war. They had persuaded Truman to wage a limited war — a no-win war.

"There wer hostile elements in Washington giving Truman bad advice . . . Everything MacArthur did was to strengthen Truman's hand — not weaken it. He wasn't being insubordinate. He was putting facts before the public which those others were suppressing.

"There was a great deal of politics involved. MacArthur had not been back to the United States since 1937. He already had been credited by the American people with winning the war against Japan. He had conducted an incredibly successful occupation of Japan. Politically no one knew what MacArthur would do when he returned to the United States if he had added victory in the Korean War to this list.

"THEY WERE afraid the American people would put MacArthur into the White House whether he wanted it or not," Bunker said, adding, "I know he didn't want the White House. He had no ambition in that direction. If the American people insisted, he would have gone along — but he would have been unhappy.

"Politicians, particularly the Thomas Dewey wing of the Republican party, plus the Democrats, were determined to do something to tarnish the general's image before he returned to the United tes."

Bunker disclosed he only recently learned from "two independent and reliable persons" that when Truman finally was persuaded to fire MacArthur, Secretaryof State Dean Acheson and Marshall "had placed in Truman's hands two letters supposedly written by MacArthur which used uncomplimentary language about Truman. Truman later found out these letters were forgeries."

Bunker said even after he was relieved of duty, MacArthur bore no ill feelings towards Truman. "He had no bitterness for Truman. He was aware of the pressures being brought to bear on Truman."

HE RECALLED that following an annual dinner in honor of MacArthur, the general was talking with Gen. Leif J. Sverdrup, who organized the get-together. Bunker quoted MacArthur as saying, "Mark my words, Harry Truman is going to do down in history as a far greater president than Dwight Eisenhower. Harry Truman made more important decisions from a sound point of view than Ike ever dreamed of making."

Asked why he thought stories about a conflict between MacArthur and Truman were being publicized, Bunker said, "The said thing about Truman was that in his later years he became senile. Much of the press generally agreed not to interview him. But Merle Miller declined to go al'ng with that. He got Harry Truman into New York for a television show. Truman was drinking his favorite bourbon and Miller was making tapes of their conversations. But Miller sat on the tapes until after Truman died. If Truman had read some of those things, he would have corrected them."

Bunker said MacArthur would have been "horrified" by what took place in Vietnam.

"MacArthur was trained in the principle that when you go to war, you should end it as soon as possible. The longer it goes on, the more casualties. And if one thing bothered him, it was casualties. During his 37 or 39 amphibious landings, there were only something like 59 persons killed in establishing a beachhead. That's absolutely fabulous.

"I KNOW THE general was very unhappy about the battle tactics of the Australians and at times the Marines. Both of them liked to be spectacular — to stage frontal attacks. MacArthur disliked that because it caused too many casualties."

Bunker insists later events prove MacArthur "absolutely right" in his desire to defeat the Communist forces in Korea. "If we had won the war in Korea there would not have been a war in Vietnam.

"Certain things stick out now against the background. In 1945, MacArthur asked the Department of the Army for permission to try Japanese Prime Minister Hideki Tojo and his cabinet on the simple charge of murder because they had attacked Pearl Harbor without declaring a state of war. The Department told him to forget about it.

"He went back and pleaded with them to let him get this cleared up. But people in power apparently already were thinking of the possibility of an undeclared war such as the Vietnam War. And they couldn't permit MacArthur to establish a principle he believed in: That to kill someone in an undeclared war was murder."

After a long pause to think about the question, Bunker said "offhand" he believed MacArthur's biggest mistake was that "he was too generous in judging other people. He couldn't realize how low some people would stoop for political advantage."

THE VICE PRESIDENT of the MacArthur Memorial Foundation in Norfolk, Va., reminisced about MacArthur calling him a "wonderful man to work for . . . an easy man to work with, once you learned what he wanted and expected.

"He had a wonderful ability to delegate authority and responsibility. When things went well, he never tried to appropriate credit. But if a chap failed, the general took the blame.

"I think one of his outstanding traits was that he had a tremendous sense of the fitness of things. If a situation required the commander-in-chief to put on a good show, he'd put on a good show. Not 'cause he wanted to do it, but because he realized it was the thing to do.

"He had no gift for small talk. He thought it was a waste of time.

"He wasn't one to slap GIs on the back and become one of them. That wasn't appropriate," Bunker said.

GOP voters given option of convention delegates

Republican primary voters will have the choice between delegate slates to the Republican National Convention headed by U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and Harold Smith Jr., vice chairman of President Ford's statewide campaign organization in the March 16 primary.

Crane will head the slate pledged to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. Other candidates for delegate on the Reagan slate are State Rep. David A. Regner, R-Mount Prospect; State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Schaumburg, Reagan's state campaign director; and Elizabeth Brown of Lake Forest, State Central committeewoman from the 12th Congressional District.

Candidates for alternate delegate on the Reagan slate are Bernard Pedersen, Palatine Township committeeman; Ruth Hepple of Barrington; Eloise Canfield of Arlington Heights; and George Francis of Libertyville.

SMITH, BARRINGTON Township committeeman, will head the Ford slate. Other candidates for delegate pledged to Ford are William Heffernan of Arlington Heights, vice chairman of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization; Glena Jicha of Palatine, former Palatine Township committeewoman; and Ira Marshall of Highland Park.

Candidates for alternate delegate pledged to Ford are George Wiley, West Deerfield Township committeeman; David Ganfield, of Vernon Township, vice chairman of the Lake County Republican committee; Bernard Lee, Elk Grove Township auditor; and Nancy L. Lyerla of Hoffman Estates, secretary of the Schaumburg Township Republican organization.

The 12th district will send four delegates and four alternates to the GOP convention in August. Republican leaders in the 12th district Saturday decided not to endorse a single slate in the primary and instead let the two presidential candidates run separate slates.

Chicago cops told to use hiring quota

A federal judge ordered the Chicago Police Dept. Monday to hire a quota of women, blacks and Latin males to correct past discriminatory practices, and enjoined the U.S. Treasury from providing revenue-sharing funds until the city complies.

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall ordered the city to adopt a hiring quota of 16 women, 42 black and Latin males and 42 white males for every new 100 employes. In a 64-page opinion, Marshall said he was impounding all federal revenue funds as an "economic sanction . . . to end the sexual and racial discrimination."

His order took the form of a permanent injunction.

Marshall criticized city and police officials for what he called "gross neglect of their duties." He said during the five-year court battle city officials constantly said they needed more police officers but refused to comply with his interim hiring orders.

"No court, state or federal, should become an employment review board," Marshall said, but "the court has not only the power but the duty to enjoin future discrimination and as far as possible to require the elimination of the continuing effects of past discrimination."

Daley defends city lottery

Mayor Richard J. Daley Monday defended his proposal for a city lottery, saying too much tax money goes to Washington and Springfield and too little is returned to the cities.

Daley estimated the city could raise $30 to $35 million annually from a lottery, which is considered a form of voluntary taxation.

Noting that many state lottery tickets are sold in the Chicago area, Daley said, "charity begins at home."

He also suggested the city and state might develop a joint lottery.

"We should join as partners," he said. "I know the state would be more than happy to show us ways to administer the lottery and cooperate with us."

Illinois briefs

Daley said the city is not getting back its fair share of tax money.

"There's too much money going to Washington and Springfield, and too much continuing to be arbitrarily withheld," he said.

Area gets new phone relay

Long-distance callers will get an almost instantaneous ring and probably won't have to wait for lines to clear on busy holidays when a new electronic switching system is hooked up in Chicago this month.

Illinois Bell will be the first company in the nation to use the No. 4 Electronic Switching System (ESS), although phone companies plan to employ the system in Atlanta, Dallas, Kansas City and Jacksonville, Fla.

The ESS will be capable of processing 550,000 long-distance calls per hour and about 150 calls every second. That is four times the capacity of the current equipment.

Calls between Chicago and Southern Illinois and a few other states will be put on the line Jan. 17.

Chicago noise law voided

A federal judge ruled Monday the U.S. Labor Party and other groups can use loudspeakers and noisemaking equipment in public in Chicago.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas R. McMillen found unconstitutional a Chicago ordinance against use of sound amplifying equipment, bells, gongs, horns, radios and whistles on a public street.

He said the ordinance was "too vague" and if properly applied would prohibit political candidates from campaigning and also silence "the Salvation Army's Christmas solicitation, the traffic officer's whistle, the horns and sirens of emergency vehicles and most other noises."

State sales, trade strong in '75

Illinois maintained its economic growth in 1975 despite the nation's major recession, the director of the Illinois Dept. of Business and Economic Development said Monday.

Joseph Pisciotte also said a December study by his department showed the state's total personal income doubled during the 10-year period from 1965 to 1974 from $35 billion to $69 billion.

"The study showed that Illinois' economic indicators such as material production and wholesale and retail sales consistently rank within the top five industrial states," he said.

"ACCORDING TO the study, the state ranks third in highest per capita disposable personal income and sixth in lowest rates of principal buisness taxes among the top 20 industrial states.

"Illinois emerged in 1975 as the national leader in coal development for the future with the awarding by the federal Energy Research and Development Administratin of a $237 million experimental coal gasification conversion plant — the Coalcon Company project in New Athens."

Pisciotte said that in the area of international trade, Illinois in 1975 continued to lead the nation in exports valued at over $8 million.

He said his department's 1975 achievements included the creation of more than 1,700 jobs and an initial investment of over $45.6 million to the state's economy, and more than $174,000 in matching grants to local and regional tourism committees and councils.

General was Truman's military hero: former aide

MacArthur friend refutes incidents in TV special

by BERNARD W. CAUGHEY

WELLESLEY, Mass. (UPI) — The personal aide of Gen. Douglas MacArthur says there is "absolutely no truth" to the story that President Harry S. Truman had to order MacArthur to land at Wake Island for their historic meeting and then the general kept the President waiting.

"I was at Wake Island with the general. MacArthur arrived at Wake the night before. We had dinner there, we slept there and he was waiting for Truman at the airport," Col. Laurence Bunker said Monday in an interview with UPI.

Bunker, MacArthur's aide-de-camp for six years from April 1946 through November 1952, said "there's absolutely no truth," to the much-publicized story that MacArthur kept his plane circling Wake trying to make Truman's plane land first and that the President finally ordered the general's plane to land. He also denied that after Truman's plane landed, MacArthur kept the President waiting 45 minutes before joining the welcoming committee.

THE WAKE Island scenario was used by writer Merle Miller in his book "Plain Speaking" and in the ABC-TV show "Collision Course," aired Sunday.

Concerning the first formal meeting of Truman and MacArthur, Truman has been quoted as saying, "When he walked in, I took one look at him and I said, 'Now you look here. I've come halfway across the world to meet you, but don't worry about that. I just want you to know I don't give a good goddamn what you do or think about Harry Truman, but don't you ever again keep your commander-in-chief waiting."

Wearing a gray, pin-striped suit, white shirt with French cuffs and a bowtie, Bunker sat in the living room of his two-and-a-half story, green clapboard home in this Boston suburb. An autographed colored photo of MacArthur was on the bookcase. Bunker slowly shook his head.

"There was no such confrontation," he said. "In his memoirs, Truman said the meeting was cordial. And at the end, he pinned the Distinguished Service Medal on MacArthur and gave him a box of candy for Mrs. MacArthur.

"GEN. GEORGE Marshall once told a friend of mine that Truman was reluctant to relieve MacArthur of duty. Even after he had done it, Marshall said MacArthur was Truman's military hero. It dated back to the first World War. When recalling MacArthur first was suggested to him, Truman said he was not going to do it — not going to end the career of a distinguished military man in this fashion. When it was suggested the second time, he reclutantly agreed," Bunker said.

Asked why he thought MacArthur was relieved of duty during the Korean War, Bunker said, "The people immediately around Truman were afraid he — MacArthur — was going to win the war. They had persuaded Truman to wage a limited war — a no-win war.

"There wer hostile elements in Washington giving Truman bad advice . . . Everything MacArthur did was to strengthen Truman's hand — not weaken it. He wasn't being insubordinate. He was putting facts before the public which those others were suppressing.

"There was a great deal of politics involved. MacArthur had not been back to the United States since 1937. He already had been credited by the American people with winning the war against Japan. He had conducted an incredibly successful occupation of Japan. Politically no one knew what MacArthur would do when he returned to the United States if he had added victory in the Korean War to this list.

"THEY WERE afraid the American people would put MacArthur into the White House whether he wanted it or not," Bunker said, adding, "I know he didn't want the White House. He had no ambition in that direction. If the American people insisted, he would have gone along — but he would have been unhappy.

"Politicians, particularly the Thomas Dewey wing of the Republican party, plus the Democrats, were determined to do something to tarnish the general's image before he returned to the United tes."

Bunker disclosed he only recently learned from "two independent and reliable persons" that when Truman finally was persuaded to fire MacArthur, Secretaryof State Dean Acheson and Marshall "had placed in Truman's hands two letters supposedly written by MacArthur which used uncomplimentary language about Truman. Truman later found out these letters were forgeries."

Bunker said even after he was relieved of duty, MacArthur bore no ill feelings towards Truman. "He had no bitterness for Truman. He was aware of the pressures being brought to bear on Truman."

HE RECALLED that following an annual dinner in honor of MacArthur, the general was talking with Gen. Leif J. Sverdrup, who organized the get-together. Bunker quoted MacArthur as saying, "Mark my words, Harry Truman is going to do down in history as a far greater president than Dwight Eisenhower. Harry Truman made more important decisions from a sound point of view than Ike ever dreamed of making."

Asked why he thought stories about a conflict between MacArthur and Truman were being publicized, Bunker said, "The said thing about Truman was that in his later years he became senile. Much of the press generally agreed not to interview him. But Merle Miller declined to go al'ng with that. He got Harry Truman into New York for a television show. Truman was drinking his favorite bourbon and Miller was making tapes of their conversations. But Miller sat on the tapes until after Truman died. If Truman had read some of those things, he would have corrected them."

Bunker said MacArthur would have been "horrified" by what took place in Vietnam.

"MacArthur was trained in the principle that when you go to war, you should end it as soon as possible. The longer it goes on, the more casualties. And if one thing bothered him, it was casualties. During his 37 or 39 amphibious landings, there were only something like 59 persons killed in establishing a beachhead. That's absolutely fabulous.

"I KNOW THE general was very unhappy about the battle tactics of the Australians and at times the Marines. Both of them liked to be spectacular — to stage frontal attacks. MacArthur disliked that because it caused too many casualties."

Bunker insists later events prove MacArthur "absolutely right" in his desire to defeat the Communist forces in Korea. "If we had won the war in Korea there would not have been a war in Vietnam.

"Certain things stick out now against the background. In 1945, MacArthur asked the Department of the Army for permission to try Japanese Prime Minister Hideki Tojo and his cabinet on the simple charge of murder because they had attacked Pearl Harbor without declaring a state of war. The Department told him to forget about it.

"He went back and pleaded with them to let him get this cleared up. But people in power apparently already were thinking of the possibility of an undeclared war such as the Vietnam War. And they couldn't permit MacArthur to establish a principle he believed in: That to kill someone in an undeclared war was murder."

After a long pause to think about the question, Bunker said "offhand" he believed MacArthur's biggest mistake was that "he was too generous in judging other people. He couldn't realize how low some people would stoop for political advantage."

THE VICE PRESIDENT of the MacArthur Memorial Foundation in Norfolk, Va., reminisced about MacArthur calling him a "wonderful man to work for . . . an easy man to work with, once you learned what he wanted and expected.

"He had a wonderful ability to delegate authority and responsibility. When things went well, he never tried to appropriate credit. But if a chap failed, the general took the blame.

"I think one of his outstanding traits was that he had a tremendous sense of the fitness of things. If a situation required the commander-in-chief to put on a good show, he'd put on a good show. Not 'cause he wanted to do it, but because he realized it was the thing to do.

"He had no gift for small talk. He thought it was a waste of time.

"He wasn't one to slap GIs on the back and become one of them. That wasn't appropriate," Bunker said.

GOP voters given option of convention delegates

Republican primary voters will have the choice between delegate slates to the Republican National Convention headed by U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and Harold Smith Jr., vice chairman of President Ford's statewide campaign organization in the March 16 primary.

Crane will head the slate pledged to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. Other candidates for delegate on the Reagan slate are State Rep. David A. Regner, R-Mount Prospect; State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Schaumburg, Reagan's state campaign director; and Elizabeth Brown of Lake Forest, State Central committeewoman from the 12th Congressional District.

Candidates for alternate delegate on the Reagan slate are Bernard Pedersen, Palatine Township committeeman; Ruth Hepple of Barrington; Eloise Canfield of Arlington Heights; and George Francis of Libertyville.

SMITH, BARRINGTON Township committeeman, will head the Ford slate. Other candidates for delegate pledged to Ford are William Heffernan of Arlington Heights, vice chairman of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization; Glena Jicha of Palatine, former Palatine Township committeewoman; and Ira Marshall of Highland Park.

Candidates for alternate delegate pledged to Ford are George Wiley, West Deerfield Township committeeman; David Ganfield, of Vernon Township, vice chairman of the Lake County Republican committee; Bernard Lee, Elk Grove Township auditor; and Nancy L. Lyerla of Hoffman Estates, secretary of the Schaumburg Township Republican organization.

The 12th district will send four delegates and four alternates to the GOP convention in August. Republican leaders in the 12th district Saturday decided not to endorse a single slate in the primary and instead let the two presidential candidates run separate slates.

Chicago cops told to use hiring quota

A federal judge ordered the Chicago Police Dept. Monday to hire a quota of women, blacks and Latin males to correct past discriminatory practices, and enjoined the U.S. Treasury from providing revenue-sharing funds until the city complies.

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall ordered the city to adopt a hiring quota of 16 women, 42 black and Latin males and 42 white males for every new 100 employes. In a 64-page opinion, Marshall said he was impounding all federal revenue funds as an "economic sanction . . . to end the sexual and racial discrimination."

His order took the form of a permanent injunction.

Marshall criticized city and police officials for what he called "gross neglect of their duties." He said during the five-year court battle city officials constantly said they needed more police officers but refused to comply with his interim hiring orders.

"No court, state or federal, should become an employment review board," Marshall said, but "the court has not only the power but the duty to enjoin future discrimination and as far as possible to require the elimination of the continuing effects of past discrimination."

Daley defends city lottery

Mayor Richard J. Daley Monday defended his proposal for a city lottery, saying too much tax money goes to Washington and Springfield and too little is returned to the cities.

Daley estimated the city could raise $30 to $35 million annually from a lottery, which is considered a form of voluntary taxation.

Noting that many state lottery tickets are sold in the Chicago area, Daley said, "charity begins at home."

He also suggested the city and state might develop a joint lottery.

"We should join as partners," he said. "I know the state would be more than happy to show us ways to administer the lottery and cooperate with us."

Illinois briefs

Daley said the city is not getting back its fair share of tax money.

"There's too much money going to Washington and Springfield, and too much continuing to be arbitrarily withheld," he said.

Area gets new phone relay

Long-distance callers will get an almost instantaneous ring and probably won't have to wait for lines to clear on busy holidays when a new electronic switching system is hooked up in Chicago this month.

Illinois Bell will be the first company in the nation to use the No. 4 Electronic Switching System (ESS), although phone companies plan to employ the system in Atlanta, Dallas, Kansas City and Jacksonville, Fla.

Prep cagers back in action with two games

by ART MUGALIAN

A three-week layoff for the Palatine basketball team wasn't long enough for the Pirates' Rick Benson, a junior guard who was counted on to do some scoring damage against Rolling Meadows tonight.

Benson, a rangy 6-foot-2 backcourt man, dislocated a knee on Dec. 19 and won't be able to play for at least another week, much to the dismay of Palatine coach Ron Finfrock.

The Pirates will entertain Bill Weinberg's Rolling Meadows Mustangs at 8 p.m. in a Mid - Suburban League crossover match. Forest View (1-10) is the only other MSL team in action tonight. The Falcons host Mundelein, also at 8:00.

"Benson had scored eight points against Wheeling when he got hurt," said Finfrock, whose Pirates took a pass over the holidays and come into tonight's game with a 3-4 record.

Palatine lost the MSL lidlifter to Wheeling and hasn't played since. Benson, who had won a starting berth the week before with 12 points in a victory over Maine North, hasn't played either.

"It's hard telling who we'll play at guard," said Finfrock, who has tried several players at point-man already this season.

For certain, it means more pressure on Kevin McKenna, Palatine's 6-6 forward, who owns a 22.6 point average. point average.

"Benson and McKenna are Palatine's two tough ones," Weinberg said before learning of Benson's unavailability. "They're both good shooters and they're tough on the boards.

"We're not interested in running with them," continued the Mustang coach, whose squad is 2-2 in the MSL South, including a convincing win over Schaumburg. "We'll try to use our height advantage to the best benefit."

Weinberg's squad is plagued by illness and injury also Ken Breitbeil, a 6-2 guard, is hobbling on a bad ankle and is likely to see only limited action tonight. And 6-7 center Bill Wissen missed school on Monday because of influenza, making him doubtful for the Palatine game.

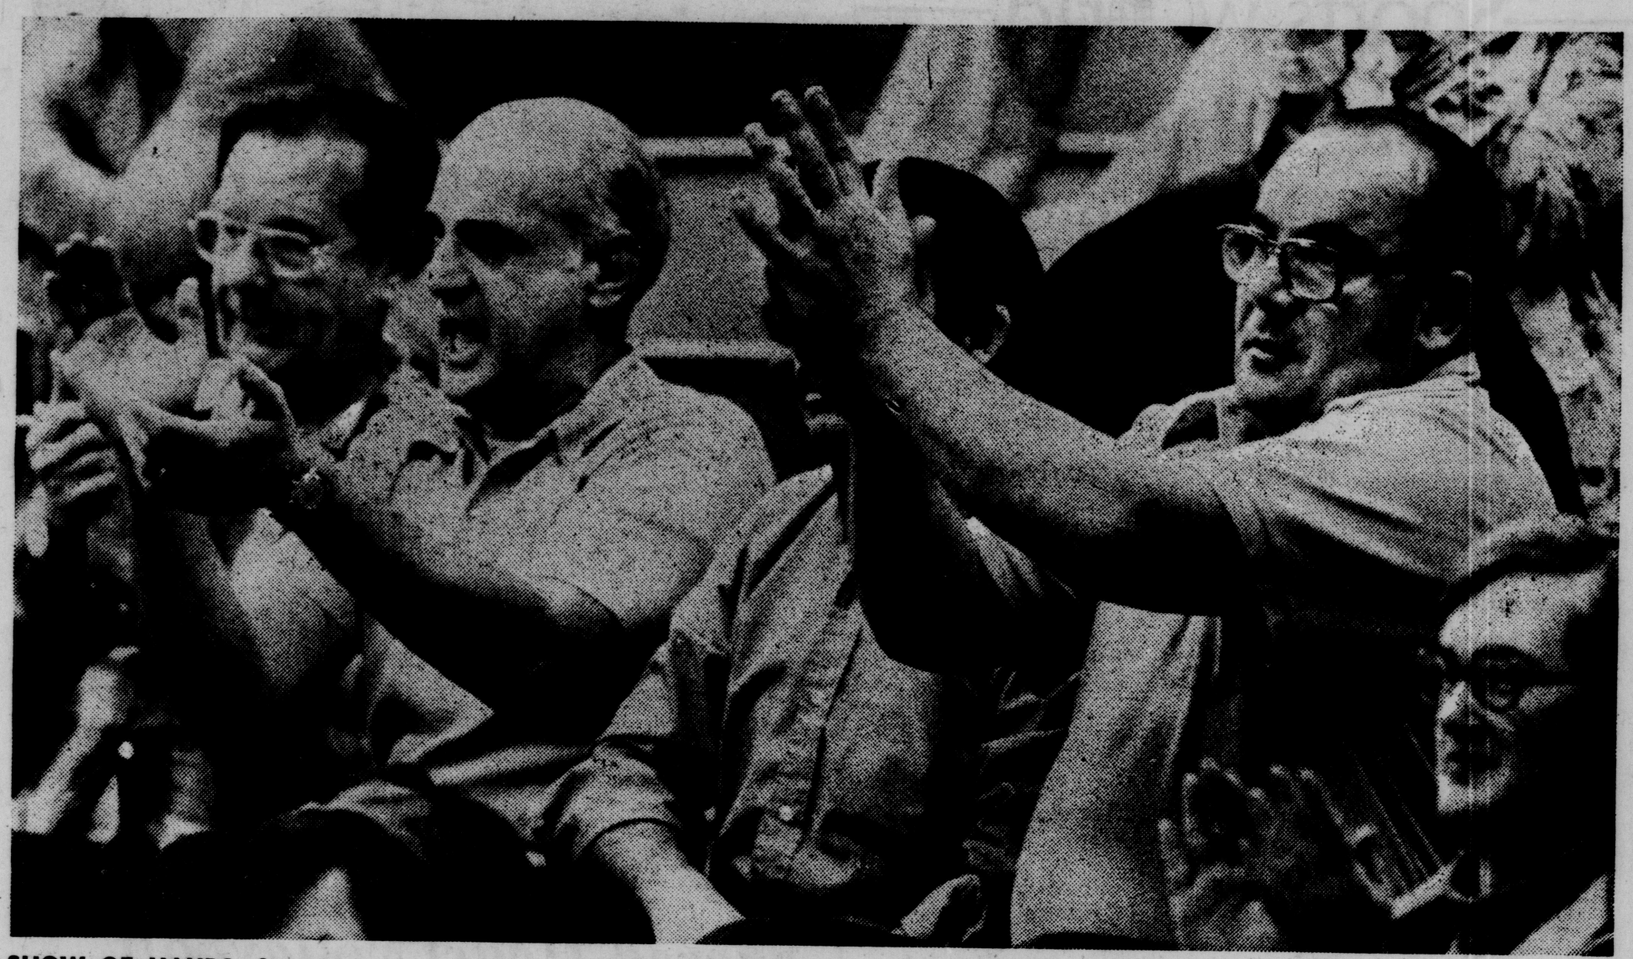

But even without Wissen, the Mustangs can show 6-5 Gerry McGill, 6-3 John Carbery, and 6-5 Steve Duffy across the front line. They'll battle McKenna and 6-4 Pirate Ken Reid under the boards.

The key to the game may be Rolling Meadows' senior guard Noe Nunez, who has a nine-point average in league games.

"They don't have any real good outside shooting except for Nunez," said Finfrock.

Nunez tallied 18 points against Schaumburg, and he plays an aggressive, scrappy defense.

If Wissen is able to play, Weinberg may be able to shift McGill to guard, one of the coach's bolder experiments. "He can handle the ball and he's a good outside shooter" said Weinberg.

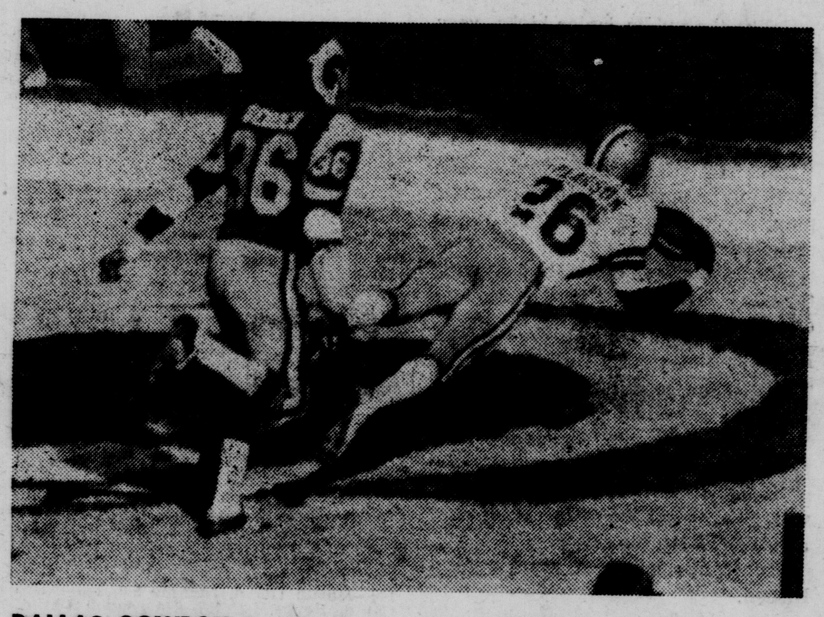

SHOW OF HANDS. Spectators show their approval during Forest View's double dual wrestling meet Saturday, which brought together four local teams: Arlington, St. Viator, Maine West and the host Falcons. The Warriors went on to dominate the meet, handing both the Cardinals and Forest View solid setbalks.

Good Pearsons

First Drew, then Preston lead surprising Dallas Cowboys

DALLAS COWBOY Preston Pearson, who only played basketball at the University of Illinois, dives into the endzone for a pass thrown by Roger Staubauch for the third Dallas touchdown in a 37-7 romp past Los Angeles. Pearson caught seven passes for three touchdowns in the playoff win.

by MIKE RABUN

DALLAS (UPI) — Last week it was Drew. This week it is Preston.

It is becoming increasingly difficult to keep a good Pearson down.

First Drew Pearson made two superlative catches to allow Dallas to survive against Minnesota in the opening round of the NFL playoffs and now Preston Pearson, no relation, has taken up the hero role.

And for Preston Pearson the trip to Super Bowl X for a meeting with the Pittsburgh Steelers will be the realization of a dream.

"I dreamed that I'd get a chance in the Super Bowl against the Steelers," said Pearson, who caught seven passes for 123 yards and three touchdowns Sunday in the Cowboys' 37-7 NFC title win over Los Angeles.

"Am I still dreaming? Pinch me."

Preston Pearson, a basketball star at the University of Illinois, went to the Super Bowl last year as a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers, but when the final cuts were made before the start of the 1975 season he was trimmed from the roster.

Pearson cleared waivers — no other NFL team wanted him — so Dallas, in great need of experience at running back when the season began, signed him as a free agent.

He has wanted a chance at the Steelers ever since, and now he will get it.

"I was a little surprised when they cut me but I guess I shouldn't have been," Pearson said. "They didn't play me at all in their last preseason game."

Pearson, a nine-year pro from Freeport, Ill., spent five seasons with the Steelers and still makes his home in Pittsburgh.

"I talked to the Green Bay Packers and the San Diego Chargers after Pittsburgh released me," he said, "But the Dallas people made a special trip to see me so I went to Dallas."

He hasn't been sorry. He's already earned $8,500 for being on the winning team in the NFC championship game.

The 6-1, 205-pound running back played in Pittsburgh's 16-6 win over Minnesota in Super Bowl IX but he didn't play much. He was used only as a member of the Steelers' special teams after missing their final five regular season games with a hamstring injury.

"Those guys are my friends," Pearson said when asked about the Steelers. "I've known most of them for five years. But once you get on the football field, it's war.

"I'll play my game in the Super Bowl and they'll play theirs.

"This is the first time I've been to the Super Bowl in a starting role," Pearson said. "Last year I played on specialty teams with the Steelers and didn't even get my uniform dirty.

"No doubt, this is the most meaningful game and season I've experienced. I was scared to death when the game started Sunday. I couldn't sleep the night before. I woke up at 5:30 a.m.

"But I take pride in being able to play under pressure.

"The reason I like this season more is that I've been called on more. I don't mean this to sound conceited or anything, but I also think I've responded."

The second of Pearson's touchdowns last Sunday was his most spectacular. He stretched out parallel to the ground to catch a throw from Roger Staubach and landed in the end zone with the score to put Dallas ahead at the half, 21-0.

"I've been trying to get them to use that play," Pearson said. "Now, maybe we'll use it again."

But whatever Dallas tried against Los Angeles worked.

"This team has a lot of heart," said linebacker D.D. Lewis, who intercepted two passes Sunday — the first one leading to the Cowboys' initial score.

"We've had the great teams, but they were more mechanical — step six inches this way, six inches that way.

"But this team has heart. We make some mistakes, but we still make the plays."

Martin's mat showing tops area entries

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

A stellar performance by Pete Martin highlighted the showings of two area schools in Rockford's big holiday wrestling tournament.

Martin led his Rolling Meadows club to an eighth place finish while Elk Grove wound up a notch higher among the 16 large school teams gathered for the meet. Martin snared the 145-pound championship and then turned around and knocked off the winner of a small school tournament being conducted at the same time.

The ultimate finals — between A and AA champs — was marred when big tourney winner Joliet Central had their 98-pound blue ribbon entry beaten by the small school champion. The Joliet contingent abruptly walked out of the tournament.

Meadows had two other place earners in Jim Carlstrom (third at 119) and Jim Harrington (fourth at 155) while collecting 52 team points.

The Grenadiers, who had 55½ points for seventh, were led by John Carpenter (third at 138), Wayne Stoltzman (third at 185), Mike Malone (fourth at heavyweight) and Steve King (fifth at 112).

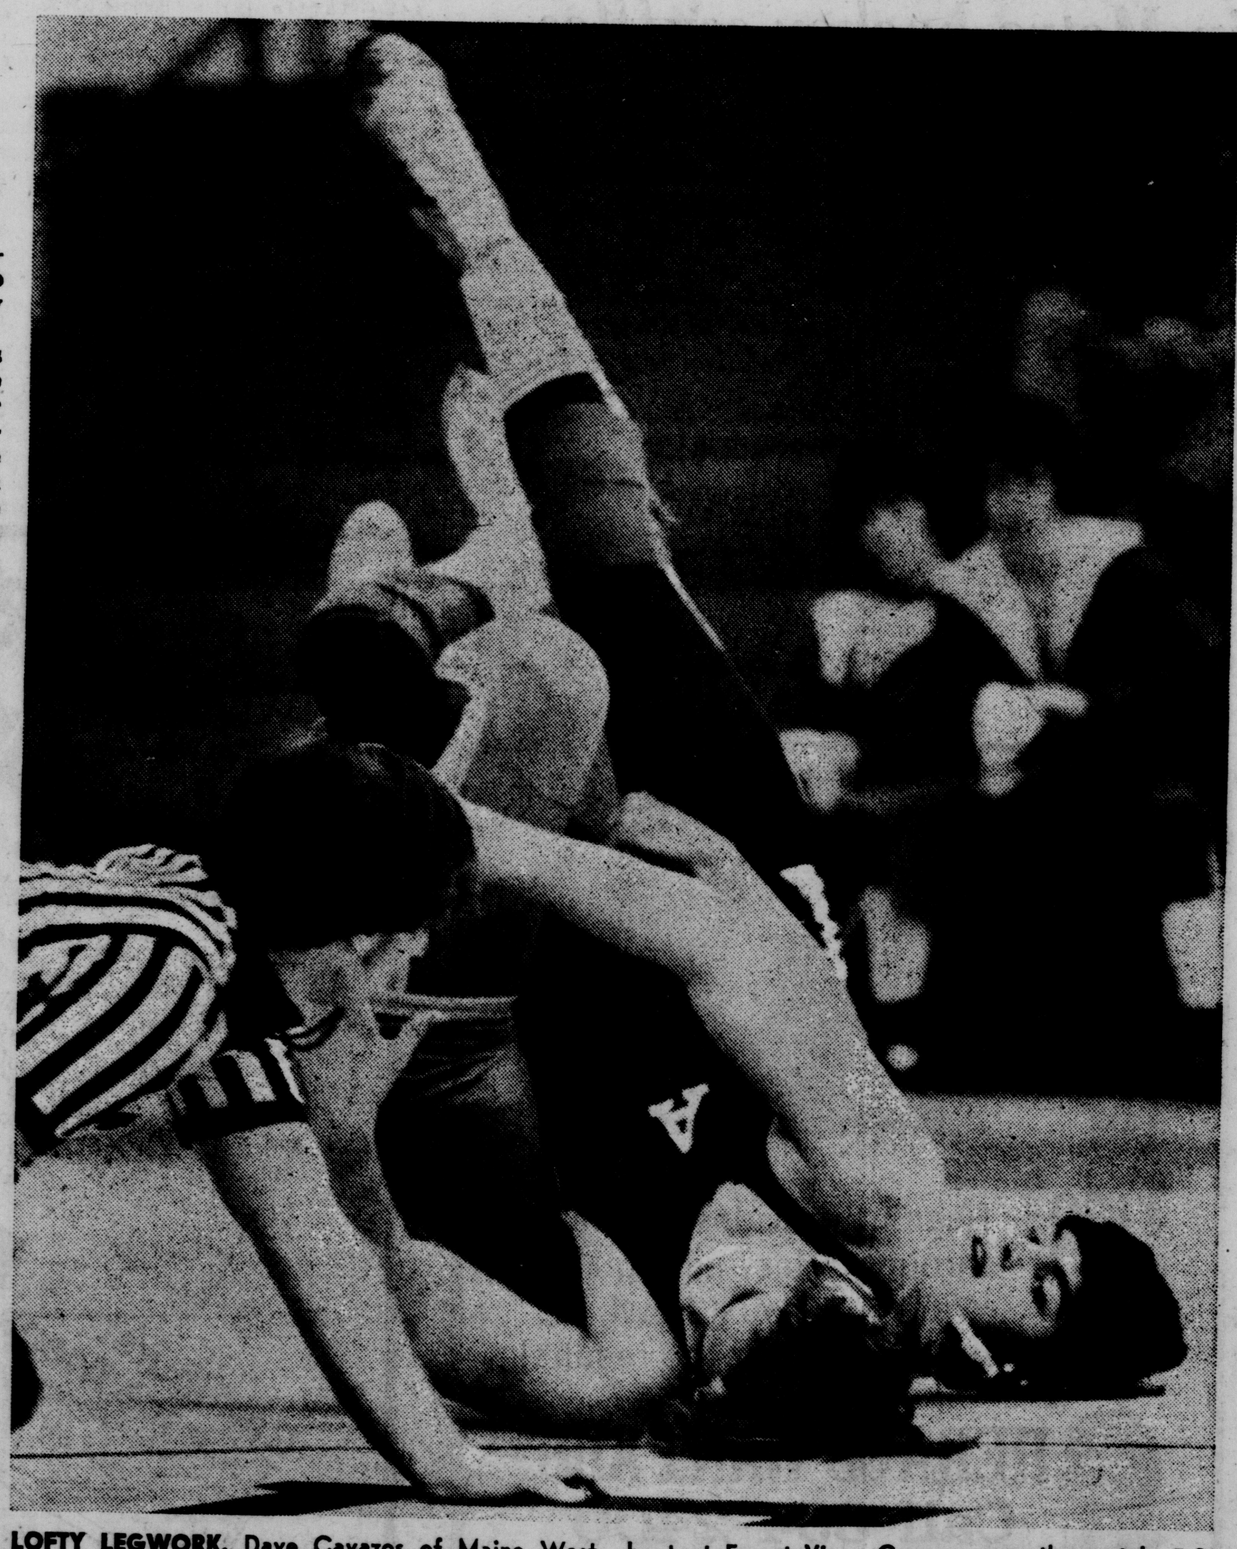

Joliet Central's winning total was 138. Morris, Rockford Jefferson, Dundee, Barrington and Oak Park rounded out the top six in that order.

Martin advanced to the semis via a 17-2 decision and a 2:24 pin and then won his next two bouts by healthy 9-0 margins. His win in the championship bout was over Broncho Bob Moore, who had just dominated the Glenbrook South tourney a few days earlier.

Martin posted another pin in his finale against the A tourney champion.

Elk Grove's Carpenter was also an impressive area performer at Rockford. He opened with a pin and 14-3 romp and then dropped a 7-6 heartbreaker to Joliet Central's Scott Trizzini, a defending state champ.

Carpenter then rallied with a 22-2 blitz and edged Dundee state qualifier Ray Helminski on a 4-4 ref's decision in the battle for third place.

LOFTY LEGWORK. Dave Cavazos of Maine West maintains a watchful eye on Jay Slezak of Arlington as they skirmish feet up during their 185-pound bout at Forest View. Cavazos won the match, 5-2, contributing to a 41-9 Warrior romp over the Cardinals.

Harper returns to action tonight

With five wins in their last seven games, the Harper Hawks (6-9) will return to action tonight in the host's role against Thornton.

The game, to be played at St. Viator at 8 p.m., will be the first for Harper since they won the consolation championship in the Highland Holiday Tournament.

Roger Bechtold is looking for further improvement over the second half of the season as several new players join the squad after bucking injuries and academic problems.

Wally Butman, Harper's 6-3 forward, is rounding into form and averaged 23 points a game during the Christmas action.

Jim Cook named assistant sports editor of Herald

James A. Cook has been named assistant sports editor of The Herald. In that capacity, he will participate in sports department planning and supervisory matters.

The announcement was made Monday by Daniel E. Baumann, vice president and editor of Paddock Publications.

Cook's position is a new one, and it will involve him in a variety of areas, along with Sports Editor Bob Frisk and Associate Sports Editor Paul Logan. He will assist in personnel matters, copy editing and page makeup and community relations programs of the department.

Cook began his sports writing career at Day Publications in January 1969 and was assistant sports editor at the time Paddock Publications purchased it in June 1970.

"Since then," Baumann said, "Jim has made an ever increasing contribution to The Herald, as a sports writer and as outdoor editor (a post he will retain), and we are delighted by his continuing progress."

James A. Cook

Cook is 27, and a resident of Rolling Meadows. He grew up in Niles, attending Maine East High School, Harper College and Northern Illinois University.

Good Pearsons

First Drew, then Preston lead surprising Dallas Cowboys

DALLAS COWBOY Preston Pearson, who only played basketball at the University of Illinois, dives into the endzone for a pass thrown by Roger Staubauch for the third Dallas touchdown in a 37-7 romp past Los Angeles. Pearson caught seven passes for three touchdowns in the playoff win.

by MIKE RABUN

DALLAS (UPI) — Last week it was Drew. This week it is Preston.

It is becoming increasingly difficult to keep a good Pearson down.

First Drew Pearson made two superlative catches to allow Dallas to survive against Minnesota in the opening round of the NFL playoffs and now Preston Pearson, no relation, has taken up the hero role.

And for Preston Pearson the trip to Super Bowl X for a meeting with the Pittsburgh Steelers will be the realization of a dream.

"I dreamed that I'd get a chance in the Super Bowl against the Steelers," said Pearson, who caught seven passes for 123 yards and three touchdowns Sunday in the Cowboys' 37-7 NFC title win over Los Angeles.

"Am I still dreaming? Pinch me."

Preston Pearson, a basketball star at the University of Illinois, went to the Super Bowl last year as a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers, but when the final cuts were made before the start of the 1975 season he was trimmed from the roster.

Pearson cleared waivers — no other NFL team wanted him — so Dallas, in great need of experience at running back when the season began, signed him as a free agent.

He has wanted a chance at the Steelers ever since, and now he will get it.

"I was a little surprised when they cut me but I guess I shouldn't have been," Pearson said. "They didn't play me at all in their last preseason game."

Pearson, a nine-year pro from Freeport, Ill., spent five seasons with the Steelers and still makes his home in Pittsburgh.

"I talked to the Green Bay Packers and the San Diego Chargers after Pittsburgh released me," he said, "But the Dallas people made a special trip to see me so I went to Dallas."

He hasn't been sorry. He's already earned $8,500 for being on the winning team in the NFC championship game.

The 6-1, 205-pound running back played in Pittsburgh's 16-6 win over Minnesota in Super Bowl IX but he didn't play much. He was used only as a member of the Steelers' special teams after missing their final five regular season games with a hamstring injury.

"Those guys are my friends," Pearson said when asked about the Steelers. "I've known most of them for five years. But once you get on the football field, it's war.

"I'll play my game in the Super Bowl and they'll play theirs.

"This is the first time I've been to the Super Bowl in a starting role," Pearson said. "Last year I played on specialty teams with the Steelers and didn't even get my uniform dirty.

"No doubt, this is the most meaningful game and season I've experienced. I was scared to death when the game started Sunday. I couldn't sleep the night before. I woke up at 5:30 a.m.

"But I take pride in being able to play under pressure.

"The reason I like this season more is that I've been called on more. I don't mean this to sound conceited or anything, but I also think I've responded."

The second of Pearson's touchdowns last Sunday was his most spectacular. He stretched out parallel to the ground to catch a throw from Roger Staubach and landed in the end zone with the score to put Dallas ahead at the half, 21-0.

"I've been trying to get them to use that play," Pearson said. "Now, maybe we'll use it again."

But whatever Dallas tried against Los Angeles worked.

"This team has a lot of heart," said linebacker D.D. Lewis, who intercepted two passes Sunday — the first one leading to the Cowboys' initial score.

"We've had the great teams, but they were more mechanical — step six inches this way, six inches that way.

"But this team has heart. We make some mistakes, but we still make the plays."

Martin's mat showing tops area entries

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

A stellar performance by Pete Martin highlighted the showings of two area schools in Rockford's big holiday wrestling tournament.

Martin led his Rolling Meadows club to an eighth place finish while Elk Grove wound up a notch higher among the 16 large school teams gathered for the meet. Martin snared the 145-pound championship and then turned around and knocked off the winner of a small school tournament being conducted at the same time.

The ultimate finals — between A and AA champs — was marred when big tourney winner Joliet Central had their 98-pound blue ribbon entry beaten by the small school champion. The Joliet contingent abruptly walked out of the tournament.

Meadows had two other place earners in Jim Carlstrom (third at 119) and Jim Harrington (fourth at 155) while collecting 52 team points.

The Grenadiers, who had 55½ points for seventh, were led by John Carpenter (third at 138), Wayne Stoltzman (third at 185), Mike Malone (fourth at heavyweight) and Steve King (fifth at 112).

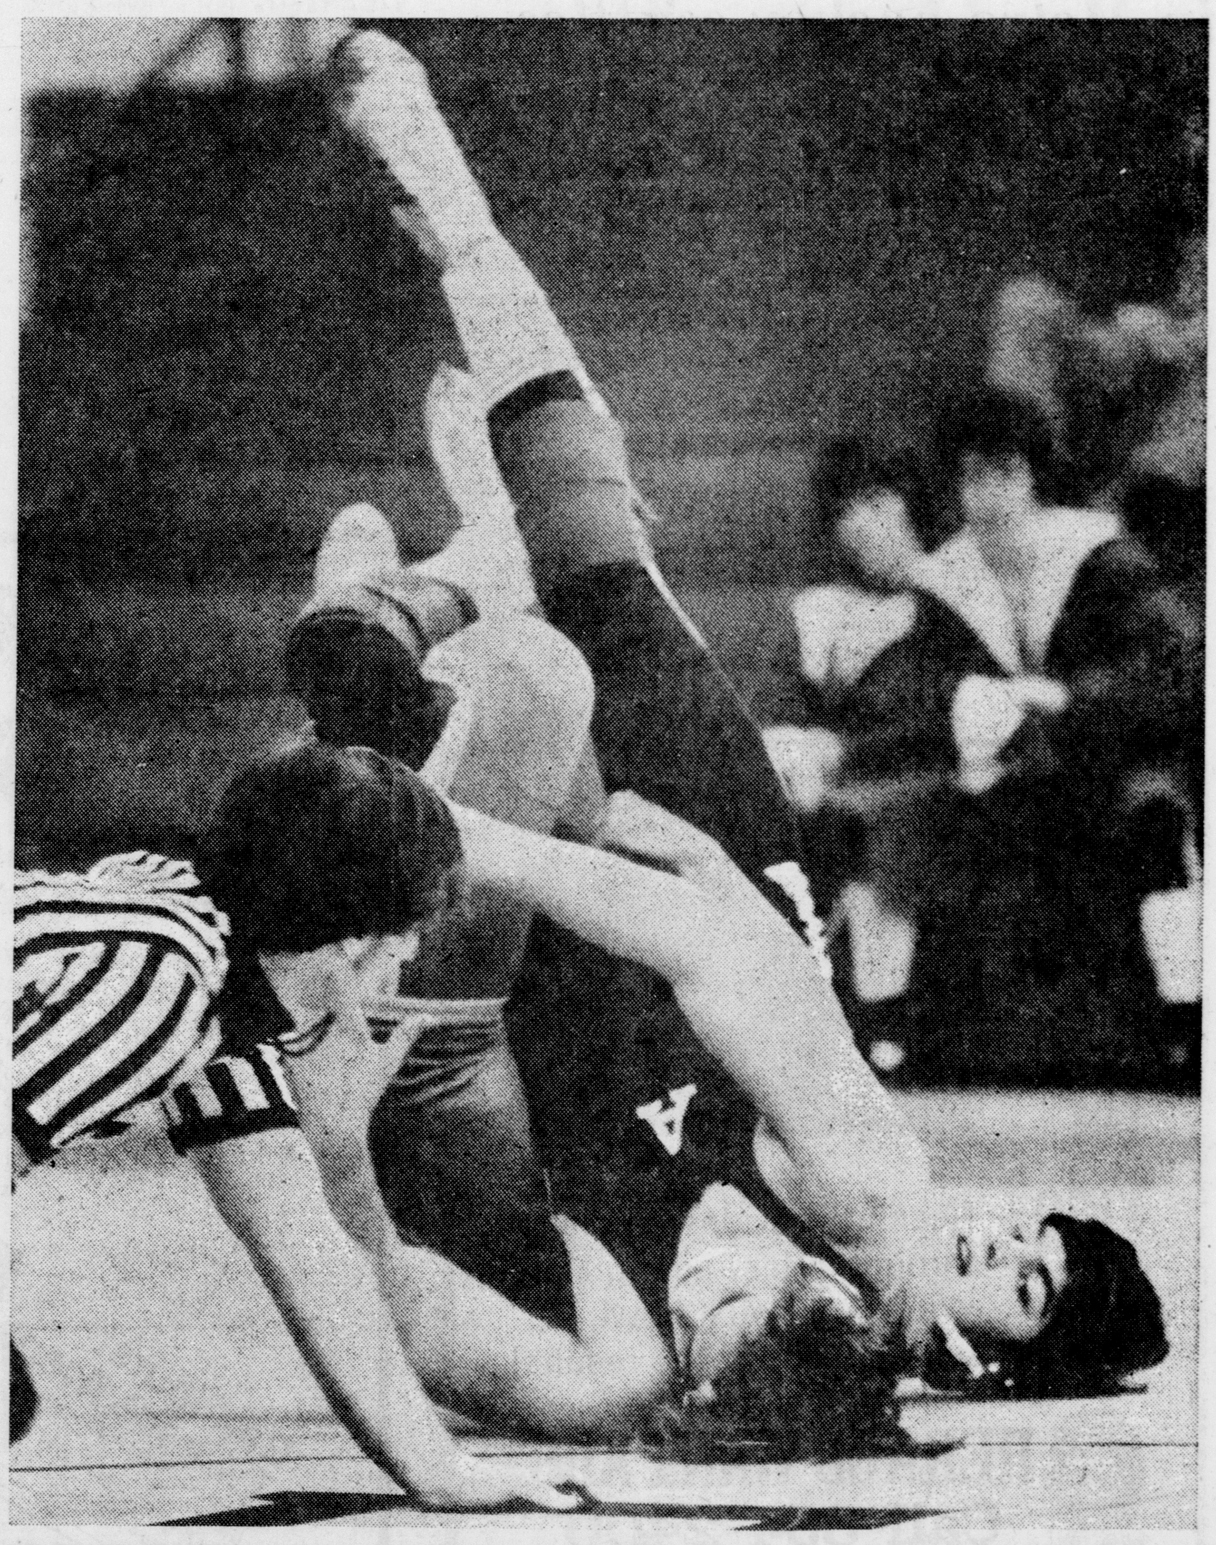

Joliet Central's winning total was 138. Morris, Rockford Jefferson, Dundee, Barrington and Oak Park rounded out the top six in that order.

Martin advanced to the semis via a 17-2 decision and a 2:24 pin and then won his next two bouts by healthy 9-0 margins. His win in the championship bout was over Broncho Bob Moore, who had just dominated the Glenbrook South tourney a few days earlier.

Martin posted another pin in his finale against the A tourney champion.

Elk Grove's Carpenter was also an impressive area performer at Rockford. He opened with a pin and 14-3 romp and then dropped a 7-6 heartbreaker to Joliet Central's Scott Trizzini, a defending state champ.

Carpenter then rallied with a 22-2 blitz and edged Dundee state qualifier Ray Helminski on a 4-4 ref's decision in the battle for third place.

Harper returns to action tonight

With five wins in their last seven games, the Harper Hawks (6-9) will return to action tonight in the host's role against Thornton.

The game, to be played at St. Viator at 8 p.m., will be the first for Harper since they won the consolation championship in the Highland Holiday Tournament.

Roger Bechtold is looking for further improvement over the second half of the season as several new players join the squad after bucking injuries and academic problems.

Wally Butman, Harper's 6-3 forward, is rounding into form and averaged 23 points a game during the Christmas action.

Jim Cook named assistant sports editor of Herald

James A. Cook has been named assistant sports editor of The Herald. In that capacity, he will participate in sports department planning and supervisory matters.

The announcement was made Monday by Daniel E. Baumann, vice president and editor of Paddock Publications.

Cook's position is a new one, and it will involve him in a variety of areas, along with Sports Editor Bob Frisk and Associate Sports Editor Paul Logan. He will assist in personnel matters, copy editing and page makeup and community relations programs of the department.

Cook began his sports writing career at Day Publications in January 1969 and was assistant sports editor at the time Paddock Publications purchased it in June 1970.

"Since then," Baumann said, "Jim has made an ever increasing contribution to The Herald, as a sports writer and as outdoor editor (a post he will retain), and we are delighted by his continuing progress."

James A. Cook

Cook is 27, and a resident of Rolling Meadows. He grew up in Niles, attending Maine East High School, Harper College and Northern Illinois University.

Hoosiers dominate UPI ratings—again

Indiana continued to unanimously dominate the number one ranking of the United Press International board of coaches ratings this week, but several new schools, who have been out of the limelight for some time, crept into the latest rankings.

The Hoosiers, 11-0 on the season after a 78-61 drubbing of Northwestern Monday night, polled all first place votes to keep the top spot. Maryland, (10-0), is ranked second.

Rounding out the top five are UCLA (10-1), Marquette (8-1) and Washington, (11-0).

Some names unfamiliar to the top 10 rankings make up the second five. Nevada-Las Vegas gained the number six ranking this week. Previously unranked Wake Forest, after upsets of highly rated North Carolina and Norh Carolina State, jumped all the way up to a seventh-place rating.

North Carolina (7-1) is ranked eighth, while Alabama (8-1) is ranked ninth. Rounding out the top 10 is St. John's of New York (10-1).

Notre Dame (14th), North Carolina State (16th) and Kentucky (19th), meanwhile, dropped into the second 10.

Bulls nip Houston, 98-97

Jack Marin's 12-foot jumper from the corner at the final gun boosted the Chicago Bulls to a 98-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets Monday night.

Chicago trailed when Rudy Tomjanovich made one of two free throws with 19 seconds remaining to give Houston a 97-96 advantage. But Tomjanovich missed the second shot of the two-shot foul and the Bulls pulled down the rebound.

Chicago called a time out with 14 seconds remaining and took the ball out at midcourt. Jerry Sloan drove the lane and attempted a layup, but his shot was belted away by Tomjanovich. Marin then got the ball in the corner and made a desperation shot for the winning points.

Chicago's Mickey Johnson led all scorers with a career-high 27 points, all in the first three quarters.

Houston was led by guards Calvin Murphy and Mike Newlin, who each scored 23 points.

Shanahan to head WIU football

Assistant football coach Bill Shanahan Tuesday was named head coach at Western Illinois University, replacing Brodie Westen, who resigned after a disappointing 5-4-1 season.

Shanahan, 37, has been defensive coach at WIU for the past two years. A former athlete at Huron College, Huron, S.D., Shanahan was head coach at Western New Mexico 1968-73, where his 1970 squad won the Rocky Mountain Conference championship and he was named NAIA coach of the year in District 7.

Before that he was an assistant coach at Utah, Northern Colorado and Western State.

Shanahan inherits a team with more than 35 returning lettermen and a school with a strong 51-19-1 record since 1969, when Darrell Mudra was head coach. Mudra was fired Sunday at Florida State after his teams won only four games in two years.

Stockton-Casals take doubles title

The team of Dick Stockton and Rosemary Casals took advantage of poor serving by Mark Cox to down the Britisher and his countrywoman Virginia Wade Monday night, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 and win the World Mixed Doubles Championship.

The winning pair took home $25,000 and the losers received $15,000 in the world's richest mixed doubles event.

Cox lost his serve in the second game of the match to set the tone for the evening. He was broken twice more in the second set and lost his serve again in the third set.

Hoosiers run over Northwestern

Kent Benson poured in 22 points and the unbeaten and top-ranked Indiana Hoosiers turned on the pressure in the second half Monday night to trounce Northwestern 78-61 and score their 11th straight triumph.

It was Indiana's second victory in Big Ten play this season and boosted their conference winning streak to a school-record 21 games.

The Hoosiers got off to a slow start but led 40-27 at the half and quickly increased their margin to 56-29 as the Wildcats failed to connect from the floor during the first 7½ minutes of the second half.

Northwestern slipped to 5-6 for the season and 0-2 in the Big Ten.

Northwestern managed to keep the score respectable after Indiana coach Bobby Knight cleared his bench.

OSU student paper blasts Woody

Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes took another verbal poke in the nose Monday from the school's student newspaper, The Lantern, over his "inexcusable behavior" following the Buckeyes' 23-10 Rose Bowl loss to UCLA.

Hayes, who has been a target of the Lantern before for his antics, refused to talk to newsmen after the loss, which cost the Buckeyes the national championship.

Even upon his return to Columbus, Hayes remained speechless and apparently was responsible for the canceling of a welcome home reception which had been planned for the team.

"Like Richard Nixon before the fall," wrote Lantern columnist Tom Loftus, "Woody Hayes' actions are becoming harder and harder to defend. The coach of the year's inexcusable post Rose Bowl behavior is costing him more friends and fans than the national championships he's squandered in recent years."

St. Louis Blues hire new coach

Leo Boivin, assistant coach of the St. Louis Blues for the last two weeks, Monday was named the ninth coach to run the National Hockey League club in its nine-year existence.

Boivin succeeds Lynn Patrick, who coached the team after Garry Young was fired two weeks ago. Young ran the club for a year.

Patrick said that at 63 he did not have the stamina required for the rigorous hockey schedule. Patrick, senior vice president of the club, recommended Boivin take over the job.

Boivin, 44, had been running all team practices since being named assistant coach. He was a defenseman for 19 years in the NHL with Toronto, Boston, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Minnesota.

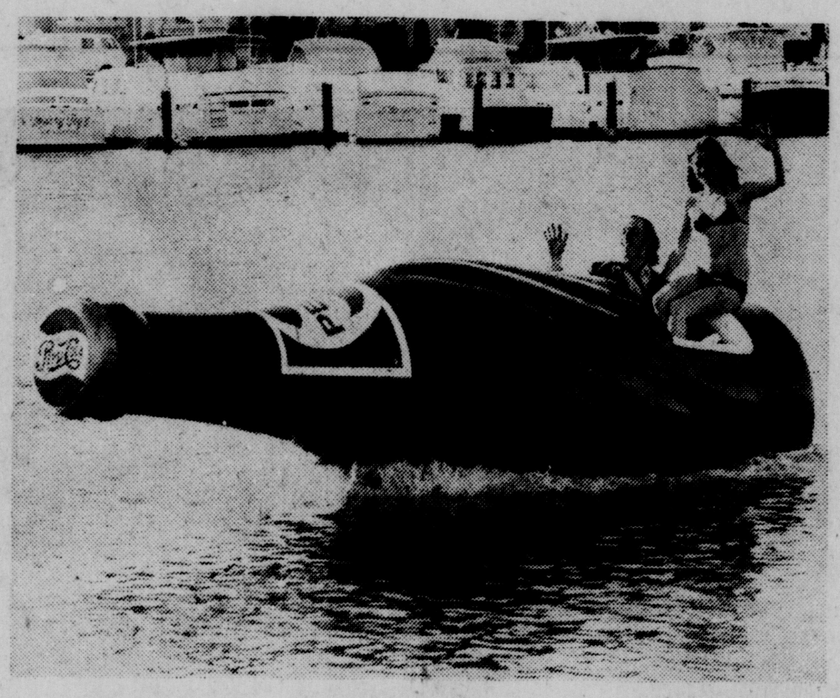

Bugner retires from boxing

Former British and European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner, who last year unsuccessfully challenged Muhammad Ali for his world title, Monday announced his retirement from the ring at the age of 25.

"Boxing was a sport I never liked but learned to love," said Bugner. "The love died after the Ali fight."

Bugner came to Britain from Hungary after the 1956 uprising and fought most of his 59 bouts after turning professional in 1967. He won 51, lost seven and drew one.

Bugner won the British and European crown from Henry Cooper in 1971, successfully defending the European title twice against Jurgen Blin of West Germany, Italians Dante Cane, Bepi Ros and Mario Baruzzi and Dutchman Rudi Lubbers.

New season for Conant, Sacred Heart volleyball teams in district action

(Editor's Note: One in a series of weekly features on area volleyball teams.)

by PAUL LOGAN

"The district tournament's the chance for every team to start over."

Caren Betts' comment is true for her Conant team as well as a team that's won just one meet, like Rosemary Sawin's Sacred Heart of Mary volleyball team.

The new season starts next week for Conant, 6-6 in 1975, and Sacred Heart, 1-8.

"We could have a good chance in the districts," continued Betts. "All the games we've played — with the exception of Rolling Meadows — were close."

In many of their losses, the Cougars would tend to let up late, thinking they had the game already won, according to Betts. "Maybe they were a little over-confident."

Four of her top players are seniors. They are Linda Patino ("she should be all-conference this year"), Kathy Evans (an all-conference performer last year who "has improved greatly the last few games"), Diane Hillman and Tina Lutz.

Conant will be playing in the Glenbard North District, opening up against Elgin Larkin.

Sacred Heart's team will also meet an Elgin team in the Glenbard tourney — Elgin High School. But prior to that, Sawin's young women will finish up their regular schedule with St. Scholastica of Chicago.

Unlike the public junior highs, very few parochial schools offer power volleyball. "When they come here, we have to teach them from scratch," said Sawin.

Since last year was the first season of highly competitive interscholastic play, Sawin decided not to play in the state tourney.

"Because it was almost a beginning team, I just felt the season was enough for the girls," she said.

Sacred Heart is still a young team. Three of its top starters are underclassmen — juniors Marsha Kresl and Sue Rusnnak and sophomore Sue Skarzynski. Kresl is the team's top all-round player, according to Sawin, with Skarzynski being the top spiker and Rusnak the top setter.

The team's lone win came against Discoll.

Lions win, Arlington loses in Metro hockey scuffles

Division-leading Maine South got a scare from Arlington before thumping the Cards, 6-2, in Metro Northwest High School hockey action Sunday at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena.

Arlington, slowed by sickness and injury, got the opening goal off the stick of Bill Penkava, who was assisted by Barber. But Maine South responded with six straight goals before Penkava scored again, assisted by Nolte.

In another game Sunday, St. Viator nipped Maine East, 3-1, by scoring a pair of goals in the third period to break open a close battle.

Viator opened the scoring in the second stanza on a goal by D. Thompson. Maine East tied it almost immediately, but the losers couldn't hold off St. Viator in the third period.

Gullett and Thompson assisted on a goal by Kosowski, and Gullett bagged the final goal, assisted by Thompson and S. Thompson.

Paddock tourneys

Contrary to an inference included in a story last week regarding the 1977 Paddock bowling tourneys being held at Beverly Lanes and Thunderbird Bowl, the 1976 events are scheduled for Striking Lanes Jan. 18 for the men; and Elk Grove Bowl Jan. 24 (mixed) and Jan. 25 for the women.

Hoosiers dominate UPI ratings—again

Indiana continued to unanimously dominate the number one ranking of the United Press International board of coaches ratings this week, but several new schools, who have been out of the limelight for some time, crept into the latest rankings.

The Hoosiers, 11-0 on the season after a 78-61 drubbing of Northwestern Monday night, polled all first place votes to keep the top spot. Maryland, (10-0), is ranked second.

Rounding out the top five are UCLA (10-1), Marquette (8-1) and Washington, (11-0).

Some names unfamiliar to the top 10 rankings make up the second five. Nevada-Las Vegas gained the number six ranking this week. Previously unranked Wake Forest, after upsets of highly rated North Carolina and Norh Carolina State, jumped all the way up to a seventh-place rating.

North Carolina (7-1) is ranked eighth, while Alabama (8-1) is ranked ninth. Rounding out the top 10 is St. John's of New York (10-1).

Notre Dame (14th), North Carolina State (16th) and Kentucky (19th), meanwhile, dropped into the second 10.

Bulls nip Houston, 98-97

Jack Marin's 12-foot jumper from the corner at the final gun boosted the Chicago Bulls to a 98-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets Monday night.

Chicago trailed when Rudy Tomjanovich made one of two free throws with 19 seconds remaining to give Houston a 97-96 advantage. But Tomjanovich missed the second shot of the two-shot foul and the Bulls pulled down the rebound.

Chicago called a time out with 14 seconds remaining and took the ball out at midcourt. Jerry Sloan drove the lane and attempted a layup, but his shot was belted away by Tomjanovich. Marin then got the ball in the corner and made a desperation shot for the winning points.

Chicago's Mickey Johnson led all scorers with a career-high 27 points, all in the first three quarters.

Houston was led by guards Calvin Murphy and Mike Newlin, who each scored 23 points.

Shanahan to head WIU football

Assistant football coach Bill Shanahan Tuesday was named head coach at Western Illinois University, replacing Brodie Westen, who resigned after a disappointing 5-4-1 season.

Shanahan, 37, has been defensive coach at WIU for the past two years. A former athlete at Huron College, Huron, S.D., Shanahan was head coach at Western New Mexico 1968-73, where his 1970 squad won the Rocky Mountain Conference championship and he was named NAIA coach of the year in District 7.

Before that he was an assistant coach at Utah, Northern Colorado and Western State.

Shanahan inherits a team with more than 35 returning lettermen and a school with a strong 51-19-1 record since 1969, when Darrell Mudra was head coach. Mudra was fired Sunday at Florida State after his teams won only four games in two years.

Stockton-Casals take doubles title

The team of Dick Stockton and Rosemary Casals took advantage of poor serving by Mark Cox to down the Britisher and his countrywoman Virginia Wade Monday night, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 and win the World Mixed Doubles Championship.

The winning pair took home $25,000 and the losers received $15,000 in the world's richest mixed doubles event.

Cox lost his serve in the second game of the match to set the tone for the evening. He was broken twice more in the second set and lost his serve again in the third set.

Hoosiers run over Northwestern

Kent Benson poured in 22 points and the unbeaten and top-ranked Indiana Hoosiers turned on the pressure in the second half Monday night to trounce Northwestern 78-61 and score their 11th straight triumph.

It was Indiana's second victory in Big Ten play this season and boosted their conference winning streak to a school-record 21 games.

The Hoosiers got off to a slow start but led 40-27 at the half and quickly increased their margin to 56-29 as the Wildcats failed to connect from the floor during the first 7½ minutes of the second half.

Northwestern slipped to 5-6 for the season and 0-2 in the Big Ten.

Northwestern managed to keep the score respectable after Indiana coach Bobby Knight cleared his bench.

OSU student paper blasts Woody

Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes took another verbal poke in the nose Monday from the school's student newspaper, The Lantern, over his "inexcusable behavior" following the Buckeyes' 23-10 Rose Bowl loss to UCLA.

Hayes, who has been a target of the Lantern before for his antics, refused to talk to newsmen after the loss, which cost the Buckeyes the national championship.

Even upon his return to Columbus, Hayes remained speechless and apparently was responsible for the canceling of a welcome home reception which had been planned for the team.

"Like Richard Nixon before the fall," wrote Lantern columnist Tom Loftus, "Woody Hayes' actions are becoming harder and harder to defend. The coach of the year's inexcusable post Rose Bowl behavior is costing him more friends and fans than the national championships he's squandered in recent years."

St. Louis Blues hire new coach

Leo Boivin, assistant coach of the St. Louis Blues for the last two weeks, Monday was named the ninth coach to run the National Hockey League club in its nine-year existence.

Boivin succeeds Lynn Patrick, who coached the team after Garry Young was fired two weeks ago. Young ran the club for a year.

Patrick said that at 63 he did not have the stamina required for the rigorous hockey schedule. Patrick, senior vice president of the club, recommended Boivin take over the job.

Boivin, 44, had been running all team practices since being named assistant coach. He was a defenseman for 19 years in the NHL with Toronto, Boston, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Minnesota.

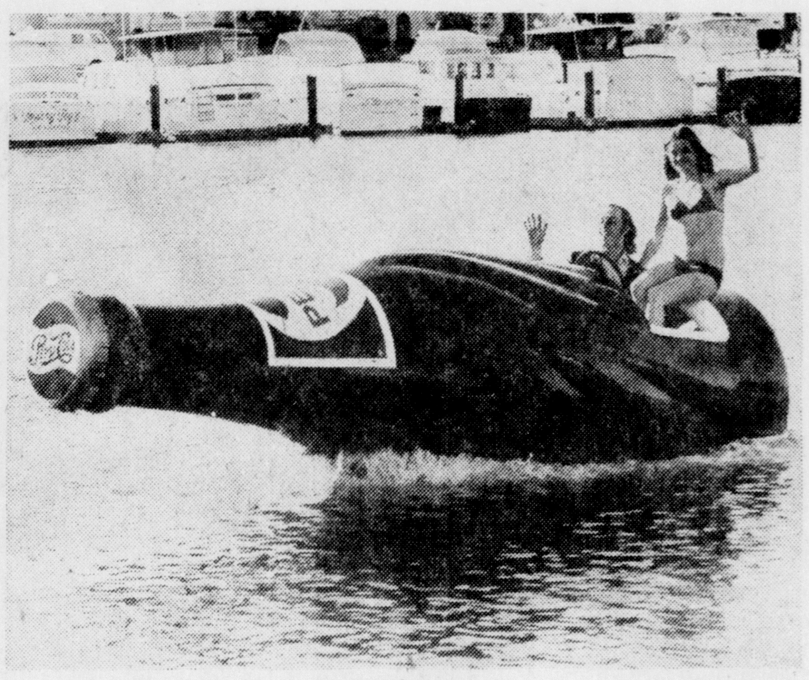

Bugner retires from boxing

Former British and European heavyweight champion Joe Bugner, who last year unsuccessfully challenged Muhammad Ali for his world title, Monday announced his retirement from the ring at the age of 25.

"Boxing was a sport I never liked but learned to love," said Bugner. "The love died after the Ali fight."

Bugner came to Britain from Hungary after the 1956 uprising and fought most of his 59 bouts after turning professional in 1967. He won 51, lost seven and drew one.

Bugner won the British and European crown from Henry Cooper in 1971, successfully defending the European title twice against Jurgen Blin of West Germany, Italians Dante Cane, Bepi Ros and Mario Baruzzi and Dutchman Rudi Lubbers.

BOTTOMS UP. The Pepsi-Cola bottle boat is one of 600 other boats, motor homes and travel exhibits that will be on display during the 43rd annual Chicago Boat and Sports Show at McCormick Place. The five-day exposition opens its doors Jan. 21.

New season for Conant, Sacred Heart volleyball teams in district action

by PAUL LOGAN

"The district tournament's the chance for every team to start over."

Caren Betts' comment is true for her Conant team as well as a team that's won just one meet, like Rosemary Sawin's Sacred Heart of Mary volleyball team.

The new season starts next week for Conant, 6-6 in 1975, and Sacred Heart, 1-8.

"We could have a good chance in the districts," continued Betts. "All the games we've played — with the exception of Rolling Meadows — were close."

In many of their losses, the Cougars would tend to let up late, thinking they had the game already won, according to Betts. "Maybe they were a little over-confident."

Four of her top players are seniors. They are Linda Patino ("she should be all-conference this year"), Kathy Evans (an all-conference performer last year who "has improved greatly the last few games"), Diane Hillman and Tina Lutz.

Conant will be playing in the Glenbard North District, opening up against Elgin Larkin.

Sacred Heart's team will also meet an Elgin team in the Glenbard tourney — Elgin High School. But prior to that, Sawin's young women will finish up their regular schedule with St. Scholastica of Chicago.

Unlike the public junior highs, very few parochial schools offer power volleyball. "When they come here, we have to teach them from scratch," said Sawin.

Since last year was the first season of highly competitive interscholastic play, Sawin decided not to play in the state tourney.

"Because it was almost a beginning team, I just felt the season was enough for the girls," she said.

Sacred Heart is still a young team. Three of its top starters are underclassmen — juniors Marsha Kresl and Sue Rusnnak and sophomore Sue Skarzynski. Kresl is the team's top all-round player, according to Sawin, with Skarzynski being the top spiker and Rusnak the top setter.

The team's lone win came against Discoll.

Lions win, Arlington loses in Metro hockey scuffles

Division-leading Maine South got a scare from Arlington before thumping the Cards, 6-2, in Metro Northwest High School hockey action Sunday at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena.

Arlington, slowed by sickness and injury, got the opening goal off the stick of Bill Penkava, who was assisted by Barber. But Maine South responded with six straight goals before Penkava scored again, assisted by Nolte.

In another game Sunday, St. Viator nipped Maine East, 3-1, by scoring a pair of goals in the third period to break open a close battle.

Viator opened the scoring in the second stanza on a goal by D. Thompson. Maine East tied it almost immediately, but the losers couldn't hold off St. Viator in the third period.

Gullett and Thompson assisted on a goal by Kosowski, and Gullett bagged the final goal, assisted by Thompson and S. Thompson.

Paddock tourneys

Contrary to an inference included in a story last week regarding the 1977 Paddock bowling tourneys being held at Beverly Lanes and Thunderbird Bowl, the 1976 events are scheduled for Striking Lanes Jan. 18 for the men; and Elk Grove Bowl Jan. 24 (mixed) and Jan. 25 for the women.

Hawaii: beaches, beauty and food in abundance

by JOE SWICKARD

It is hard to quarrel with Mark Twain on most any subject, but especially so with his observation "the loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean": Hawaii.

Almost everything you may have heard about the islands is true, although until you have been there you are tempted to write off the enthusiastic endorsements as the result of overdoses of sunshine, pineapples and drinks with orchids or tiny parasols in them.

A visit there is enough to see why 19th Century mission aries flocked to the islands. Anything and anywhere that nice has to be just a little sinful.

GETTING TO THE islands, which lie 2,400 miles off the California coast, can be accomplished by air or ship. The time and additional expense of sea travel rules out the latter for most vacationers.

Air fare (coach) is almost $500 round-trip. However, there are many package travel-accommodation tours that are actually cheaper than air fare alone.

If time and the additional expense do not press too heavily, this writer would suggest connecting flights to the West Coast with the transoceanic hop made on an international flight.

On an international flight you might find yourself paired with a graduate of the London School of Economics returning to Fiji and a young backpacking enthusiast bound for New Zealand trails, as did this writer. And of course, there was the Nationalist Chinese gymnastics team that did everything but build a human pyramid in the aisles — an experience one is unlikely to forget.

HONOLULU International Airport (about eight hours flying time from O'Hare) tscapes the overwhelming stench of kerosene fumes that spoil the arrival in most other places. The Trade Winds replace it with clean air tinted with a scent of flowers.

It is amazing how readily one adapts. There is the initial stunning of awaking in the tropics under brilliant blue skies and then — well, why not? Jet lag can be overcome easily with a lazy first day at the beach.

Ah, the beaches. The beaches, with a handful of exceptions, are open to the public. Lounge in front of a posh hotel that would cost most people the price of a second mortgage to stay in, or plop in front of the Outrigger Canoe Club.

Of course, common sense requires first day-or-so protection from overexposure to the sun. A lobster burn marks the traveler as a tourist as surely as does wearing Dr. Scholl sandals with socks.

AND SPEAKING of sandals: forget your shoes and pick up dime store rubber thongs. Unless you're visiting the Governor, they are fine for most occasions.

Although Jack Lord may be fashionably clad in television's Hawaii Five-O, in reality suits are just extra weight. Aloha shirts are appropriate for everyone, from bank personnel to the 10 o'clock newscaster.

A quickie tour of the Honolulu area by municipal bus line is an inexpensive way to get the lay of the island or to get to the beaches.

There are beaches for just about everything. There are small bays for sailing, Sandy Beach for body surfing, Hunamma Bay for snorkeling (more about these two later) and countless others for getting a tan or swimming.

Sandy Beach provides a great temptation for the novice to make like Sports Spectacular. Although most of the regular surfers are young, surfing is not child's play. Broken necks occur all too regularly to those who saw it done on television or the movies and thought they could do the same.

FOR THE BEACH-BOUND there are less strenuous activities. Men can watch the women who come to watch the men. A very equitable arrangement.

Snorkeling is an inexpensive way to be stunned by nature's whims. A plastic tube and face mask allow one to swim among brilliantly colored fish darting in coral reefs. The ocean is shallow enough to permit a moderately skilled swimmer to appreciate Jacques Cousteau all the more.

Before snorkeling, take a moment to study the display at the concession stand. The fish species one will encounter are depicted, although the drawings are in black and white — a most unfortunate oversight.

For the more adventurous and skillful, deeper water lies beyond a reef offering an even more varied look at the gorgeous fish.

Between the two beaches (both within easy driving distance or a bus ride from Honolulu) is Cockroach Beach. This is where that love scene in "From Here to Eternity" was filmed. A word to the wise: many residents walk their dogs at the beach. Watch your step.

FOR THE LESS aquatic or for just a change from the beach there are mountains and many hiking trails. Need less to say, sturdy shoes and not san dals are necessary here.

Transportation around the island can be handled by the municipal buses or by rental car. The Volkswagen "Thing" is popular and just the right touch with its easy convertible top and side curtains. "Things" and subcompact cars are available from many agencies for about $14-per day, with no mileage charge.

The North Shore of Oahu (opposite from Honolulu) is less developed, although almost as commercial. Roadside vendors sell coconuts, pineapples and shell necklaces right out of their car trunks.

One dirt road leading to a farm was graced with a hand-lettered sign reading "Big Pigs for Sale." The big pigs, I was told, are for luaus and not pets or ornaments.

The nonadventurous diner doesn't have to worry about exotic foods. There are plenty of McDonalds for the kids and one can even find good tacos.

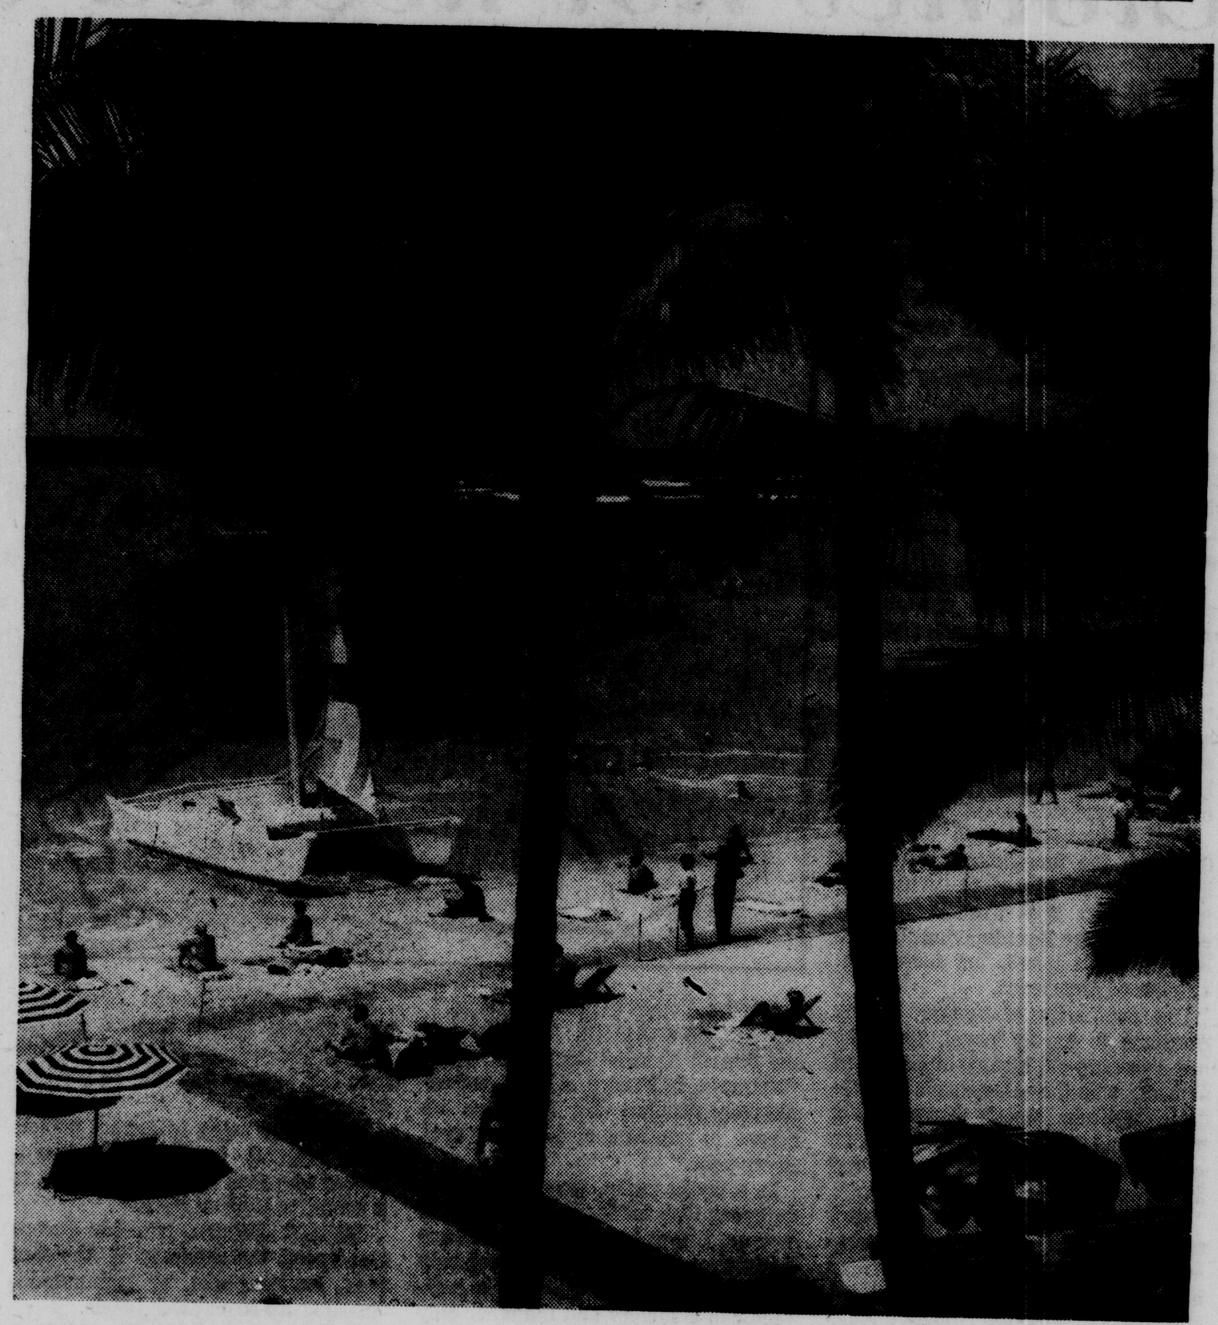

IF SOMEONE invites you over for some pu-pus, don't take offense. They're just hors d'oeuvres.

Dining out can cripple a vacation budget if one is not careful. But then so it could in Chicago. Check the local newspapers and nightlight magazines for price ranges.

To balance this story, there can be drawbacks. Namely a Miami Beach atmosphere around Waikiki and sudden rain showers. But both are minor and can be dealt with easily.

Even leaving Hawaii is balanced by a good tan to evoke envy back home.

And when you leave, you know there is always the chance to return.

WAIKIKI BEACH in Honolulu is a natural haven for those seeking sand, sun and sailing. The State of Hawaii has ruled that beaches are natural resources open to all. A pleasant respite from winter depression and doldrums can be found under the shade of tall palm trees.

United offers Hawaii via tennis packages

All who relish sunshine, palm trees and rugged tennis among top professionals can turn their vacation sights to Hawaii Jan. 21-May 23.

During that time the islands of Hawaii will host the Avis Challenge Cup, featuring eight top-ranked World Championship Tennis (WCT) players. United Airlines will offer special package tours to Hawaii and the tennis tournament.

United passengers can visit the islands and watch spirited competition for a $320,000 prize by Arthur Ashe, John Newcombe, Ken Rosewall, Rod Laver, John Alexander, Bjorn Borg, Ilie Nastase and Raul Ramirez. They will compete in 15 matches.

"Love/Love" is United's package which features visits to two islands in eight days. Price is from $162 to $316 per person (double occupancy).

For those who prefer a shorter tour, United offers its "Match Point" package for the $104 per person (double occupancy).

Travelers to Hawaii who want to see a number of islands and take in the tennis tournament will appreciate the "Sunshine and Tennis" tour for from $254 to $263 per person (double occupancy).

The challenge cup bears the name of Avis, and United offers a fly/drive package. The tour is priced from $198 to $260 per person (double occupancy).

United also offers low-cost Hawaiian tour basing air fares which can be purchased in combination with these ground packages. Further information on air fares and tours is available from United tour desks and local travel agents.

Shopping for a vacation? Ask plenty of questions

by MURRAY J. BROWN

Caveat emptor, or let the purchaser beware, is a centuries-old Roman warning. So why not shop and compare before deciding what vacation package you should buy, particularly in these days of inflation.

And make sure to read the small print before you sign any contract so you know exactly what you are entitled to — no more, no less.

Ask the travel agent if puzzled by unfamiliar words or terms.

SHOP FIRST for a reliable travel agency. Steer clear of fly-by-night outfits that will offer you the moon and then disappear with your money or leave you stranded far from home.

If in doubt, check the local Better Business Bureau, the Chamber of Commerce, or friends or neighbors who might have used an agency.

Naturally, your decision on which vacation to buy will depend on where you want to go, how much time you have, and how much money you can spend.

Travel is a highly competitive business and there is little doubt there are scores of vacations that will fit your requirements.

But shopping should be more than merely comparing prices. It is what is included that counts.

HERE ARE SOME questions that should help you determine which offers you the most for your hard-earned dollars:

• How about getting there? Does the price include all transportation costs from your hometown to your destination, or from gateway to gateway city? Do you travel by plane, ship, train, bus or car? What class — first,

• What about transfers — transportation services to and from hotels and airports or terminals, piers or railway stations? Taxis can be expensive. Will someone meet you on arrival to help with problems that might arise?

• What kind of hotel accommodations are provided — deluxe, superior or standard? If it is a seaside resort, is it on the beach or will you have to walk or ride to the shore? Do you have to pay extra for chairs, pads, umbrellas or water-sports equipment? Do you get a room with private bath or do you share facilities? If you are traveling alone, will you get a single room or have to share a double?

• How about meals? Does the package specify American Plan (AP) or three meals a day; modified American Plan (MAP) or two meals; Continental Plan (CP) usually breakfast of rolls and a beverage; or European Plan (EP), no meals. AP sometimes is also called, particularly in Europe, Full Pension. BB, bed and breakfast, is carte, without additional charges, or must you stick to the fixed menu?

Hawaii: beaches, beauty and food in abundance

by JOE SWICKARD

It is hard to quarrel with Mark Twain on most any subject, but especially so with his observation "the loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean": Hawaii.

Almost everything you may have heard about the islands is true, although until you have been there you are tempted to write off the enthusiastic endorsements as the result of overdoses of sunshine, pineapples and drinks with orchids or tiny parasols in them.

A visit there is enough to see why 19th Century missionaries flocked to the islands. Anything and anywhere that nice has to be just a little sinful.

GETTING TO THE islands, which lie 2,400 miles off the California coast, can be accomplished by air or ship. The time and additional expense of sea travel rules out the latter for most vacationers.

Air fare (coach) is almost $500 round-trip. However, there are many package travel-accommodation tours that are actually cheaper than air fare alone.

If time and the additional expense do not press too heavily, this writer would suggest connecting flights to the West Coast with the transoceanic hop made on an international flight.

On an international flight you might find yourself paired with a graduate of the London School of Economics returning to Fiji and a young backpacking enthusiast bound for New Zealand trails, as did this writer. And of course, there was the Nationalist Chinese gymnastics team that did everything but build a human pyramid in the aisles — an experience one is unlikely to forget.

HONOLULU International Airport (about eight hours flying time from O'Hare) tscapes the overwhelming stench of kerosene fumes that spoil the arrival in most other places. The Trade Winds replace it with clean air tinted with a scent of flowers.

Clothes not needed on these trips

by JACQUES CLAFIN

Unclad bodies of all dimensions and nationalities are making organized nudist travel the fastest-growing European vacation pastime.

The bulk of the nudist pack is flocking to Yugoslavia, that land of not-so-orthodox communism, where 24 nudist colonies have been set up over the past decade. West Germany and France, especially the French island of Corsica, also are favorite nudist haunts.

Organized nudist travel is on the upswing at a time when inflation is keeping the tourist industry in the doldrums. A tour operator in the Netherlands says nude tours are up 20 to 30 per cent this year.

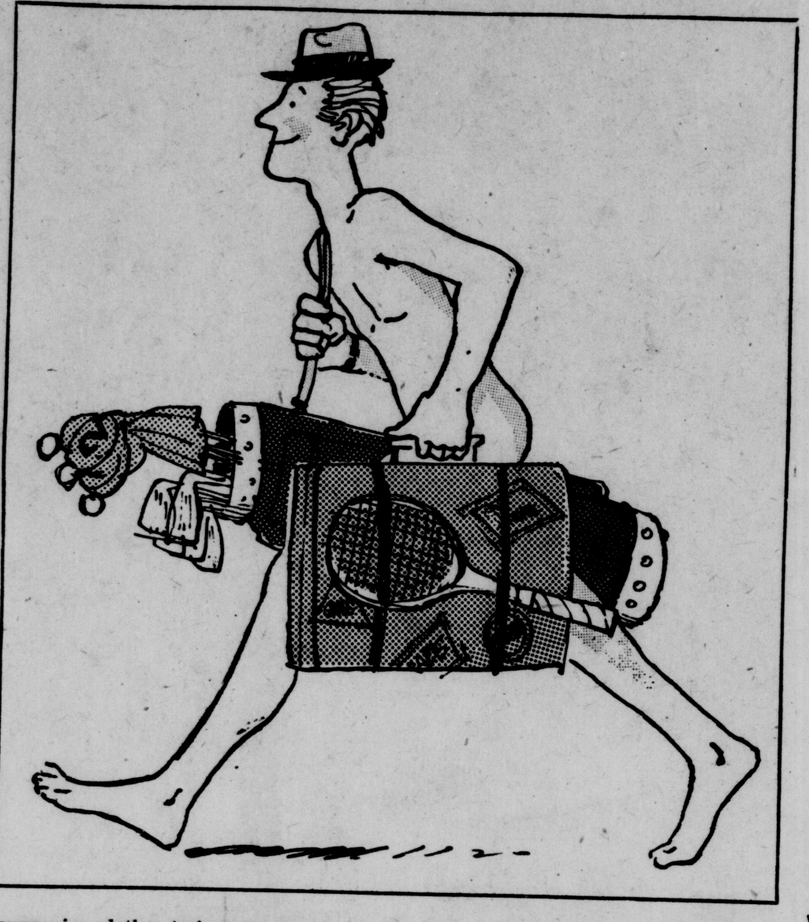

Gone are the days when naked hippies wading in the water represented the extent of nudism beyond the portals of walled-in nudist colonies.

THE FRENCH Naturist Federation says, for example, that more than half its 70,000 adherents are in management and the liberal professions. Entire families make up 80 per cent of French nudists.

West Germans account for more than half the foreigners in Europe's biggest nudist center at Montalivet-les-Bains on the French Atlantic coast. Next are Scandinavians, Dutch, British and a small, but increasing, number of Americans.

The popularity of nudism among Germans is hardly novel. Germany has a century-old history of organized nudism, and the Allensbach Demoscopic Institute reports between six million and eight million Germans spend their summer holidays in the nude.

"Today people have fewer hang-ups," says a spokesman for Stockholm's Nature Friends, a 350-strong nudist group with its own island in the Stockholm archipelago. "They want to be more natural instead of wearing expensive clothes to impress people."

MARCEL GODARD, AN official of the French Naturist Federation adds: "Naturism in France is becoming explosively popular. We have an increase in numbers of 15-20 per cent every year."

In a nudist camp, says Godard, "A company director looks exactly like a worker. I have known people who are friends for years at a camp and only find out much later that one is a director of a factory and the other only works there."

The Yugoslav Tourist Association says 110,000 foreign nudists are expected this year — 10 per cent more than last year — and they're good for $25 million.

Yugoslavia seeks to attract nudists with colorful brochures beckoning "those who seek a return to nature, to a primitive Biblical state."

THE TRAVELING nudist in Europe can spend the summer in thatched huts, trailer parks, or communities boasting 400-room plush hotels.

Singles are generally barred from organized tours, and etiquette in nudist hotel communities calls for clothing at the table and no picture-taking without the subject's OK.

A two-week package at a nudist hotel in Yugoslavia, including the round trip by air from, say, Brussels, costs about $318 per person.

At Sylt, a West German island in the North Sea, the only fenced-in beaches are reserved for dog owners. Two-thirds of the bathers on Sylt are nudists.

IN THE Netherlands, four North Sea beaches are being earmarked for nudists, following a court victory by the Dutch Federation of Naturists. One newspaper foresees the day when small corners of beaches will have to be staked out for the non-nude.

But nudism, like suffrage and free speech, is not universal. In the Middle East, for example, it hasn't got a chance, due to strict Moslem practices in the Arab world and orthodox Jewish influence in Israel.

In Spain, tourists who defy the ban on nude swimming face $100 fines and expulsion.

In Greece the fine is $140. But the Aegean island of Naxos has become the country's unofficial nudist center, and authorities there look the other way.

IN ITALY, NUDE beaches are a rarity. In Switzerland and Belgium all nudist colonies are private.

In the Soviet Union a few patches of beach on the Baltic and the Black Sea are reserved for nude bathing.

In England some 80 naturist organizations have access to about 20 unofficial nudist beaches. A nudist club has converted one of Dwight Eisenhower's wartime headquarters in Devon into Britain's first naturist hotel.

BUT THE FUTURE of English nudism is bleak. The weather is bad, skinflick books presented as naturist magazines have given nudists a bad name and, some say, nude swimming spoils the fishing.

Recently, the local fishing club at Haverhill appealed to the East Anglican water board to stop women from swimming nude in a nearby lake.

"We are furious about this," the fishing club said. "It spoils our angling. We must put a stop to it before it becomes permanent."

Old South stars in steamboat tours

The overnight steamboat Delta Queen celebrates her 50th birthday in 1976 by opening her cruise season in fabulous New Orleans. From Feb. 1 - April 16, the historic sternwheeler will sail on a series of two-night and five-night round trip cruises on the lower Mississippi River.

Travelers have a choice of booking only the steamboat cruise or a Delta Queen Royale New Orleans Tour Package.

First offered in December 1975, the New Orleans Package proved so popular that The Delta Queen Steamboat Co. is offering it again in 1976. It features three nights at the Royal Orleans Hotel and either two or five nights aboard the Delta Queen.

THE THREE NIGHTS in New Orleans include breakfast at Brennan's, lunch at the Court of Two Sisters, dinner at the Andrew Jackson Restaurant, a three-hour escorted tour of New Orleans, a Gay 90s horsedrawn carriage tour through the French Quarter and a New Orleans deluxe night club tour. All transfers between the airport, the hotel and the Delta Queen are included in the package.

The two-night cruises feature a shore stop at the Houmas House Plantation for a tour of the carefully restored ante-bellum house and gardens. Built in 1840. the mansion is constructed in the Greek Revival style and is furnished with museum pieces of early Louisiana craftsmanship. In the gardens, the scent of sweet olive permeates the air and huge azaleas form a striking background for the "Four Seasons" statues of Carrara marble. Fares for the two night cruises begin at $112 per person. Fares for the five-night package begin at $337 per person.

The five-night cruises feature port calls in St. Francisville, La., Baton Rouge, La., and Natchez, Miss.

In St. Francisville, the Delta Queen passenger can explore Rosedown Plantation and Gardens, a lavish restoration of a 19th century plantation, Of particular note here are the two magnificent five-acre gardens that flank the mansion. They were created by Martha Turnbull, wife of the original owner, and contain shrubs and trees more than 150 years old that lend a permanent grace and beauty to Rosedown.

THE HIGHLIGHTS OF the Baton Rouge tour are the Louisiana State University Rural Life Museum and Magnolia Mound Plantation House. Built on a four-acre tract, the Rural Life Museum is a reconstructed Louisiana plantation settlement.

Magnolia Mound Plantation House is furnished in the Federal style and was built in 1790 in a manner typical of the French and Spanish adaptation to the Louisiana climate. Like the Delta Queen, the House is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

In Natchez, the Delta Queen occasionally ties up to a chinaberry tree as steamboats have done at this famous river port for well over a century and a half. Here the atmosphere is filled with the sweet scent of magnolias, camellias and honeysuckle. The regular tour here visits several ante-bellum homes filled to their rooftops with marvelous antiques, most of them the prizes of the old plantation owners who traded cotton for the finery imported from Europe.

From March 5 - April 1, the Delta Queen visits Natchez during Pilgrimage. On these visits, the tour includes many private homes that are not usually open to the public. Their owners make the visitor feel like an invited guest and extend true southern hospitality to all. In addition, the Delta Queen passengers can attend the Confederate Pageant during Pilgrimage. This is an annual event that recreates the era of the Old South.

FARES FOR THE five-night cruises begin at $230 per person. Fares for the eight-night package began at $455 per person. Fares aboard the steamer are based on double occupancy and include berth, all meals, entertainment and steamboat passage. They do not include shore tours, which are optional.

Aboard the Delta Queen, passengers enjoy kite flying out over the paddlewheel, an eleven-at-eleven jog on the Sun Deck, do-it-yourself calliope playing, sing-alongs in the Texas Lounge, old vaudeville routines, dancing and Dixieland in the Orleans Room, sumptuous southern cuisine, tours of the pilothouse and engine room, and just plain taking it easy in the romantic world of riverboating.

Further information can be obtained by contacting a travel agent or The Delta Queen Steamboat Co., Dept. ADB, 322 E. Fourth St., Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. Telephone: 513-621-1445.

Clothes not needed on these trips

by JACQUES CLAFIN

Unclad bodies of all dimensions and nationalities are making organized nudist travel the fastest-growing European vacation pastime.

The bulk of the nudist pack is flocking to Yugoslavia, that land of not-so-orthodox communism, where 24 nudist colonies have been set up over the past decade. West Germany and France, especially the French island of Corsica, also are favorite nudist haunts.

Organized nudist travel is on the upswing at a time when inflation is keeping the tourist industry in the doldrums. A tour operator in the Netherlands says nude tours are up 20 to 30 per cent this year.

Gone are the days when naked hippies wading in the water represented the extent of nudism beyond the portals of walled-in nudist colonies.

THE FRENCH Naturist Federation says, for example, that more than half its 70,000 adherents are in management and the liberal professions. Entire families make up 80 per cent of French nudists.

West Germans account for more than half the foreigners in Europe's biggest nudist center at Montalivet-les-Bains on the French Atlantic coast. Next are Scandinavians, Dutch, British and a small, but increasing, number of Americans.

The popularity of nudism among Germans is hardly novel. Germany has a century-old history of organized nudism, and the Allensbach Demoscopic Institute reports between six million and eight million Germans spend their summer holidays in the nude.

"Today people have fewer hang-ups," says a spokesman for Stockholm's Nature Friends, a 350-strong nudist group with its own island in the Stockholm archipelago. "They want to be more natural instead of wearing expensive clothes to impress people."

MARCEL GODARD, AN official of the French Naturist Federation adds: "Naturism in France is becoming explosively popular. We have an increase in numbers of 15-20 per cent every year."

In a nudist camp, says Godard, "A company director looks exactly like a worker. I have known people who are friends for years at a camp and only find out much later that one is a director of a factory and the other only works there."

The Yugoslav Tourist Association says 110,000 foreign nudists are expected this year — 10 per cent more than last year — and they're good for $25 million.

Yugoslavia seeks to attract nudists with colorful brochures beckoning "those who seek a return to nature, to a primitive Biblical state."

THE TRAVELING nudist in Europe can spend the summer in thatched huts, trailer parks, or communities boasting 400-room plush hotels.

Singles are generally barred from organized tours, and etiquette in nudist hotel communities calls for clothing at the table and no picture-taking without the subject's OK.

A two-week package at a nudist hotel in Yugoslavia, including the round trip by air from, say, Brussels, costs about $318 per person.

At Sylt, a West German island in the North Sea, the only fenced-in beaches are reserved for dog owners. Two-thirds of the bathers on Sylt are nudists.

IN THE Netherlands, four North Sea beaches are being earmarked for nudists, following a court victory by the Dutch Federation of Naturists. One newspaper foresees the day when small corners of beaches will have to be staked out for the non-nude.

But nudism, like suffrage and free speech, is not universal. In the Middle East, for example, it hasn't got a chance, due to strict Moslem practices in the Arab world and orthodox Jewish influence in Israel.

In Spain, tourists who defy the ban on nude swimming face $100 fines and expulsion.

In Greece the fine is $140. But the Aegean island of Naxos has become the country's unofficial nudist center, and authorities there look the other way.

IN ITALY, NUDE beaches are a rarity. In Switzerland and Belgium all nudist colonies are private.

In the Soviet Union a few patches of beach on the Baltic and the Black Sea are reserved for nude bathing.

In England some 80 naturist organizations have access to about 20 unofficial nudist beaches. A nudist club has converted one of Dwight Eisenhower's wartime headquarters in Devon into Britain's first naturist hotel.

BUT THE FUTURE of English nudism is bleak. The weather is bad, skinflick books presented as naturist magazines have given nudists a bad name and, some say, nude swimming spoils the fishing.

Recently, the local fishing club at Haverhill appealed to the East Anglican water board to stop women from swimming nude in a nearby lake.

"We are furious about this," the fishing club said. "It spoils our angling. We must put a stop to it before it becomes permanent."

Old South stars in steamboat tours

The overnight steamboat Delta Queen celebrates her 50th birthday in 1976 by opening her cruise season in fabulous New Orleans. From Feb. 1 - April 16, the historic sternwheeler will sail on a series of two-night and five-night round trip cruises on the lower Mississippi River.

Travelers have a choice of booking only the steamboat cruise or a Delta Queen Royale New Orleans Tour Package.

First offered in December 1975, the New Orleans Package proved so popular that The Delta Queen Steamboat Co. is offering it again in 1976. It features three nights at the Royal Orleans Hotel and either two or five nights aboard the Delta Queen.

THE THREE NIGHTS in New Orleans include breakfast at Brennan's, lunch at the Court of Two Sisters, dinner at the Andrew Jackson Restaurant, a three-hour escorted tour of New Orleans, a Gay 90s horsedrawn carriage tour through the French Quarter and a New Orleans deluxe night club tour. All transfers between the airport, the hotel and the Delta Queen are included in the package.

The two-night cruises feature a shore stop at the Houmas House Plantation for a tour of the carefully restored ante-bellum house and gardens. Built in 1840. the mansion is constructed in the Greek Revival style and is furnished with museum pieces of early Louisiana craftsmanship. In the gardens, the scent of sweet olive permeates the air and huge azaleas form a striking background for the "Four Seasons" statues of Carrara marble. Fares for the two night cruises begin at $112 per person. Fares for the five-night package begin at $337 per person.

The five-night cruises feature port calls in St. Francisville, La., Baton Rouge, La., and Natchez, Miss.

In St. Francisville, the Delta Queen passenger can explore Rosedown Plantation and Gardens, a lavish restoration of a 19th century plantation, Of particular note here are the two magnificent five-acre gardens that flank the mansion. They were created by Martha Turnbull, wife of the original owner, and contain shrubs and trees more than 150 years old that lend a permanent grace and beauty to Rosedown.

THE HIGHLIGHTS OF the Baton Rouge tour are the Louisiana State University Rural Life Museum and Magnolia Mound Plantation House. Built on a four-acre tract, the Rural Life Museum is a reconstructed Louisiana plantation settlement.

Magnolia Mound Plantation House is furnished in the Federal style and was built in 1790 in a manner typical of the French and Spanish adaptation to the Louisiana climate. Like the Delta Queen, the House is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

In Natchez, the Delta Queen occasionally ties up to a chinaberry tree as steamboats have done at this famous river port for well over a century and a half. Here the atmosphere is filled with the sweet scent of magnolias, camellias and honeysuckle. The regular tour here visits several ante-bellum homes filled to their rooftops with marvelous antiques, most of them the prizes of the old plantation owners who traded cotton for the finery imported from Europe.

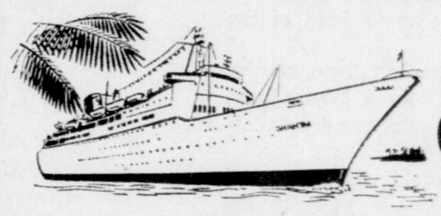

From March 5 - April 1, the Delta Queen visits Natchez during Pilgrimage. On these visits, the tour includes many private homes that are not usually open to the public. Their owners make the visitor feel like an invited guest and extend true southern hospitality to all. In addition, the Delta Queen passengers can attend the Confederate Pageant during Pilgrimage. This is an annual event that recreates the era of the Old South.

FARES FOR THE five-night cruises begin at $230 per person. Fares for the eight-night package began at $455 per person. Fares aboard the steamer are based on double occupancy and include berth, all meals, entertainment and steamboat passage. They do not include shore tours, which are optional.

Aboard the Delta Queen, passengers enjoy kite flying out over the paddlewheel, an eleven-at-eleven jog on the Sun Deck, do-it-yourself calliope playing, sing-alongs in the Texas Lounge, old vaudeville routines, dancing and Dixieland in the Orleans Room, sumptuous southern cuisine, tours of the pilothouse and engine room, and just plain taking it easy in the romantic world of riverboating.

Further information can be obtained by contacting a travel agent or The Delta Queen Steamboat Co., Dept. ADB, 322 E. Fourth St., Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. Telephone: 513-621-1445.

Ford vs. Reagan; Walker vs. Howlett

Biggies square off for primary

by United Press International

President Gerald Ford has the most to lose and Ronald Reagan the most to win in the Illinois Republican Presidential primary March 16.

Illinois holds the fourth of next year's state primaries after New Hampshire, Florida and Massachusetts. Because it is a big, central, complex, urban-rural state, its primary probably will mean a great deal.

Ford, a quintessential midwesterner, and Reagan, a native of Illinois who played football at Eureka College, are running hard.

FORD NEEDS A win here badly to go the rest of the primary route. And a strong showing for Reagan can do wonders for his fledgling challenge.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, the Illinois Republican rumored to be eyeing the White House, has said, "If President Ford can't win in Illinois, he can't win the nation."

A top Illinois Democrat mused, "I have often thought Ford made a great mistake even talking about the primaries. He should just sit where he is and say 'I'm the President of the United States and I'm going to be your candidate.' He's got nothing to gain in the primary."

To most Illinoisans, the real action is over in the Democratic primary — not among the cluster of strangely reluctant presidential aspirants but between a maverick governor and a party wheelhorse going after his job.

AT LEAST ONE highly-placed Republican worries that the matchup between Gov. Daniel Walker and Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett could lure independent-minded Republicans into the Democratic brawl and polarize the Ford-Reagan contest.

Walker and Howlett make a classic combo. .

Walker is a former Chicago corporate attorney who decided to become a politician, tied a bandana around his neck and literally walked his way to the governor's mansion four years ago.

He hoofed the length of the state and displayed an instinct for the political jugular, snapping at party satrap Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago and charging his opponents were out to raise state taxes. Walker is a masterful manipulator of television and is reputed to spend his off-hours dreaming of life in the White House.

Howlett is an Irishman from Chicago's West Side. He is a professional politician who looks like one and talks like one. But he has made a creditable record in various state offices and has built a solid, broad base of support in downstate Illinois which gives him a measure of independence from the Daley apparatus to which Waker seeks to tie him.

BOTH KNOW HOW to fight rough, and are fighting now, but two senators who say they are not running for anything — Illinois' Adlai E. Stevenson and Minnesota's Hubert H. Humphrey — are likely to score the most Democratic presidential points in Illinois.

Daley invited Stevenson to be his and Illinois' favorite son candidate. Stevenson politely declined. But UPI has learned delegate slates are being drawn up in his behalf, presumably with his compliance.

Party leaders believe that if Stevenson does not put a stick in the spokes he could wind up with the lion's share of the pivotal Illinois delegation when it goes to New York in July.

At least some of the same leaders think Humphrey will be sitting pretty for the top spot by that time, with Stevenson a strong vice presidential possibility.

These conclusions are based in part on interviews with two of the most informed politicians in the state. One is a Democrat and the other a Republican. Both are and will be intensely involved in what will happen next March and afterwards.

BOTH ARE PROS and agree that:

• Ford has the support of the Republican establishment, although it contains plenty of closet Reaganites, but Reagan has deep pockets of strength in four to six congressional districts and has been coming strong in recent weeks.

• At this point, the Democratic presidential tussle in Illinois ranks lowest on the interest scale.

Only four of the pack of candidates seriously have talked about getting in, with Washington's Sen. Henry Jackson apparently the most determined. All four have said they will stay out of Daley's Chicago in their campaigning.

This reflects a quirk in Illinos primary laws.

Until recently, the Illinois presidential primary tended to be a cakewalk for front-runners who hardly bothered to show up and a showcase for also-rans rarely heard of afterwards.

THIS WAS because the Illinois primary was strictly a "beauty contest" which committed nobody to anything. Now there are actually two primaries — the beauty contest and another one for delegates who supposedly are committed to specific candidates.

"Except they aren't," the Republican source said. "It's sort of a matter of honor where you stand, and the election of delegates can depend on a lot of petty jealousies and bickering."

The Democrat agreed, "It's difficult to tell where the Illinois delegation will be in July."

Win elections? Hardly, minority parties concede

At least four minor political parties will try to get on the Illinois ballot next November, but their spokesmen acknowledge they are more interested in a soapbox for their ideologies than in winning the election.

While three of the parties — Communist, Socialist Labor and Socialist Workers — have been on the ballot previously, none has garnered a significant number of votes for a statewide office in Illinois.

Losing doesn't seem to bother them, however, and they reject the idea of forming a coalition to become a more potent leftist political force, even though they share basic goals. While Democrats and Republicans constantly shift and regroup to increase their odds of winning, the minor parties remain ideologically pure.

"THE REASON we're on the ballot is to preach our program," said Elizabeth Schnur, 87, who has been in the Socialist Labor Party 45 years. "If our candidates were elected, their job would be to abolish the political state. They would never take office. By the time people are ready to make change, it won't be through the ballot."

Mrs. Schnur said her party has made progress since she joined. "We used to have to explain why we needed a change, and now people just say, 'How can it be changed?' Capitalism is cracking up. They can see it every place in society."

Communists agree that capitalism is on its way out, but they're interested in reforming it while it lasts.

Jack Kling, Illinois-Iowa secretary for the Communist Party, said his group cannot merge with either of the Socialist parties because both of them snipe at the Soviet Union, neither is interested in reforming capitalism and neither is really into the fight against racism.

"WHILE WE RECOGNIZE we agree on certain things, there are fundamental disagreements," he said. "We feel the disagreements are so strong we do not see a basis for cooperation. We are not able to compromise on principle."

Kling said the Communists use political campaigns "to bring forth more clearly the issues the people face. We use it for an educational campaign."

The Socialist Workers Party sees itself as more activist than either of the other two because it joins in demontrations and rallies and works for such causes as the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and school desegregation.

Although Socialist Workers occasionally work with Communists on issues, they look with disdain at the Socialist Labor Party.

"They're not a political grouping, really," said Joel Britton, Chicago organizer for the Socialist Workers. "They're an irrelevant little church, compostd primarily of old people. They're a socialist church."

Britton said his organization takes part in the elections "to get our ideas out and to garner as large a vote as we can."

The fourth group planning to run a statewide slate of candidates is the U.S. Labor Party, an offshoot of the old Students for a Democratic Society. It has not been on the state ballot before, has no deep political roots, and seems most interested in pursuing conspiracy theories involving Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. Winning elections is a low priority.

Although all four parties plan to run full slates of candidates in next November's elections, Illinois law sometimes makes it difficult for them to get on the ballot.

UNDER THE LAW, any party which receives less than 5 per cent of the vote in an election must re-register next time around as a new political party and obtain 25,000 signatures to get on the ballot, far more than is required of Democratic and Republican candidates.

Communists have had an especially difficult time since all candidates were required until 1972 to swear a loyalty oath which they refused to sign. When that requirement was stricken by the courts in 1972, the Communists appeared on the ballot for the first time in decades.

Socialist Worker candidates also began appearing on the ballot in the 1970s, having had trouble obtaining enough signatures on petitions before. Socialist Labor candidates have been running in elections in Illinois since the 1890s.

In recent years in Illinois, both of the socialist parties have done better than the Communists.

IN 1972, WHEN the Socialist Workers were ruled off the ballot for technical reasons, the Communist candidates for governor got 4,592 and the Socialist Labor candidate 7,966. That year, the largest vote garnered by a minor party candidate was in the U.S. Senate race, where the Socialist Labor party got 13,384 and the Communist, 6,103.

Last year, the Socialist Labor party was ruled off the ballot for technical reasons. The Socialist Workers got 12,413 for the U.S. Senate compared to 5,873 for the Communists. And the Socialist Worker candidate for treasurer got 20,240 compared to 8,070 for the Communist.

Ford vs. Reagan; Walker vs. Howlett

Biggies square off for primary

by United Press International

President Gerald Ford has the most to lose and Ronald Reagan the most to win in the Illinois Republican Presidential primary March 16.

Illinois holds the fourth of next year's state primaries after New Hampshire, Florida and Massachusetts. Because it is a big, central, complex, urban-rural state, its primary probably will mean a great deal.

Ford, a quintessential midwesterner, and Reagan, a native of Illinois who played football at Eureka College, are running hard.

FORD NEEDS A win here badly to go the rest of the primary route. And a strong showing for Reagan can do wonders for his fledgling challenge.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, the Illinois Republican rumored to be eyeing the White House, has said, "If President Ford can't win in Illinois, he can't win the nation."

A top Illinois Democrat mused, "I have often thought Ford made a great mistake even talking about the primaries. He should just sit where he is and say 'I'm the President of the United States and I'm going to be your candidate.' He's got nothing to gain in the primary."

To most Illinoisans, the real action is over in the Democratic primary — not among the cluster of strangely reluctant presidential aspirants but between a maverick governor and a party wheelhorse going after his job.

AT LEAST ONE highly-placed Republican worries that the matchup between Gov. Daniel Walker and Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett could lure independent-minded Republicans into the Democratic brawl and polarize the Ford-Reagan contest.

Walker and Howlett make a classic combo. .

Walker is a former Chicago corporate attorney who decided to become a politician, tied a bandana around his neck and literally walked his way to the governor's mansion four years ago.

He hoofed the length of the state and displayed an instinct for the political jugular, snapping at party satrap Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago and charging his opponents were out to raise state taxes. Walker is a masterful manipulator of television and is reputed to spend his off-hours dreaming of life in the White House.

Howlett is an Irishman from Chicago's West Side. He is a professional politician who looks like one and talks like one. But he has made a creditable record in various state offices and has built a solid, broad base of support in downstate Illinois which gives him a measure of independence from the Daley apparatus to which Waker seeks to tie him.

BOTH KNOW HOW to fight rough, and are fighting now, but two senators who say they are not running for anything — Illinois' Adlai E. Stevenson and Minnesota's Hubert H. Humphrey — are likely to score the most Democratic presidential points in Illinois.

Daley invited Stevenson to be his and Illinois' favorite son candidate. Stevenson politely declined. But UPI has learned delegate slates are being drawn up in his behalf, presumably with his compliance.

Party leaders believe that if Stevenson does not put a stick in the spokes he could wind up with the lion's share of the pivotal Illinois delegation when it goes to New York in July.

At least some of the same leaders think Humphrey will be sitting pretty for the top spot by that time, with Stevenson a strong vice presidential possibility.

These conclusions are based in part on interviews with two of the most informed politicians in the state. One is a Democrat and the other a Republican. Both are and will be intensely involved in what will happen next March and afterwards.

BOTH ARE PROS and agree that:

• Ford has the support of the Republican establishment, although it contains plenty of closet Reaganites, but Reagan has deep pockets of strength in four to six congressional districts and has been coming strong in recent weeks.

• At this point, the Democratic presidential tussle in Illinois ranks lowest on the interest scale.

Only four of the pack of candidates seriously have talked about getting in, with Washington's Sen. Henry Jackson apparently the most determined. All four have said they will stay out of Daley's Chicago in their campaigning.

This reflects a quirk in Illinos primary laws.

Until recently, the Illinois presidential primary tended to be a cakewalk for front-runners who hardly bothered to show up and a showcase for also-rans rarely heard of afterwards.

THIS WAS because the Illinois primary was strictly a "beauty contest" which committed nobody to anything. Now there are actually two primaries — the beauty contest and another one for delegates who supposedly are committed to specific candidates.

"Except they aren't," the Republican source said. "It's sort of a matter of honor where you stand, and the election of delegates can depend on a lot of petty jealousies and bickering."

The Democrat agreed, "It's difficult to tell where the Illinois delegation will be in July."

Win elections? Hardly, minority parties concede

At least four minor political parties will try to get on the Illinois ballot next November, but their spokesmen acknowledge they are more interested in a soapbox for their ideologies than in winning the election.

While three of the parties — Communist, Socialist Labor and Socialist Workers — have been on the ballot previously, none has garnered a significant number of votes for a statewide office in Illinois.

Losing doesn't seem to bother them, however, and they reject the idea of forming a coalition to become a more potent leftist political force, even though they share basic goals. While Democrats and Republicans constantly shift and regroup to increase their odds of winning, the minor parties remain ideologically pure.

"THE REASON we're on the ballot is to preach our program," said Elizabeth Schnur, 87, who has been in the Socialist Labor Party 45 years. "If our candidates were elected, their job would be to abolish the political state. They would never take office. By the time people are ready to make change, it won't be through the ballot."

Mrs. Schnur said her party has made progress since she joined. "We used to have to explain why we needed a change, and now people just say, 'How can it be changed?' Capitalism is cracking up. They can see it every place in society."

Communists agree that capitalism is on its way out, but they're interested in reforming it while it lasts.

Jack Kling, Illinois-Iowa secretary for the Communist Party, said his group cannot merge with either of the Socialist parties because both of them snipe at the Soviet Union, neither is interested in reforming capitalism and neither is really into the fight against racism.

"WHILE WE RECOGNIZE we agree on certain things, there are fundamental disagreements," he said. "We feel the disagreements are so strong we do not see a basis for cooperation. We are not able to compromise on principle."

Kling said the Communists use political campaigns "to bring forth more clearly the issues the people face. We use it for an educational campaign."

The Socialist Workers Party sees itself as more activist than either of the other two because it joins in demontrations and rallies and works for such causes as the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and school desegregation.

Although Socialist Workers occasionally work with Communists on issues, they look with disdain at the Socialist Labor Party.

"They're not a political grouping, really," said Joel Britton, Chicago organizer for the Socialist Workers. "They're an irrelevant little church, compostd primarily of old people. They're a socialist church."

Britton said his organization takes part in the elections "to get our ideas out and to garner as large a vote as we can."

The fourth group planning to run a statewide slate of candidates is the U.S. Labor Party, an offshoot of the old Students for a Democratic Society. It has not been on the state ballot before, has no deep political roots, and seems most interested in pursuing conspiracy theories involving Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. Winning elections is a low priority.

Although all four parties plan to run full slates of candidates in next November's elections, Illinois law sometimes makes it difficult for them to get on the ballot.

UNDER THE LAW, any party which receives less than 5 per cent of the vote in an election must re-register next time around as a new political party and obtain 25,000 signatures to get on the ballot, far more than is required of Democratic and Republican candidates.

Communists have had an especially difficult time since all candidates were required until 1972 to swear a loyalty oath which they refused to sign. When that requirement was stricken by the courts in 1972, the Communists appeared on the ballot for the first time in decades.

Socialist Worker candidates also began appearing on the ballot in the 1970s, having had trouble obtaining enough signatures on petitions before. Socialist Labor candidates have been running in elections in Illinois since the 1890s.

In recent years in Illinois, both of the socialist parties have done better than the Communists.

IN 1972, WHEN the Socialist Workers were ruled off the ballot for technical reasons, the Communist candidates for governor got 4,592 and the Socialist Labor candidate 7,966. That year, the largest vote garnered by a minor party candidate was in the U.S. Senate race, where the Socialist Labor party got 13,384 and the Communist, 6,103.

Last year, the Socialist Labor party was ruled off the ballot for technical reasons. The Socialist Workers got 12,413 for the U.S. Senate compared to 5,873 for the Communists. And the Socialist Worker candidate for treasurer got 20,240 compared to 8,070 for the Communist.

Beer belly needs trim

In reference to your column on weight control I would like to know what is best to reduce the size of my stomach. I am 5 feet 9 and weigh 180 pounds. The extra weight is in my stomach.

I enjoy my beer, and because of beer or overeating at times, my stomach bloats and I have to take a vegetable compound to keep my bowels regular.

I have a herniated disc and I am limited in work and activities. I do not prefer surgery and was sent to a rehabilitation center for physical therapy to strengthen my back muscles. I have attended for seven months and I feel fairly good most of the time, but when gas in the stomach builds up, it puts pressure on my back and I am just barely able to get around. Any advice would be appreciated.

You won't like the advice. Stop the beer. The way to get rid of a beer belly is to get rid of the beer. You really can't be successful in reducing the waistline if you have a lot of fat in the abdomen and around the abdomen. You just can't compress fat into something smaller. That is why exercises, as valuable as they are, can do so little for a truly fat abdomen unless you reduce.

If you are successful in getting the excess fat out of and off your torso, then exercises that strengthen your abdominal muscles will help shrink your waistline. Some of these exercises to strengthen your abdomen will also give your back support. You should be able to get help with these from the physical therapy department where you are now receiving treatment.

People who have back problems should not begin exericse programs without the approval of the type of exercise by their physician. Those who want more information on how to reduce the abdomen can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding the Big Middle. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I would like to know how dangerous smoking a pipe is to your health. Recently I started smoking one. I know the hazards of cigarette smoking but not that of a pipe. I do not inhale very much.

Studies in the United States have not linked pipe smoking to heart disease or some other ills of tobacco. But Sweden's famed Karolinska Institute in Stockholm studied the problem and found a higher rate of heart attacks in pipe smokers than in non-smokers.

The differences in observations in the United States and Sweden are probably related to the difficulty in finding a population of pipe smokers to study over a period of time in the United States.

Studies in the United States though show that if a cigarette smoker quits and changes to cigars, he may continue to inhale. Inhaling a cigar and probably a pipe is more dangerous than cigarette smoking. The usual virgin pipe or cigar smoker doesn't inhale and this provides his protection. If you smoke anything and want to avoid most of the health hazards involved, don't inhale at all.

Make habit to read labels on garments

If you still think that when you buy a pair of corduroys or blue jeans, all you have to do when they're soiled is toss them into the washer with no concern, stop and read. Read the label when you buy. Materials have changed markedly.

I ran into it when visiting one of the brood. Hemmed a pair of jeans and a pair of corduroy slacks. Fortunately, the excess was left on. The astonishment came with the first washing. Both hems pulled off, the edges shredded. A quick recap disclosed that they needed to be washed gently by hand or in the machine with warm sudsy water. A check with the store revealed, further, that with changing materials there needs to be prewashing or there can easily be major shrinkage. The way children grow it's hard to expect more than a season out of their garments. Even so, with fibers and materials changing constantly, every one of us had best get the fixed habit of examining labels — and ever so carefully.

Dear Dorothy: I have a good pot roast recipe which cooks the roast in foil. It's delicious, but I think it would be more appetizing-looking if it was brown. Can it be browned after taking it out of the foil? —Sallie Cramer.

Why not brown the roast first under the broiler? Not only does this give it a brown, crusty look but a lot of the excess fat comes off in the broiling. Then go to the cooking in foil.

Dear Dorothy: I have candle wax on several pieces of linen. Can you tell me how to remove it? —Mrs. K.M. Johnston.

Scrape off the material with a dull knife. Then place over and above the stain white paper towels. Press with a barely warm iron, moving the paper as the grease stains it. A good cleaning solvent should take care of any stain left. Then go ahead and launder.

Of fin and feather

She'll duck out on fowl

by GRACE CAROLYN DAHLBERG

We moved to southern Illinois last spring and at once my husband was regaled with stories of great fishing from the numerous wild and as yet uncrowded manmade lakes and the fabled duck and goose hunting. "Why, the fish and birds practically fall into your hands," the old-timers advised him. "Just wait until the seasons start — you'll see."

My husband doesn't hunt, but he does like to fish, and I have to admit, those bass and catfish he brought home flopping fresh, dipped in corn meal, then fried, were gourmet fare.

Came hunting season. The first day he brought home two mallards given him by a friend at work. Mercifully, he had cleaned them elsewhere, so that when I saw them they looked almost meat market sterile. Somehow, there isn't anything too sad about a decapitated fish, but a beautiful bird which once soared in the autumn blue is another kettle of fish — er, bird.

DUCKS HAVE a way of multiplying, even when shot, and hunters started leaving them on our doorsteps, having run out of relatives and friends who were willing to clean them, rationalizing that we poor ex-city people would be more appreciative.

At first, my husband cleaned them without complaint, anticipating a duck dinner, but as I said, they multiply, like Murphy's law, to fill all available time. One night we found six ducks on our doorstep, feathers, innards and all, with a note: "Thought you might like some ducks shot just this afternoon. Be sure to clean them right away." (The signature was so illegible we couldn't return them.)

"No more," declared my husband. "I simply can't clean one more duck. It gets to you after awhile and you don't even want to see them on the table. Not even with the orange slices and the wild rice bit. Try to give them away, and let's have a steak."

YOU MAY AS well try to give away a case of the smallpox around here. Everyone and his uncle, and even his uncle, go duck hunting. But away I trudged, three mallards dangling from each hand, door to door offering — no, pleading — with the neighbors for acceptance of my albatrosses. "Oh, no, thanks, we don't eat duck." "No way — we just cleaned and froze a dozen yesterday." "If my husband or anyone brings one more duck into this house I'll . . ." I scurried home before I could hear the rest.

Suddenly my eyes fell upon our new neighbors across the street just moved down from the Chicago area, too. "Aha," I thought to myself, "they haven't had time to learn about duck multiplication yet." With a welcoming smile and my feathered appendages I greeted the man of the house and offered him my gifts.

"Oh, my," he exclaimed gratefully, and called his wife to see what Lady Bountiful had brought. She was not quite so enthusiastic. "How do we clean them?" she asked. (Hm-m-m, smarter than I had thought.) I didn't go into the intricacies of duck disvesture, just mumbled something about marinade and celery stuffing. Then ran for home.

THE PHONE was ringing when I opened my door and a hearty outdoor hunter-type voice shouted, "Hi! I've got some great Canadian geese here, bagged four of them this morning, my brother and me, and we can't use more than two. What say I bring a couple over?" What say, indeed! He is a good customer of my husband's.

"Sure," I agreed as cheerfully as possible with my handkerchief clenched between my teeth. "We haven't tasted goose in years." My husband opened the garage door and staggered at the sight of another brace of birds awaiting ablutions — and on the night of the big football game he had been looking forward to on TV.

"It was your idea to move to southern Illinois, home of fabled hunting and fishing," I reminded him. If we find a deer on our front porch some morning, I'm taking the next plane north.

Food allergy can disable, even kill

By CLAUDE A FRAZIER, M.D.

She was middle-aged, married and allergic. She had eaten a few sunflower seeds given her by the lady under the next drier. "Good," she said. A few minutes later, her throat swelling, she started up out of her chair crying, "Get a doctor, I'm going to die." She collapsed and died before anyone could help.

Her death was a severe allergic reaction that produced marked edema in the throat and chest area and cardiorespiratory failure. She could not breathe.

The victim had suffered from multiple allergies all her life, but sunflower seeds had not been on her list of foods to avoid.

HER CASE IS rare. But food allergy can cause chronic illness, discomfort, unhappiness and marked disability.

Another possibility is reaction to a natural chemical toxicant in food.

We're not sure why some people are allergic and others are not. We suspect a genetic tendency runs in families. Statistics support this theory.

There are other factors. If you feast upon a certain food in great amounts and frequently, you may find you are allergic to it. For example, fresh strawberry shortcake, strawberries and cream, strawberry pie.

Allergy to cow's milk turns up often in infants.

Headaches in the older child or adult may replace the loss of appetite of infancy. A child may also develop allergy to inhalants such as dust, pollen or animal danders.

Infection appears to lower tolerance.

MILK, EGGS, WHEAT, chocolate, nuts, fish and shellfish, berries, peas, citrus fruits and corn head the list of potent allergens. Other common foods must be considered possible sources of allergy. One child's allergy improved but did not stop after food allergens were withdrawn. Then, the toothpaste the family used was found to contain small amounts of the allergens!

Sudden weather changes appear to trigger some existing allergy.

I lean to the concept that emotional disturbances trigger an existing allergic condition.

Symptoms can range from swift and sometime fatal anaphylactic shock to headaches and a stuffy nose or even mild indigestion. Reactions can take place in almost any tissue. In the mouth area for example, itching, burning and swelling of lips, tongue, gums and pharynx can occur, along with canker sores, bad breath and bad taste.

Food allergy most often begins as eczema or hives or angioedema, or giant hives. Angioedema can even bring about death by obstructing the airways, as in the case of the woman allergic to sunflower seeds.

HEADACHE IS A common manifestation of allergy of the nervous system. Allergy to food may alter personality and affect behavior. We believe it is caused by an allergic reaction, much of which is unrecognized. The victim may be penalized for unruly or strange behavior when he really cannot help himself.

Such allergy may be a response to the manmade chemicals in our food, water and air. Psychiatrists are experimenting with diets to aid disturbed, depressed and aggressive patients.

Controversy surrounds the role in hyperkinesis of food additives and foods that contain salicylates. Hyperkinesis is a behavior disorder in children. It has been treated widely with amphetamines, stimulant drugs that in true hyperkinesis have the opposite effect, whereas tranquilizers are more apt to agitate.

TO FERRET OUT what causes symptoms, we place the patient on an elimination diet to clear his system of lingering allergens. We reintroduce foods, one at a time. If symptoms reappear, we run several more trials. If one food still appears to be the culprit, we recommend the patient avoid it. He may be able to eat it a few months or a year later, but he will probably always have to eat that particular food in moderation and infrequently.

In addition, pesticide residues, antiobitic traces, and insect and rodent debris may be at fault. For some, they may start an allergy disease.

(Dr. Claude A. Frazier, of Asheville, N.C., is an allergist and author of "Coping With Food Allergy" (Quadrangle). The above is condensed from a speech he delivered in Chicago.)

We believe it is caused by an allergic reaction, much of which is unrecognized. The victim may be penalized for unruly or strange behavior when he really cannot help himself.

Such allergy may be a response to the manmade chemicals in our food, water and air. Psychiatrists are experimenting with diets to aid disturbed, depressed and aggressive patients.

Controversy surrounds the role in hyperkinesis of food additives and foods that contain salicylates. Hyperkinesis is a behavior disorder in children. It has been treated widely with amphetamines, stimulant drugs that in true hyperkinesis have the opposite effect, whereas tranquilizers are more apt to agitate.

TO FERRET OUT what causes symptoms, we place the patient on an elimination diet to clear his system of lingering allergens. We reintroduce foods, one at a time. If symptoms reappear, we run several more trials. If one food still appears to be the culprit, we recommend the patient avoid it. He may be able to eat it a few months or a year later, but he will probably always have to eat that particular food in moderation and infrequently.

In addition, pesticide residues, antiobitic traces, and insect and rodent debris may be at fault. For some, they may start an allergy disease.

Nine area women named chairmen of UCP march

United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Chicago has appointed nine suburban women to serve as chairmen of their communities for the annual 53-Minute March on Cerebral Palsy Sunday, Jan. 18.

Arlington Heights chairman is Mrs. Barry Morgen; Des Plaines, Mrs. Don R. Miller; Elk Grove Village, Mrs. Don Pollitz; Hoffman Estates, Mrs. Kenneth Moeller; Inverness, Mrs. Dan Wachs; Mount Prospect, Mrs. Fred Hardman; Palatine, Mrs. Robert Tegtmeier; Rolling Meadows, Mrs. Philip Klein; Schaumburg, Mrs. S. Charles Gekas.

So named from an estimate that one child with the cripping disease is born every 53 minutes and because volunteers collect funds from door to door, funds obtained in the 53-Minute March will go toward research, prevention and improving treatment methods of cerebral palsy.

Ask Andy

A star is born to replace the old

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Sharon Carter, 12, of Don Mills, Ont., Canada, for her question:

WILL THE STARS EVER BURN OUT?

The stars in our sky inhabit just a small corner in the mighty galaxy. They were there in more or less the same patterns thousands of years ago, all the while burning themselves out. However, even when our old favorites all die, there still will be stars in the sky. For new stars are being born to replace them.

The average star burns up its basic fuel at a fantastic rate. It is, of course, a stupendous nuclear furnace, and its basic fuel is hydrogen gas. Our sun, for example, uses about 564 million tons of hydrogen fuel every second. It has been blazing away at this extravagant rate for about 5 billion years. So far it has consumed no more than half of its original fuel.

An average star starts out with enough hydrogen fuel to last perhaps 12 billion years. But this depends on how fast it burns. A huge star tends to be hot and bright, and it burns up its fuel at a great rate. If it is about 10 times more massive than our sun, it may burn itself out in a few million years.

A star that lives a long time is usually a small one, perhaps about one-tenth as massive as our sun. It burns more slowly, and its fiery furnace may have a life expectancy of 500 billion years. However, at long last every star comes to the end of its fuel and the blazing furnace finally becomes a dark ball of cold, dead ashes.

Astronomers tell us that the final phases of a star's life may be very dramatic. As the fuel runs low, the core of the star shrinks and becomes even hotter. The outer shell of gases becomes cooler and spreads out to form a giant red star. This phase lasts until the whole star collapses, growing hotter and heavier.

Perhaps the collapsed star will explode. For a short while it becomes a supernova, bright enough to outshine all the other stars in the galaxy. Its shells of outer gases continue to expand through outer space. The core becomes a white dwarf star, so dense that a thimble full of its material weighs 100 tons. The white dwarf, no bigger than a planet, continues to burn up the last of its fuel. Then at last its fiery furnace goes out and the star dies.

Meantime, dramatic events are happening in other parts of the universe. Here and there a vast cloud of hydrogen condenses into a huge ball, perhaps surrounded by several smaller balls of material. When things are just right, the big ball ignites a nuclear furnace — and becomes a brand-new blazing star. Perhaps it sheds its first beams on a family of planets — and a whole new solar system comes into being.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Tracy Tausch, 13, of Sarasota, Fla., for this question:

HOW DID UNCLE SAM GET STARTED?

In 1961 Uncle Sam became an official national symbol by an act of Congress. He is displayed, as we know, as a lanky Yankee with a skinny white beard, wearing his stars and stripes with a tall top hat. The whole idea got started in the early 1800s. Sam Wilson was proud of his job as Army meat inspector. To show the world that each package of salted meat had been approved by the United States he stamped on a large US.

But the war was not altogether popular. Protesters in certain Northeastern states showed their disapproval by referring to Sam Wilson's US as Uncle Sam. A newspaper in Troy, N.Y., published a sketch of an Uncle Sam character. There was an Uncle Sam storybook and an Uncle Sam clown suit. When the war ended, the character became more popular. And through the years, Americans have grown very proud and very fond of their Uncle Sam character.

Kipling story reworked into 'bloody good' flick

by DAVID DUGAS

(A review)

Mid-week review

It has taken John Huston a long time — 25 years by his own reckoning — to bring Rudyard Kipling's short story "The Man Who Would Be King" to the screen.

He first wanted to film it — in between "Treasure of Sierra Madre" and "The African Queen" — with Clark Gable and Humphrey Bogart as the renegade British sergeants who seek their fortunes in remote Kafiristan. Since producer John Foreman earlier was responsible for "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," one imagines the names of Newman and Redford eventually came to mind, too.

Happily, Huston finally has realized his ambition with the pretty much perfect teaming of Sean Connery and Michael Caine. Christopher Plummer is excellent as Kipling himself and it's a bloody good show.

THE STORY, set in the 1880s when Kipling wrote it, has Connery and Caine setting out from India to loot a reputedly rich mountain kingdom. So far so good. But the naive natives eventually mistake Connery for the son of their last foreign visitor, Alexander the Great, and proclaim him both their god and king.

He relishes the motion, a fatal error.

Huston shot nearly all of "The Man Who Would Be King" in Morocco, which performs splendidly for Kafiristan, as northeast Afghanistan was then called. And there is a fine supporting cast including standout performances by veteran stage actor Saeed Jaffrey and Moroccan actor Doghmi Larbiuas an ex-Gurkha soldier and tribal chief respectively.

EXCEPT FOR A quick turn by Caine's wife Shakira, a former Guyanan beauty queen, in the no-dialogue role of Connery's bride-to-be, there are virtually no women on view. But that's the story. At least one is spared the nonsense of an artificial female role such as Candice Bergen's in another recent Connery vehicle, "The Wind and the Lion."

Kipling first caught on in Hollywood at the time of his death in 1936. In the following three years five of his stories were turned into films. Two more appeared in 1950-51: "Kim" with Errol Flynn and "Soldiers Three," a reworking of "Gunga Din," with Stewart Granger, Walter Pidgeon and David Niven. "The Man Who Would Be King" is the first Kipling movie since then and it's a high-spirited, stylish addition to the list.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The standard notrump opening with 16 to 18 high-card points and 4-3-3-3, 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 distribution has been practically unchanged since first suggested by Oswald Jacoby in 1933.

The Stayman convention, as invented by Sam Stayman and George Rapee around 1942 or 1943, uses the two club response to an opening notrump as an artificial forcing bid. The opener rebids two spades with four or more spades, two hearts with four or more hearts and two diamonds without any four-card major. The convention has achieved almost universal acceptance.

If not using Stayman, North would simple raise one notrump to three with his 11 high-card points and balanced hand. Stayman enables him to check to see if his partner has four spades in which case he expects a spade contract to be preferable.

He bids two clubs. Sure enough, South does bid two spades and North takes him to the only makable game contract.

Kipling story reworked into 'bloody good' flick

by DAVID DUGAS

(A review)

Mid-week review

It has taken John Huston a long time — 25 years by his own reckoning — to bring Rudyard Kipling's short story "The Man Who Would Be King" to the screen.

He first wanted to film it — in between "Treasure of Sierra Madre" and "The African Queen" — with Clark Gable and Humphrey Bogart as the renegade British sergeants who seek their fortunes in remote Kafiristan. Since producer John Foreman earlier was responsible for "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," one imagines the names of Newman and Redford eventually came to mind, too.

Happily, Huston finally has realized his ambition with the pretty much perfect teaming of Sean Connery and Michael Caine. Christopher Plummer is excellent as Kipling himself and it's a bloody good show.

THE STORY, set in the 1880s when Kipling wrote it, has Connery and Caine setting out from India to loot a reputedly rich mountain kingdom. So far so good. But the naive natives eventually mistake Connery for the son of their last foreign visitor, Alexander the Great, and proclaim him both their god and king.

He relishes the motion, a fatal error.

Huston shot nearly all of "The Man Who Would Be King" in Morocco, which performs splendidly for Kafiristan, as northeast Afghanistan was then called. And there is a fine supporting cast including standout performances by veteran stage actor Saeed Jaffrey and Moroccan actor Doghmi Larbiuas an ex-Gurkha soldier and tribal chief respectively.

EXCEPT FOR A quick turn by Caine's wife Shakira, a former Guyanan beauty queen, in the no-dialogue role of Connery's bride-to-be, there are virtually no women on view. But that's the story. At least one is spared the nonsense of an artificial female role such as Candice Bergen's in another recent Connery vehicle, "The Wind and the Lion."

Kipling first caught on in Hollywood at the time of his death in 1936. In the following three years five of his stories were turned into films. Two more appeared in 1950-51: "Kim" with Errol Flynn and "Soldiers Three," a reworking of "Gunga Din," with Stewart Granger, Walter Pidgeon and David Niven. "The Man Who Would Be King" is the first Kipling movie since then and it's a high-spirited, stylish addition to the list.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The standard notrump opening with 16 to 18 high-card points and 4-3-3-3, 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 distribution has been practically unchanged since first suggested by Oswald Jacoby in 1933.

The Stayman convention, as invented by Sam Stayman and George Rapee around 1942 or 1943, uses the two club response to an opening notrump as an artificial forcing bid. The opener rebids two spades with four or more spades, two hearts with four or more hearts and two diamonds without any four-card major. The convention has achieved almost universal acceptance.

If not using Stayman, North would simple raise one notrump to three with his 11 high-card points and balanced hand. Stayman enables him to check to see if his partner has four spades in which case he expects a spade contract to be preferable.

He bids two clubs. Sure enough, South does bid two spades and North takes him to the only makable game contract.
